Established 1887

sian suld the sent ong awy, smng Art a exrld ing est

nd eir 12t

Warsaw Diary: A Swift, Ruthless Crackdown

Renewal' Vanished Quickly With Sudden Imposition of a 'State of War'

By Henry Kamm Men York Times Service
WARSAW — What follows is sm account of what one reporter saw and heard from the begin-ning of the crackdown until he left Warsaw for Paris.

Saturday, Dec. 12: Saturday night, a young Polish man set off to visit his father to tell him that trouble had begun.

He had beard that the Warsaw regional headquarters of Solidarity had been raided and that communications had been cut. He invited three young women friends and this correspondent to go with him in a small car.

The Poles were cracking jokes.
The young man stopped the car
as close as he could to the union building a schoolhouse that the authorities had been obliged to turn over to Solidarity then the regime was on the defensive. He strode over to speak to the troops — from the tampopular military arm of the Interior Ministry, not the regular astray.

A trooper came to the car and was put off with smiles and jokes. Suddenly, a police officer bore down, bringing his vehicle to a screeching stop inches short

Shouting in fury, he ordered

Polish Envoy

Defects, Gets

J.S. Asylum

WASHINGTON - Poland's

ibassador to the United States,

muald Spasowski, has asked for sed Sunday. He said President

agan directed that asylum be on the ambassador and his fam-

Speaking on television, Mr. aig said Mr. Spasowski requested ylum Saturday for himself and s wife, daughter and son-in-law.

he president personally ordered

t government to move promptly provide asylum," Mr. Haig said dier Sunday, "We're going to be sy conscious for the [family's] icty and well-being."

Mr. Spasowski, 61, read a state-ant at the State Department Sun-ty that said he has asked for po-ical asylum because "a state of ar has been imposed on Poland.

state of war against the Polish nd military police had "begun an aprecedented reign of terror pinst the Polish people.

'Crael Night'

"The cruel night of darkness

id silence has spread over my mutry. Now, thousands of best has and daughters of the Polish ation are faced with the ordeal of oprisonment, in prisons, in thops ... my brothers, old and

June, men and women, face brute

are exposed to enormous

Mr. Spasowski, who has been shassador to the United States

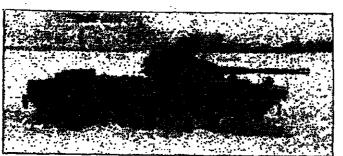

nce 1978, said Solidarity leader

sch Walesa had been arrested id was being held against his will.

firring," Mr. Spasowski said.

ie ... I cannot be alent." He

i d been granted political asylum the United States, Secretary of ate Alexander M. Haig Jr. dis-

A tank sits at a checkpoint on a road near Gdansk, which has been cordoned off since martial law was imposed.

danger. Many of those with whom it was possible to talk thought the crackdown showed that the internal security services of the Interior Ministry had re-mained fully intact during the period of "renewal" that began with the birth of Solidarity in August of last year. And they felt that those forces had played a major role in bringing "renew-

The people in Warsaw, whether intellectuals or laborers, thought Gen. Jaruzelski's crack-down was the result of long-standing pressure from the Sovi-

Some Poles conceded that Solidarity militants had made de-mands that no Polish government could grant. But many be-

VTENNA — Poland's shipyard

and mining industries were reported hit by resistance to martial law

Sunday although the authorities said the country was so calm that

The Soviet press agency Tass

said that Solidarity union militants

Warsaw Radio reported that oduction at the strike-hit Baltic.

shipyards at Gdansk and Gydnia

both Solidarity strongholds, had been suspended until after Christ-

Although the authorities ac-knowledged some disruption was going on, they said 95 percent of industry was working normally. The official press agency PAP said that because of the improvement of the situation, the martial law

curfew had been relaxed in some parts of the country.

Tass reported that Solidarity extremists had sabotaged the Ziemo-

1,300 miners were being held un-derground. Militants had blown up one entrance to the pit and threatened to destroy the other if authorities moved in police or

But a traveler arriving in Vienna from Warsaw said the pit had been strike-bound since martial law was declared Dec. 13 and that the min-

There was continuing speculation Sunday about the number of casualties caused by eight days of resistance in the mines and elsewhere Swedish radio quoted tra-velers as saying that 200 people had been killed in fighting since the military assumed control on

In Washington, State Depart-ment spokesman Dean Fischer said reports of more deaths than ers had barricaded themselves in.

troops, it added.

Dec. 13.

mine and "as a result" that had sabotaged the Ziemovit mine, in the southern province of Ka-towice, and taken 1,300 miners the curfew had been shortened.

al" to an end.

et Union.

the driver to move on. We stopped at the next corner, and seconds later the officer drew up in hot pursuit.

"Get out of here, or we'll pull you in with your car," he barked. "This is a state of war." It was not until three hours later that Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, the premier and Communist Party leader, officially an-nounced a state of war.

The Poles in the car drove off, leaving their friend with the In-terior Ministry soldiers, possibly in custody. Their dream of "renewal," and their courage, ended while most Poles were still dreaming about it.

As the situation evolved over the next five days, it became difficult for a foreigner to talk to Poles without exposing them to

Romusid Spasowski

and is resisting cooperation with the government, Mr. Haig said. He called on Polish authorities to give the union leader a free hand to contribute "his wisdom and expe-

Mr. Haig said there was "no

puestion" but that the Soviet Union was giving "cooperation and support" to the repression in Poland. He said Moscow should be

He said there were actions the United States might take, but de-clined to detail them. He hinted for the first time at the possibility of military measures, saying that there were "political, economic and security-related assets" that the United States could bring to

Asked if this meant some mili-

Mr. Haig indicated some cause

tary response, he declined to elab-for optimism that political reforms won by Solidarity in the last 18 months may remain, saying, "We cannot accept a doomsday theory that all is lost." He said he hoped the influences that had caused the

This is my expression of solidary with him," he said.

The United States believes that more democratic measures would

ir. Walesa is being confined at a continue to influence the govern-held responsible for any "excesses"

sistently negotiated with the union in bad faith and tried to undermine Solidarity's hold over the population by undercutting belief in the union leadership. Few seemed to accept govern-ment assertions that Solidarity overstepped reasonable bounds in its last leadership meetings in Radon and Gdansk

The proclamation of martial law was also assumed to have been the work of orthodox members of the party leadership, which includes the commanders of the internal security forces and the military forces. In the general view, repression would have taken place sooner or later regardless of what Solidarity

The authorities seized Solidarity's national leaders Saturday while they were in Gdansk for a meeting, and all local union headquarters were raided between midnight and dawn.

The security forces also rounded up intellectuals thought to have an influence over strdent and union activities, and they issued painstakingly de-tailed decrees. Many Poles felt that the precision of the crack-down indicated that the security forces had developed a well-laid plan and had been waiting for the right time to put it into ac-

The government rest house (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

the Polish government has ac-knowledged have been received from a number of sources. A department statement called on "the Polish government to cease its repressive attacks on Polish work-

"Increasingly," the statement said, "a pattern is emerging of us-ing Polish Army forces to seal off public areas and work places from outside interference while the armed security forces of the Ministry of Interior engage in often-vio-lent acts of intimidation and repression against protesting work-ers, students and intellectuals."

the Catholic Church in Poland said at least 200 Poles have been killed and about 1,000 injured. The figures, given by a priest to a tra-veler who arrived in the West on Sunday, were based on reports from various dioceses of requests from Catholic families for burials

The ruling military council in Poland has reported only that seven people were killed in the Katowice area Wednesday when po-

Jobs May Be Taken

ter arriving at a Swedish port from Poland that the towns of Katowice and Krakow in the south and the Baltic ports of Gdansk and Szczec-

in remained major centers of re-sistance to the military council. He said he had seen an official newspaper from Szczecin which announced that, beginning Monday,

the police would take over the jobs of thousands of dismissed dock-

Warsaw Radio carried a warning to farmers that food produce could be taken over if necessary by the authorities to ensure they reached markets. "We do not want

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

The Western source said just af-lice opened fire on protesters.

of relatives.

Figures reportedly compiled by

Poles Continue Strikes

At Shipyards, Mines

Outraged Begin Cancels Pact With U.S. in Golan Dispute

By William Claiborne

Washington Past Service
JERUSALEM — Outraged by U.S. punitive sanctions against Israel's annexation of the Golan
Heights, Prime Minister Menachem Begin announced Sunday that he was canceling the strategic cooperation agreement with the United States, and said Israel will never be intimidated into rescinding the amexation of the disputed territory.

It appeared to mark the lowest Mr. Begin was elected in 1977. In a scathing — almost livid — admonishment read to the U.S. ambassador to Israel, Samuel W. Lewis, and later tacitly endorsed Lewis, and later tacitly endorsed by the Cabinet, Mr. Begin said the United States was "priding" itself on punishing Israel with Friday's suspension of the strategic accord, which was signed three weeks ago in Washington.

"What kind of talk is this of punishing Israel? Are we a vassal state of yours? Are we a banana republic? Are we 14-year-olds who, if we do not behave, we get our wrists slapped? ... You will not frighten us with punishments," Mr. Begin told Mr. Lewis, according to the statement read to reporting to the statement read to reporters after the Cabinet meeting.

Mr. Lewis refused to talk with reporters afterward, and Israeli government sources said the amassador made no reply to Mr. Begin's statement. Also attending the meeting were Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, Army Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Rafael Eitan and the heads of various military intelligence branches

The prime minister's harsh dressing down of its principal ally

— a long and occasionally rambling declaration that dredged up
U.S. actions in Vietnam and recalled the inquisition of European Jews in the 15th century — also accused the Reagan administration of participating in an anti-Semitic campaign to win Senate approval of the sale of sophisticated military equipment to Saudi Arabia.

You are trying to make Israel a hostage to the memorandum of understanding [on strategic cooperation]. I consider your announce ment of the suspension of the discussions on the memorandum of understanding its cancellation. No sword of Damocles will hang over our head," Mr. Begin declared. Deputy Foreign Minister Yehu-da Ben-Meir said later that Israel would be prepared to renew discussions with the United States about reinstating the strategic cooperation agreement, but that the initiative would have to come from

Washington. Harder Line

Mr. Begin also accused the United States of conditioning its future participation in negociations on Palestinian autonomy in the West Bank and Gaza Strip upon Israel's flexibility in the peace talks and upon its restraint in taking military action in Lebanon. As if to signal an even harder line by Israel in the future, the prime minister said he would not agree to allow the approximately 100,000 Arabs in East Jerusalem to vote in the proposed election for an autonomous council. He also asked Mr. Lewis to inform Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig , that Israel will not start a war in Lebanon, but that if it is again attacked by the Palestine Liberation Organization, "we will respond with a counterattack."

Mr. Begin said the Reagan ad-(Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

U.S. Renews Opposition on Golan But Restates Security Tie to Israel

WASHINGTON — Senior Reagan administration officials re-iterated on Sunday U.S. disap-proval of Israeli annexation of the commitment to Israel's security.

Washington by Prime Minister Menachem Begin, Defense Secre-tary Caspar W. Weinberger spoke on television of a "temporary, very rough period" in the two countries'

Foreign Policy Crunch IsTesting Reagan Team By Bernard Gwertzman New York Times Service Mr. Weinberger said that "the basic commitment, the basic alliance between the United States and Israel is a strong and permanent one." He said it was "essential [to] keep a close working relationship with Israel, just as it is especially with Israel, just as it is especially with Israel, just as it is especially with Israel and Israel is a strong and permanent one." He said it was "essential to leave a close working relationship with Israel, just as it is especially with Israel, just as it is especially with Israel.

New York Timer Service
WASHINGTON --- At his press conference last week, President Reagan said, "I've come to the conclusion that there is a worldwide plot to make my job more difficult on almost any day that I go to the office."

Wry remarks aside, the administration did seem to be reeling from foreign policy shocks that carried portentous implications for East-West relations and Middle East peace. The foreign policy machin-ery, already in need of repair before the new strains, was severely burdened.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Mr. Reagan, who seems ill at ease with foreign policy, played a minimal role in day-to-day business. Mr. Reagan's senior staff has prevented Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. from taking charge, despite his considerable ex-

The main responsibility seemed to fall on Vice President Bush who has had little to do with daily foreign affairs decision-making.

As the administration considered the Polish events, it received a second shock. Mr. Haig, flying home because of the Polish situation, was shown a news agency report from Jerusalem. Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel was Golan Heights.

Lacking advance warning of the crackdown in Poland, Washington's cautious early reaction was not surprising. Mr. Haig seemed to go out of his way last Sunday to say there was no "firm evidence" to link the Russians to the Warsaw events. But next day reporters were told that the Russians must have been the catalysts.

And Mr. Reagan, speaking Thursday, said, "It would be naive to think this could happen without the full knowledge and the support of the Soviet Union — and we're not naive." But the accusation re-mained veiled and no actions were taken against the Soviet Union.

The weight of American pressure was on the Warsaw regime, as if it were able to move independently of Moscow. Future United States credits were suspended, American citizens were asked to leave Poland, and Warsaw was told of Washington's grave con-cern for the fate of Lech Walesa, the Solidarity leader, and thousands of others arrested.

Pact Suspended

U.S. tactics were selected, in part, to keep the Western alliance united. NATO countries have elaborate plans to punish the Soviet Union if it invades Poland trade embargo, downgrading of embassies and suspension of arms control talks. But there was no agreed response for strictly Polish

As for Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights, indignation in Washington was freely stated. The United States suspended its threeweek-old strategic cooperation agreement with Jerusalem, which provides for prior consultation on actions such as the annexation, and joined in the United Nations Security Council's declaration that the Golan annexation was "null and void."

Now Washington must weigh further steps, such as holding up aid, if Israel does not, in Mr. Reagan's word, "ameliorate" the situation. But American attempts to punish Israel risk Israeli reac tions such as renouncing talks with Egypt, refusing to return the last of the Sinai to Egypt in April and annexing the West Bank and Gaza

The two events eclipsed earlier prime foreign policy concerns. The purported assassination threats to Reagan from Col. Moamer Qadhafi of Libya and Washing-ton's warnings that the Soviet Union and Cuba have been interven-ing with Nicaraguan help in guer-rilla warfare in El Salvador were temporarily swept aside.

Strip as well.

Heary A. Kissinger, the former national security adviser and secretary of state, has said, "No new president can really know what kind of a 'team' he has until faced with such a crunch.'

The multiple crunch that abruptly appeared last week left the question unanswered.

will remain a close friend of the United States," Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said in a separate television appearance. "President Reagan recognizes ... the vital importance of our obligations to the people of Israel and our guarantees to the survival of that state. Nothing has changed."

sential we have a close working relationship with moderate Arab governments in the Middle East."

Mr. Haig said, however, that his remarks "should in no way be interpreted as a whitewash of our concern and disapproval that we felt and expressed" at the Golan Mr. Weinberger said of the U.S.

suspension of its recent strategic cooperation agreement with Israel: "We're trying to make clear that actions like this must carry some cost with them." "It is essential," he said, "that we have an understanding that these unilateral, pre-emptive types of actions which surprise us and surprise the world are matters which should not be allowed to pass lightly, particularly when they interfere with the peace process."

Mr. Haig reminded Israel that it has "mutual obligations, too," noting that President Reagan wanted to avoid "an atmosphere in which blank checks are available for the leadership in Israel.

He said the time had come "for the leadership in both countries to get to work to repair the damage" and continue with the Camp David peace process, "which this [Golan] action put in jeopardy."
Meanwhile, Howard M. Squad-

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Blood in the Night: Afghan Battle Boils Out of the Dark

The following dispatch was written a free-lance journalist who re-ntly spent six weeks in Afghani-

By Jere Van Dyk New York Times Service MAHALAJAT, Afghanistan — so days of fierce fighting in the indahar area between Afghan — millas and Soviet-backed govament forces ended Nov. 28. The guerrillas said it had been a most severe fighting since they ok up arms three years ago Ainst the Soviet-backed regime Kabul. Some said the governant forces had paid heavily, even high their own losses had been ere. For a travelor in the midit was hard to tell who, if anye, had won, In this sense, the tile seemed symbolic of this tily, but inconclusive, struggle. For a hand of 27 guestillas, the the had burst suddenly and unsectedly. The day before, they i returned from the border area Pakistan to the site of the hting — this village between ndahar, Afghanistan's second gest city, and the Americanilt airport now used as Soviet air to headquarters in Afghanistan. The guerrillas set up camp in a rage building on the outskirts of tillage. Their goal was to atnones as well as Soviet out-

Rebel Bands Team Up for 2-Day Fight in Their Costly, Inconclusive War

posts, alone or with other rebel bands in the area. They knew the Kandahar area well. For long periods, it had been under the control of the insurgents, at least at night. The guerrillas have a name for this kind of war. They call it shak-broom Afghan, or blood in the night. At 9 p.m. Nov. 26, a heavy artillery barrage began. It lasted an hour and a half, and shook the mud-brick walls of the farm building that served as camp headquarters. Firing continued sporadically through the night.

At dawn, after the men prayed, bowing west to Mecca, a column of tanks stretching for what seemed to be miles was sighted moving toward them. Ahmed Khan, the leader of the guerrilla group, ordered the men to bury their blankets, tea kettles and water containers, and move quickly up to what he called the front line where the cultivated vineyards gave way to the desert being stirred up by the tanks and ar-mored personnel carriers.

Mr. Khan, 45, is a tribal chiefrain who wears a black turban with silver threads, and habitually has a toothpick in his mouth. The men in his group were mostly in their 20s; the youngest were around 16.

The men had earlier complained about the scarcity of arms. They had with them two Soviet-made AK-47 automatic rifles and one Soviet pistol, which they seized in battles. In addition, each had a heavy, 80-year-old, 303-cal-iber Lee-Enfield single-shot rifle. As the group set off through the narrow lanes that wound between hundreds of mid-walled houses, there was penic among the civil-ians. A wave of old men and wom-en, girls, babies, sheep, goats and donkeys fled in the opposite direc-tion of the advancing forces.

As the civilians ran past, they shouted encouragement to the guerrillas, who call themselves majahidin. "Go with God" or "God is great," they said to the men.

Mr. Khan's group reached the belt of vineyards before the advancing government forces took up artillery positions infantry units. The dust clouds from the tanks and trucks seemed 40 feet high. They were closing in, but still a mile away.

The vineyards were divided into acre-sized plots encircled by mud walls, four feet high. In the center of each plot was a two-story structure used for drying the grapes, which are grown in four-foot-deep trenches that provided the guerni-las with cover. Mr. Khan divided his group in half, keeping some men in one of the storehouses, and sending others to take up positions behind one of the walls. The men moved into the trenches, where the harvested vines and some leaves provided scant cover. It was 9 a.m.

There seemed to be no visible communication with other groups. Yet, shortly before the exchanges of fire began, Sadul Den, a 22-year-old lieutenant in Mr. Khan's group, went to each man, and, with a ballpoint pen, wrote two names in Persian on the inside of their wrists: Mohammed Ashmed and Mohammed Sultan. These were the passwords that were to be used that day, and somehow this was being carried to all guerrilla units in the area.

As the sounds of the military vehicles grew louder, one of the men in the drying shed read from the Koran. Among the guerrillas was a man whose arms and legs had been tied together and his eyes blindfolded. He had come upon the group the night before, saying he was on his way to Pakistan and that he was hungry and needed a place to stay. Suspected of being a spy, he had been taken prisoner. Two Soviet MI-24 helicopter gunships began circling over the vineyards, but did not lire their rockets or high-speed machine guns. Minutes later, there was an opening burst of small arms fire as the Afghan infantry units ad-

Agha Mohammad, Mr. Khan's second in command, ordered the men to hold their fire. He told the men in the house to be prepared to were sure where the enemy troops were and the helicopters had gone. The aircraft finally did fly away, and although there was heavy cross fire, all the men in the house made it into the trenches, where they were pinned down for the rest of the morning by the Afghan troops supported by artillery and Pullback Ordered It was impossible to tell what the other groups were doing. Later, after the battle, guerrilla commanders said at least 700 mujahidin had taken part. There seemed to be more government troops.

After a few hours, Mr.

Mohammed ordered his men to pull back. As they inched along the furrows they linked up with another group armed with a Soviet-made, .50-caliber machine gun. The weapon, which was being fired furiously, bolstered the confidence of the withdrawing guerrillas, who took up positions and began firing back deliberately and accurately with their British rifles. The enemy troops were now visible. There were no Russians. The guerrillas believed Russians were flying the helicopters and directing or manning the tanks and artillery. The guerrillas were trying to pick off officers. At one point, a guerril-la shot an officer. As the officer fell, all his men turned and fled. The guerrillas said in other battles entire units of Afghan recruits defected after their officers were shot. It did not happen this time.

Instead, the firing continued inconclusively. By early afternoon, the Afghan ground troops seemed to have withdrawn, but the helicopters returned, firing their machine guns into the fields.

With darkness, the helicopters left, and the mujahidin moved back to their village carrying the dead or wounded. From doorways of homesteads, women peered out and wailed in mourning.

Of the 17 men who had been in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

A STATE OF THE STA

INSIDE

'China Counts'

A new activism and assertiveness is developing in China's diplomacy, as if to say: "Chi-na counts." After concentratmg largely on bilateral rela-tions for the past decade, Pe-king is now fashioning a major international role for itself and subtly reshaping its foreign policy as it does so. A news

Dozier Abduction

In Verona, Italy, six anti-terrorism experts from the U.S. Defense Department join forces with Italian police to hunt the Red Brigade kidnappers of American Brig. Gen. James L. Dozier from his apartment. Page 2.

EEC Challenge

Against a background of strained U.S.-European economic relations and threats of trade retaliation in Washington, Gaston Thorn, president of the European Commission. urges the Reagan administration to engage in "a real dia-logue, not baby talk." Page 3.

but advising them to offer no resistance to troops that storm them. Since Mr. Walesa is believed to be held incommunicado at a government guest house south of Warsaw, however, many people doubted the validity of the appeal.

War Shatters

Afghan Night

(Continued from Page 1)

the drying shed in the morning,

two were dead and two seriously wounded. The 10 who had been sent to take up positions at the wall had not been heard from.

taken from a dead guerrilla, and another Soviet pistol, from the Afghan major whom he had shot

The long day seemed to be ending.

And then, once again, came the noise of attack. Flares lit the sky, and tracer bullets flashed above the houses. Artillery shells began to thus. The villagers did not leave; there was no place to go.

The sounds of war could be beard through the night and into

as "bandits" were killed in fighting near Kandahar in the last week of November. The agency gave no

the next afternoon.

One guerrilla had a new AK-47,

Judith Dozier, wife of the kidnapped U.S. general, and her daughter, Cheryl, meeting with reporters in Verona, Italy.

U.S. Experts Join Hunt For Abducted General

VERONA, Italy — Six anti-ter-rorism experts from the U.S. Defense Department joined forces with Italian police Sunday in the hunt for the Red Brigades kidnappers of an American army gen-

The police possessed witnesses' descriptions of six of the eight or nine urban guerrillas who kidnapped Brig. Gen. James L. Do-zier from his apartment here Thursday, police sources said.

The sources said they believed that Gen. Dozier, 50, the second-highest ranking U.S. Army official in southern Europe, was facing fierce interrogation about his post as deputy chief of staff for logistics and administration at NATO's southern Europe land-forces headquarters in Verona.

There was also concern about Gen. Dozier's physical condition. He was clubbed with a pistol butt and then drugged by the group of at least eight men who got into his traces of his blood were found out- pating in the hunt.

On Saturday night, the guerrillas issued their first communiqué. They made no ransom demands. but branded the Western alliance as an occupation army and said the general was being held in a "people's" prison.

Italian newspapers reported that the abduction had stirred up old disagreements between President Sandro Pertini and Premier Giovanni Spadolini over Mr. Pertini's belief that the roots of Italian terrorism lay abroad, and specifically in the Eastern bloc. The premier's office denied that

In their written statement Saturday, the Marxist urban guerrillas called their hostage a Yankee terrorist groups in different countries, specifically mentioning West Germany's Red Army Faction, the Irish Republican Army, and the Basque ETA President Reagan, who described the Italian guerrillas as "cowardly bums," sent the six ex-perts Saturday to aid Italian police and counterespionage agents trying to track down the kid-

Italian state television said three of the American anti-terrorist experts were CIA agents with knowledge of European guernilla movements. The three went directly to

On Saturday, the police gave a more detailed reconstruction of the kidnapping, indicating that at least eight terrorists, including one woman, were involved.

the countryside around Verona continued Sunday and that the special six-man team of experts apartment. Unofficial reports said from the United States was partici-

In Perugia, 270 kilometers (167 miles) south of Verona, police reported that a second search had begun following an anonymous tip, but gave no details.

The general's wife, Judith, attended a church service at the chapel for U.S. servicemen and their families in the American school compound at the NATO base. She made a tearful broadcast Saturday night appealing to the Red Brigades to free her husband, a highly decorated Vietnam veter-

Mrs. Dozier's face was still bruthere were any differences, howev- ised from her efforts to raise an munist-led General Labor Con-federation (CGT) have called for a alarm after she was left bound and gagged by the kidnappers. The U.S. experts have already quesone-hour work stoppage on Mon-day. Contributions have poured in tioned her about the kidnapping, for food shipments to Poland. Although the level of protest has been considerable, particularly measured against the fairly sub-

Outraged Begin Cancels Pact With U.S. in Golan Dispute

(Continued from Page 1)

ministration had attempted twice before in the last six months to penalize Israel for actions it considered essential to its security when the United States suspended delivery of F-16 aircraft following Israel's bombing of the Iraqi nu-clear reactor and also following the Israeli bombing of PLO offices in central Reinit.

The U.S. sanctions announced Friday included a suspension of a commitment to purchase $200 million worth of Israeli-manufactured

"We read the history of World War II, and we know what happened to civilians when you took action against the enemy. We also read the history of the Vietnam War and your concept of body counts," Mr. Begin said. He add-ed, "We have always made efforts to prevent casualties of civilians, but at times this is unavoidable, as happened in the bombing of the PLO headquarters."

"Now you are still priding yourselves that you are punishing Israel. ... You have no right to punish Israel, and I protest the use of this term," the prime minister said.

Accessation of Anti-Semitism

Mr. Begin said that the campaign in the U.S. Senate to win approval for an arms sale to Saudi Arabia was "accompanied by an ugly, anti-Semitic campaign. First we heard the slogan, 'Begin or Reagan,' and then it followed that anyone who opposed the deal with Saudi Arabia supports a foreign head of state and is not loyal to the president of the United States. ... Afterward, we heard the slogan, We will not let the Jews determine United States policy.' What does this slogan mean?"

Mr. Begin likened the U.S. demand that Israel rescind the Golan Heights annexation to "a concept

DEATH NOTICE

Her friends regret to amounce the death of MARION HANNAH WINTER on December 15 at her Paris address, 88 Rue Michel-Ange, 75016 Paris. Cremation ceremony led by the Dean of the American Cathedral will take place in the Columbarium of Pere-Lachaise Cemetery on Monday, December 21 at 16:30.

of the days of the inquisition. Our forefathers were burned at the stake and did not rescind their ish mandatory authority over Palestine, Lt. Gen. Evelyn Barker,

"Now I live here. When we fought him, you called us terrorists and we continued to fight. After we attacked his headquarters in the condemned King David building, Barker said that this race will be affected only when we hit its pocketbook, and he ordered his British soldiers not to patronize lewish-owned cafes any longer."

statement by Sir Evelyn after Mr. Begin's underground Irgun move-ment bombed the King David Hotel, killing and wounding more than 200 people. The remark has been singled out as causing grave harm to Britain's position in Pales-

He recalled that during the Brit-

commander of British troops in the region, had lived in what now is the official prime minister's residence, where the meeting Sunday

Mr. Begin's reference was to a

U.S. Repeats Stand on Golan But Stresses Links to Israel

(Continued from Page 1)

ron, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, sent a telegram to President Reagan requesting a meeting "to discuss the apparent deterioration in the relationship between our country and our country's friend and ally, Isra-

Mitterrand Visit

From Agency Disposches PARIS - France indicated Sunday that it may be reconsidering the timing of a planned visit to Is-rael by President François Mitterrand, because of the Golan annexation. "The eventual consequences of the development of the situation in the region on the visit of the president will be evaluated after he United Nations debate at the beginning of January," the External Relations Ministry said. The ministry's statement added subject would be premature." This was seen as a reference to diplomatic reports a few hours earlier that Mr. Mitterrand had informed the Arab League Friday that he would postpone the trip. The diplomatic sources later said they stood by their version. They said Mr. Mitterrand preferred to delay announcing the postponement until international anger over the annexation calmed

Mubarak Statement CAIRO (NYT) - President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt called the U.S. response to the Golan annexation "encouraging" on Satur-day and said he hoped that "we can reach reasonable solutions regarding this problem so there will be no further escalation of differ-Questioned by reporters, Mr. Mubarak said Egypt remained firmly committed to the Camp Dathat "all other information on this vid accords and the Egyptian-Is-leadership in an isolation that The Communists, already badly PARIS - There was another seems to increase daily.

Divisiveness Among French Communist Party and trade union in Monday's protest strike.

By Richard Eder

New York Times Service

country, 41 years ago, where a re-forestall direct rule by a despotic

When the French look at what has been happening in Poland these days they think of Vichy and the late Marshal Petain. All the more, as the newspaper Le Matin pointed out Friday morning, because the military rulers of Poland are reportedly beginning to speak

The analogy to a time whose memory still afflicts the French and flavors a perfectly democratic political system with some odd

Manichaean extremes, is only one of several things that has made France's reaction to the Polish crackdown more emotional than anywhere else in Western Europe,

ernment to react more emphaticalraised serious questions about the future of its junior partnership in of the Poles to settle accounts

among the French?" Le Monde

signed by its editor, Jacques Fau-terming the Polish developments

an internal matter. Almost imme-vehemence by the widespread in-

President François Mitterrand

issued a statement vigorously con-team to Poland, and the prime and declarations from a wide variety of groups, with only the Communists holding aloof. A large pro-test march was held last Monday at the Invalides; and a mass rally

of the Socialists and other groups belonging to the democratic left

All the unions except the Com-dued reaction in other parts of Western Europe, a lot of it has been protest about protest. Rival political groups have spent a great deal of energy questioning each

An attempt to include the right as well as the left in Monday's demonstration fizzled when several extreme-left groups linked arms to keep the conservatives from joining the march. Since then there have been separate left and right

Socialist Party leaders justified

the separation by asserting that the conservatives were "morally excluded" because they had not previously denounced repression in Chile and Turkey. As for the right, its marchers carried placards claiming that Socialist rule would Even among the Socialists there has been bickering. A statement by a group of artists criticizing the government for not speaking out strongly enough was bitterly attacked by Socialist leader Lionel

Jospin. Before long, the altercation had progressed backwards to 1956 and to the question of who had been lukewarm toward the Soviet invasion of Hungary. Even if a good deal of the indig-

turn France into a new Poland.

others' motives.

The French government reacted

'Are we going to use the misery

in a rare front-page note

government with the Socialists.

and more divisive as well.

better right to do so.

of national betrayal.

Crisis in Poland Stirs Anger,

Not only have the other parties. spected military figure took over to both left and right, strongly condemned the Communists, but neighboring power; only to find there has been a growing trend to himself carrying out, in the name internal rebellion against the party of patriotism, virtually every repressive policy that the neighbor dictated. line. This has been strongest among the CGT, where a number of individual unions and at least nine members of the confederation's executive have announced niably there; and it has left the defiantly that they would take part hurt in the elections that brought Mr. Mitterrand to power, have clearly been weakened even further. In addition, with Socialist party leaders vigorously denouncing the Communists, the question is raised of how much longer Mr. Mitterrand will decide to maintain the government coalition, in which the Communists hold four Cabinet

Pursuit of Dissidents Continues in Prague

By R.W. Apple Jr.
New York Times Service

PRAGUE --- Seven senior members of Czechoslovakia's dwindling band of political dissidents are lan guishing in Ruzyne Jail, near the Prague airport, charged with subversion of the republic on a large scale and in cooperation with

It is a peculiarly inward-looking mixture of outrage and mutual re-crimination. It has pushed the gova foreign power." It is not known when, or even ly than those of its allies. It has divided the right and the left, not whether, they and seven others who have been charged but not im-prisoned will be brought to trial. over the question of whether to protest what is happening in Po-land, but over which side has the Western diplomats say they expect a major show trial soon after Jan. but Mecislav Jabiouski, a depu-Finally, and most important, it ty foreign minister, maintains that he is "unaware of any political trihas dealt a stunning blow to the already weakened position of the French Communist Party and als being prepared in Czechoslova-

The charges grew out of an at-tempt in April by two French Socialists to smuggle half a ton of literature and a portable duplicator into the country in a van. They were caught but later released. Mr. Jablonski said that they were also carrying "money and instructions on how to proceed in anti-state activities that could be exploited by anti-Communist émigrés.

at first with considerable caution, Jan Kavan, an émigré who lives in London, organized the shipdiately, it was pushed to greater ment. He denies that any money was involved, and he also rejects dignation that developed across the assertion, published by Rude most of the political spectrum; and Pravo, the Ezechoslovak Commumost particularly among its own Socialist and trade union supportnist Party's daily newspaper, that the two French couriers carried a list of names and addresses of recipients of the literature.

Under Czechoslovak law, posdemning the repression. French session of unauthorized literature representatives worked to beef up a European Community declaraor an unlicensed duplicating machine is illegal. Mr. Kavan argues tion, the government proposed that the International Labor Orthat such laws are invalid under the Helsinki agreement and the inganization send an investigating ternational covenant on civil and political rights, both of which Czechoslovakia has ratified. He minister's office took the unusual step of briefing the press on what French diplomats in Poland were calls the interception of the van "a pretext" for a crackdown on dissireporting.

There have been demonstrations

Both Rude Pravo and Prague Radio have been carrying detailed accounts of what they describe as "subversive plots" being hatched by emigres in London, Vienna and Rome. The Czechoslovak government apparently sees the dissident groups - Charter 77 and the Com-justly Prosecuted — as similar to KOR, the Polish civil rights group that helped start the Solidarity la-

At the moment, there are believed to be fewer than 1,000 active dissidents in Czechoslovakia, and they are under heavy pressure from the government.

According to informants here, the Czechoslovak police have resorted to brutality during interrogations in connection with the French smuggling case. Dissidents sources report that Zina Freund, a key figure in both Czechoslovak groups, was alone in her apartment at 2 a.m. on Oct. 13 when policemen burst in, blindfolded her, banged her head against a wall, kicked her, stepped on her feet, cut off some of her hair and ripped off her nightgown. Her husband was beaten in September. Mrs. Freund is one of those who have been charged in the case but have not been arrested. Among the others are some of the best-known activists in Czechoslovakia. including Jiri Hajek, a former foreign minister in Alexander Dubcek's government; Olga and Ivan Havel, wife and brother of the imprisoned playwright Vaclav Havel, and Miro Kusy, a philosopher.

Some Get Visas

The most prominent figures in jail are Karel Kynel and Jiri Ruml, two former journalists; Jan Mlynarik, a Slovak historian, and Milan Simecka, a writer and former professor who for the last decade has been forced to earn his living as a construction worker. Mr. Kyncl, 54, had decided shortly before he was arrested to move to England to join his son. He is reportedly ill with a stomach ailment incurred during an earlier term of imprisonment. Czechoslovakia often deals with dissidents by expelling them, but in some casthe government refuses exit visas for reasons that are not entirely clear to Western analysts.

Another member of the group charged with subversion, Jaromir Horec, was imprisoned for a time, but he apparently turned state's evidence some weeks ago and was

Polish Leaders Thank Brezhnev for Support

By Dusko Doder

Washington Past Service
MOSCOW — Polish leader Wojciech Jaruzelski has sent a telegram to Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, thanking him for his "understanding of the dramatic and difficult situation" in Poland and for Soviet economic aid.

"Polish society has been able to convince itself once again that at difficult moments it can always count on its Soviet friends," said Gen. Jaruzelski, Poland's premier, defense minister and Communist Party chief, in a telegram Saturday saluting Mr. Brezhnev on his 75th birthday. It also was signed by Po-land's head of state, Henryk Jablonski.

The two Polish leaders were absent from a weekend gathering in Moscow at which other Soviet-bloc eaders met with Mr. Brezhnev.

The Soviet president, in a speech Saturday, made no mention of the situation in Poland. But he asserted that the entire Kremlin leadership was behind his policies, making reference to "a united opinion about the goals of our policy, do-mestic and foreign, and about the paths leading to these goals." The remark seemed designed to reas-sure the Soviet public that there had been no top-level disagreements at a time of crisis.

Polish Pledge

The message from the Polish authorities pledged that the military council that took power Dec. 13 would remain faithful to the ideals of Socialism. Gen. Jaruzelski said Poland would apply "the universal principles of Marxism-Leninism to national Polish conditions."

Well-informed sources said talks between the leaders in Moscow focused on joint economic assist-ance to Poland. The sources said the main issue was emergency food supplies, presumably to shore up the martial-law government and help it gain a measure of public support.

The summit conversations were described as informal, apparently to avoid the need for a formal communiqué.

Mr. Brezhnev again received the Soviet Union's highest awards, the Order of Lenin and the gold star of a Hero of the Soviet Union. The leaders of Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Romania and Mongolia presented similar awards to him Friday.

A Tass dispatch from Warsaw on Saturday reported a continuing return to normal despite some dis orders. It quoted Polish authorities as saying there were still "serious difficulties" in obtaining supplies of raw materials and electricity but that "the work rhythm in industry is picking up."

But the Soviet media were dominated by the Brezhnev birthday celebrations, with roughly 75 percent of space in all newspapers devoted to personal tributes, reviews of Mr. Brezhnev's book and exhibitions devoted to his political ca-

A message from Soviet Georgia published in Pravda referred to him as the "recognized vozhd [su-preme leader] of the Soviet people," a term normally applied to

In a later speech Saturday, Mr. Brezhnev said the Kremlin leadership was united in supporting his policy of détente. He said, "Brezhnev's dedication to the cause of peace is to be explained by the fact that he speaks the thoughts and sentiments of the entire Soviet people and, of course, of the entire

Vatican Envoy Visits Poland As Pope Appeals on Rights

From Agency Dispatches
VATICAN CITY — A Vatican special envoy, Archbishop Lingi, Poggi arrived Sunday in Warsaw carrying letters for Polish Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski and the Polish bishops. The arrival was reported by Warsaw radio shortly after Pope John Paul II appealed again for a guarantee of human rights in Archbishop Poggi was later quoted by Warsaw Radio as saying on his arrival that the pope had sent him to Poland to make a report so that "he knows the situa-tion and may join with the Polish nation in prayers that it ends

The pope, apparently shocked by reports of a rising casualty toll in his homeland, prayed for those killed and wounded in the imposition of martial law. Archbishop Poggi has been in charge of contacts with the Com-munist countries of Eastern Enrope for the last eight years and has made many visits to Warsaw. Meanwhile, the Vatican radio broadcast a message by Archbish-

according to reports reaching the op Josef Glemp, primate of Po-land, which was to be read Sunday West about opinion in Poland. But Vatican sources saw the remarks from the pulpits of all churches in by both Archbishop Glemp and the pope, as well as Archbishop It said, "We are powerless in the Poggi's trip, as signs that the Vati-can and Roman Catholic bishops face of passions and evil but we in Poland are getting ready to try to play a more forceful role.

believe, despite this, that every-thing is in the hands of God and

Two members of the trade union Solidarity await interrogation at a police station in Warsaw. The picture was reportedly taken Dec. 16 with a hidden camera by another member of the union.

Warsaw Regime Reports Easing of Curfew

year and to convince people that their economic lot would be better despite the curtailment of civil liberties. Already, store shelves that were empty only a week ago are being stocked with meat, smoked fish, cabbage, carrots, beans, honey, cheese and pickled mushrooms.

The food appeared so quickly that many Poles believe the government had been hoarding it and were reported to have reacted with

Lech Walesa. For the past several days a pamphlet, signed by Mr. Walesa, has been circulating in the capital calling on strikers to con-

Anglican Leader

Plans China Visit

LONDON - The archbishop of Canterbury, spiritual leader of the world's Anglicans, is to pay an unofficial three-day visit to China

next month, his office said Sunday.

hold private talks "to establish personal relations with leaders of the church in China, and it is hoped they might lead to a full-scale official visit," said Terry

Waite, the prelate's adviser on for-first visit to China by an archbishop of Canterbury. Archbishop Runcie is to spend three days in Canton and Nanking entering

China from Hong Kong on Jan. 8 and returning there on Jan. 10.

Mr. Waite said this would be the Archbishop Robert Runcie will

(Continued from Page 1) to introduce a compulsory levy of agricultural produce," it said, but it added that sales had become imperative" and constituted "a patriotic duty for Polish farmers." In contrast to the reports of dis-ruption at some mines, Warsaw Radio said that nearly all the coal industry was working normally and that 559,000 tons of coal was were reported to have reacted with anger rather than gratitude. "It was there all along," said a Polish woman waiting in a long line outside a grocery store. "Solidarity was right all along."

There was again no word on the condition of the Solidarity leader mined Saturday. The barricaded mine is at Tychy, 10 miles (16 kilometers) from Katowice, capital of the province where miners were fired upon last week. The PAP agency report on the Ziemovit mine was carried by Tass but not transmit-ted on the PAP service monitored

At the Ziemovit mine, the agency said, miners "blew up one of the exits, as a result of which up to 1,300 miners are being held under-

"The second exit is mined and political criminals from Solidarity, blackmailing the authorities, are threatening to blow it up if the forces of public order are brought to the mine," the report said.

Food Shipped In

Meanwhile, The Washington Post said that huge food shipments had arrived in Warsaw from East Germany on Saturday in an apparent attempt to head off civil unrest. The report said there were increasing indications that a Soviet command structure has been installed in the Polish capital to assist the martial law government.

The Post report said Western intelligence sources had confirmed that four planeloads of Soviet military officers landed at Warsaw's Okecie Airport Wednesday night, supporting the belief of Polish sources that the Soviet Union has set up a military command structure to oversee the martial law op-

Although he is believed to have returned to Moscow, the Soviet nander in chief of the Warsaw Pact, Marshall Viktor Kulikov, was reported to have arrived in the Polish capital several days before the martial law decree was issued. Neighbors report unusual activity around a guest house for high-ranking, visiting Soviet officers near the Soviet Embassy. Emergency food aid had been urgently requested from all Soviet bloc countries several days ago by the government. Saturday, police cars with lights flashing led a convoy of at least 30 semi-trailer trucks through a blizzard into central Warsaw past crowds who stared silently. Some of the trucks had banners saving the food came from East Germany.

The authorities appeared to be hoping to blame the suspended un-ion Solidarity for the severe eco-nomic deprivations of the past

50 Fall to Death in Peru

United Press International LIMA - At least 50 Andean peasants were killed or drowned in ter the collapse of the makeshift plank bridge they were repairing over the Totora-Oropesa River. 400 miles south of here, reports said Saturday.

Archbishop Luigi Poggi

the Holy Virgin. We kneel before the Lord, supplicating that there should be no bloodshed as our country has never experienced fratricidal civil wars."

quarters as virtual submission by the church to the military council.

2,500 Seized by Egypt Since October CAIRO — Egyptian Interior Minister Mohammed Nabawi Ismail said Sunday that 2,500 people had been detained in a government crackdown on extremists following the assassination of President Sadat in October. He said at the People's Assembly (parliament) that the 2,500 were in said that those who were proven to be not guilty would be released as soon as possible. But he said that the number of detentions was not large "compared to the plan they had in mind, which aimed at turning Egypt into another Lebanon or Iran,"

MANAMA, Bahrain - Prince Nayer Ibn Abdul Aziz, the Saudi Arabian interior minister, announced Sunday that his country and Bahrain had signed an internal security pact. He also denounced the Iranian leadership for "exporting terrorism" to the Gulf states.

Prince Nayef said at a press conference that "King Khaled and Crown Prince Fahd [of Saudi Arabia] have instructed me to assure His Highness Sheikh Isa bin Salman al-Khalifa [the ruler of Bahrain] that the kingdom

He accused the Iranian regime of training, arming and financing a network of terrorists with the aim of undermining stability throughout the Gulf region. The minister said 13 Shiite Moslems from Saudi Arabia were under arrest here. They said that they had been "misguided and instigated by Iran" to sabotage Bahrain and other Gulf countries.

MADRID - Spanish Defense Minister Alberto Oliart was quoted Sunday as saying that a manifesto signed by 100 military men expressing sympathy for plotters of last February's coup attempt would not be the

In an interview with the Madrid daily Diario 16, Mr. Olian said a minority in the military did not accept the democratic constitution or grasp the role of a free press in a democratic society. "From them we expect actions similar to the manifesto." he said. "But we are ready."

The manifesto, released two weeks ago, criticized government and press treatment of the armed forces, attacked political interference in military affairs and supported the officers arrested after the coup at-tempt. Legal proceedings have begun against nine of the signers.

There was no random bombardment or -widespread destruction, but the psychological impact was severe. By nightfall on Nov. 28, the tanks had pulled back, the helicopters had pulled back to their back and ters had returned to their base, and the earth stopped quaking. The women waited, again.

The Afghan press agency reported Dec. 13 that 120 men described

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Blast Linked to Mugabe Meeting

United Press International

SALISBURY - The explosion in the headquarters of Prime Minister Robert Mugabe's ruling Zimbabwe African National Union-Patriotic Front was an attempt to wipe out all Zimbabwe's political leaders, party sources said Sunday.

The sources speculated that the bomb was intended to go off during a top-level party meeting Friday afternoon. But, they said, it exploded half an hour before the meeting's starting time. They said that the attack would not have succeeded even if the bomb gone off on time because the meeting had been canceled to give Mr. Mugabe and several Cabinet ministers time to prepare for a visit to Mozambique.

The blast, which killed six persons and injured 150, was caused by 20 to 40 pounds (9 to 18 kilograms) of explosives, police said. All the dead were killed in a bakery next to the headquarters when a wall collapsed on

2 Killed in Beirut Car Explosion

BEIRUT — Two persons were killed Sunday when a bomb exploded in their car in an area of Beirut where several Palestinian and Lebanese leftist groups have offices, Palestinian sources said.

Local residents said that the car appeared to have been turning a corner when it blew up. State radio said that the two persons killed had been in the vehicle. The Palestinian sources said that a man had been arrested, but they gave no further details.

After the bombing, artillery duels broke out in central Beirut along the line dividing the capital into predominantly Moslem and Christian sectors. There was no immediate report of casualties, but residents said that ## the exchange of fire was the heaviest for several weeks.

addition to more than 1,600 opposition politicians, religious extremists and alleged common criminals rounded up by Sadat in the month before be was killed at a Cairo military parade.

Asked why so many people were still being held, the interior minister

Saudis, Bahrain Sign Security Pact

places its entire potentials in the service of Bahrain's security."

Spanish Minister Criticizes Military

Archbishop Glemp's remark that the church is "powerless in the face of evil" is regarded in some last of its kind

Top EEC Official Urges 'Real Dialogue' With U.S. on Trade Issues

International Herald Tribune
BRUSSELS — Against a background of strained U.S.-European conomic relations and threats of trade retaliation in Washington. Gaston Thorn, president of the European Commission, has urged the Reagan administration to engage in "a real dialogue, not baby

Speaking firmly and at times aggressively in an interview at EEC headquarters here Friday, Mr. Thorn said that Europe had strong political and economic reasons for maintaining — and defending — its trading system, notably in the field of agriculture.
But the EEC is prepared to talk with both European steelmakers and U.S. officials in a bid to ease and possibly end a simmering con-troversy over rising and low-priced EEC steel exports to the United States, Mr. Thorn said.

The top EEC official declined to discuss a tough and critical speech on U.S.-European economic relations made last Wednesday by Robert D. Hormats, assistant sec-retary of state for economic and business affairs. Mr. Hormats warned of Europe's expanding protectionism and growing use of export subsidies, which he said are at the heart of U.S. trade problems with the Community Mr. Thorn said, "I do not want to put oil on the fire. This would bad for Western cohesion. which should now be stronger than ever." He added that, apparently. Mr. Hormats' speech to the Mid-America Committee in Chicago was primarily aimed at domestic consumption. He said that Reagan administration officials "are under pressure, perhaps from protection-

February Talks Disclosed

"We do not need or want a war of words, but we agree to have a real dialogue, not baby talk, so that we move toward solving problems," Mr. Thorn said.

He disclosed that the second in series of U.S.-EEC Cabinet-level talks on economic and trade issues would be held during February in Washington. The first meeting in which Mr. Thorn and U.S. Secre-

KOUROU, French Guiana -

The 10-nation European Space

Agency has successfully staged the fourth and final test flight of the Ariane satellite launcher. The lift-off took place on schedule Satur-day night from the ESA's base

The three-stage Ariane, which cost about $1.2 billion to develop and build, launched a Marecs-A European maritime communications satellite and a scientific cap-

It was the last free ride before the ESA begins limited commercial operations next year and starts earning a share of the space telecommunications industry market. With a handful of contracts already signed and now with three successful launches behind it, the West European space program plans to begin full commercial op-

Excessive Vibration

In June, Ariane's third test sent two satellites into synchronous

Earth orbit, helping to erase the impression of the disastrous sec-the ionosphere.

erations in 1983.

Ariane Rocket Launch

A Success in 4th Test

Jr. participated with their key aides was held in Brussels on Dec.

The EEC official said that the potentially explosive steel issue could be resolved by improving the trigger price mechanism. (TPM) according to diplomatic and industry sources in Brussels, would mean either raising Europe-an export prices in the U.S. market or holding back shipments. Both possibilities are being explored, the

According to EEC estimates, total exports of steel, including tubes, from the 10-nation area to the United States, will rise to 6 million short tons this year, from 3.8 million tons in 1980. This compares with 7.4 million tons export-

We understand the American problem on steel and relations [beiween the administration] and the steel companies. We have similar problems and we are trying to get the word across" to the EEC steel industry, Mr. Thorn said.

Dumping Charges Possible "The TPM needs to be revised and we want to talk about it to see if it can be improved," he said. The trigger price mechanism sets minimum prices for foreign steel sold in the United States. American steel companies allege that the Europeans are blatantly ignoring the trigger price mechanism, and this could shortly result in the filing of dumping charges against the Europeans, notably by the U.S.

In the view of senior U.S. and EEC officials, if European steel-makers go along with what one official described as "pricing sensi-bility," the lawsuits probably would not be filed. This could defuse but not eliminate the issue. The key officials handling the steel dispute are Etienne Davignon, the EEC commissioner for in-dustry and energy, and U.S. Com-merce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige. In sharp contrast to his approach on steel, Mr. Thorn gave no hint that the EEC would be flexible on questions related to ag-lifting off from here May 23, 1980.

He specifically responded to

ESA scientists said that they traced the failure to excessive vibration in the launcher's first stage

boosters and corrected the prob-out a hitch on Dec. 24, 1979.

The satellite's developers estimate that about 200 weather, civilian communications, scientific and nonoffensive military satellites will be launched in the next decade.

ESA hopes to corner about 30 per-already has firm orders from 15 countries for 22 satellites.

In a major breakthrough, two orders worth a total of $50 million were placed last week by the U.S.

firm General Telephone and Electronics Corp. The GTE contract is the first by a U.S. company for the al Aeronautics and Space Administration.

ESA is funded mainly by

launching of a satellite through an they doubted that any retaliatory agency other than the U.S. Nation-

The first launch went off with-

Senate Leaders Try To Persuade Reagan To Alter No-Tax Policy

By Howell Raines New York Times Service

WASHINGTON - Senate Republican leaders, in an effort to overcome President Reagan's resistance to tax increases and cuts in military spending, have given him a set of budget estimates showing mounting deficits over the next five years.

But earlier, Mr. Reagan met with House Republican leaders, who urged him to stand fast in his opposition to additional taxes. They argued that the income tax reductions enacted earlier this year, if left in place, would pull the economy out of recession. allegations made last Wednesday by Agriculture Secretary John R. Block before a Senate subcommit-

Gaston Thorn

tee that EEC farm export subsidies were impairing access and displacing U.S. farm products in third

Retaliation Considered

ington was considering retaliation against EEC products, but he did not specify them, nor the timing he

"I am fervently Atlantist and we believe in the same rules as you do,

but it is not simply a matter of it being all good over there and all bad over here... The U.S. spends as much as we do in helping farm-

Mr. Thorn, a former premier of Luxembourg, said: "How can you ask Europe to reduce its export activity when the United States has an agricultural export surplus with us of $7 billion? We also have more farmers than you and there is no need to recall that here in Europe we are facing 10 million unemployed...we cannot afford to increase that total by creating

He gave the impression — confirmed by senior U.S. officials — that the February meeting would focus on agriculture and could prove stormy. "We are ready to discuss these issues, market shares and aids, such as subsidies, but we are not increasing our market."

are not increasing our market shares, nor our profits," Mr. Thorn said, adding that "if there is confrontation, it will be a 'no' on our

'Internal Political Risks'

Commission was continuing to press member governments to reform the controversial Common

Agricultural Policy, notably by bringing its high commodity prices in line with world levels.

The reform effort involved tak-ing what he termed "big, internal political risks." a reference to strong opposition from powerful farm lobbies in France, Denmark succeed in "a climate of under-standing and cooperation," Mr. Thorn said, adding that Washing-ton will "have to be sensitive and sensible, since the important thing

Neither the EEC official nor others in the commission minimized the dangers of a transatlantic trade war. "The pressures and heat

are building up here and in Washington and they could get out of hand, which would be a disaster to both sides." a senior EEC official

However, Reagan administra-tion officials said privately that they doubted that any retaliatory could or would be taken before the

"We have 50 different ways of February meeting.

is to keep the trading open."

But EEC reform efforts can only and the Netherlands.

He also noted that the EEC

ers," Mr. Thorn said.

ioblessness on farms."

Mr. Block also said that Wash-

The conflicting advice on Friday reflected the fiscal and ideological battle now going on within the administration. It also showed the political pressures on the president's congressional supporters.

The Senate group, led by How-ard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, the majority leader, and Paul Laxalt of Nevada, went to the White House with deficit projections even larger than the recent budget office fig-ures that convinced Mr. Reagan he could not reach his goal of a bal-anced budget by 1984.

Alteration Urged

The Senate projections suggest-ed that unless the president altered his budget plans, the government would face deficits of $82 billion in the fiscal year 1982, $165 billion in 1983, $215 billion in 1984, $752 billion in 1985 and $299 billion in

After Sen. Baker and Sen. Laxalt had been with the president for 30 minutes, they were joined by Sen. Pete V. Domenici of New Mexico, chairman of the Budget Committee; Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Finance Committee, and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, chairman of the Appropriations Committee. A Senate aide described the initial session as low key. The Senate leaders, apparently worried that Mr. Reagan would lose the support of conservative members who will not tolerate high deficits, urged him to pare the deficit by proposing tax measures and clos-

g loopholes in existing tax laws. They also asked him to reconsider his refusal to accept any scaling back in the military buildup. Finally, they suggested that there had to be some cuts in politically sensitive entitlement programs such as Medicare, Medicaid and food stamps.

Loopholes Cited

Mr. Reagan was described as listening noncommittally. He said on Thursday at a news conference that he had "no plans for increasing taxes in any way." White House aides hastened to add that this would not rule out the closing of loopholes or the imposition of excise taxes on such products as alcohol and tobacco. Administration officials, including Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, who was in the meeting with the House leaders, have said they also hoped that Mr. Reagan homa, released Mr. Reagan from a 1983.

On Friday, Rep. English said he had not been asked to release Mr. Reagan, adding that the people of gas-producing states would not tolerate such a step. He said that if the administration wanted new taxes, it must be prepared to say that supply-side economics had

Reagan's Approach

The legislator added that those who advocated Mr. Reagan's approach of cutting income taxes by 25 percent in three years argued that this would produce economic growth and no deficits.

We cannot tolerate deficits in excess of $100 billion, and I certainly will not allow Oklahoma or the natural gas producers to bear the load just so the administration won't have to admit defeat," Rep. English said. In their visit with Mr. Reagan

the House Republican leaders tried to assure him that he would not have to admit defeat if he stuck with his original economic

Mr. Reagan met for an hour with Rep. Robert H. Michel of Illinois, the House minority leader; Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr. of upstate New York, the ranking Re-publican on the Ways and Means Committee; Rep. Richard B. Cheney of Wyoming, and Rep. Jack Kemp of upstate New York, a leading advocate of supply-side

A participant in the meeting said Mr. Reagan had affirmed his desire to avoid a tax increase. He said this in the presence of James Baker 3d, the White House chief of staff, and David A. Stockman, the budget director, who have been asserting in White House meetings that additional revenues were needed to keep the deficit from growing to unacceptable levels.

The participant said the House members urged Mr. Reagan to avoid any rollback of his tax cuts,

The House members were quot-

White House spokesmen have downplayed these meetings so as to avoid the appearance that Mr. Reagan's staff is trying to put pres-sure on him to accept tax cuts by scheduling sessions like the one at which the Senate members presented the high deficit figures.

Max L. Friedersdorf, the White

they also hoped that Mr. Reagan would reconsider his stand against decisions about what steps, if any, a windfall profits tax on natural to take in response to these estimates before Christmas. Then, he Earlier last week, Sen. Laxalt, a said, the White House staff will close adviser to the president, said the time before Congress retonvenes Jan. 25 in intensive work Glenn English, Democrat of Okla- on the budget for the fiscal year

Unions Demand Talks On Daily News Sale NEW YORK -- Unions have reand 4.7 million on Sundays. There was no immediate comment from The New York Post,

acted to the proposed sale of the money-losing Daily News, which has the largest circulation of any general-interest newspaper in the United States, by demanding an immediate meeting with its owner, the Tribune Co. of Chicago. George E. McDonald, head of the Allied Printing Trades Council, which represents the unions with contracts at the News, said on Saturday that the offering of the newspaper for sale by the Tribune Co. without consultation with the unions violated a previous agreement. "The workers have as much stake in the Daily News as the Tribune Co.," Mr. McDonald said.

An official of the Tribune Co. in Chicago said that, before responding, it wanted time to study the union statement. The News has been losing money steadily recently — at least $11 million this year — as more and more readers turned to television and suburban newspapers in the New York area.

Paper Might Be Shut

John Morton, a newspaper in-dustry analyst with the Wall Street firm of Lynch, Jones & Ryan, said Friday he doubted if another newspaper company would buy the Daily News. "It's conceivable there might be some oil company or someone like that," he said. Mr. Morton said that if no buyer was found within a matter of weeks he thought the Tribune Co. would simply shut down the paper. "I don't think it can be turned around, and I think that's the conclusion they have come to," he said. "I think the Tribune has decided the Daily News has no future and that's why they're putting it up for sale."

The Tribune Co. also publishes the Chicago Tribune, that city's biggest newspaper, and owns tele-vision stations and the Chicago Cubs baseball team, among other

Mr. McDonald met with fellow union leaders here and then issued a statement demanding a meeting with Stanton R. Cook, president and chief executive officer of the Tribune Co. In a statement on Friand others by surprise, Mr. Cook announced that the parent company would entertain serious offers for purchase of the New York

The Daily News has the largest circulation among general-interest newspapers in the nation, 1,483,000 on weekdays and 1,888,000 on Sundays, as of Sept. 30. However, the paper has suffered declines over the years with the changing character of its urban readership. Its peak circulation

Proposal to Set Up Zones of Flexibility

By Carole Shifrin

Washington Post Service
WASHINGTON — U.S. and European negotiators have reached agreement in principle on a proposal to set up zones of pric-ing flexibility within which airlines can set fares on major transatlantic routes without government approval, sources reported.

In exchange, the United States said that it will give U.S. and European airlines anti-trust immunity to participate in International Air Transport Association conferences that fix fares on transatlantic routes — something that most of the Europeans have sought.

U.S. negotiators agreed that they will recommend to the Civil Aeronautics Board that it defer the effective date of a board decision that would prohibit U.S. airlines from participating in the fare-setting conferences. The delegation will ask that the order be deferred long enough to accommodate signing of an agreement, scheduled now for Feb. 25.

The agreement in principle was reached at a 2½ day meeting in Paris with members of the European Civil Aviation Conference, an organization of West European nations whose members include Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

Automatic Approval

Under the plan, each nation will pledge to approve automatically all fares proposed by airlines that fall within the agreed pricing flexi-bility zones. Fares falling above or below the zones would be subject to the requirements of the relevant bilateral agreement. Three different zones of flexibility for each pair of U.S.-European cities would be set up under the plan. Using an unrestricted coach fare as a base, the first zone would allow airlines to set first-class and siness-class fares anywhere within 60 percent above the coach-fare base. A second zone would allow the coach fares to go up 20 percent or down 20 percent from the base.

A third zone would have two parts. One would give airlines the ability to set some discount fares - those requiring confirmed reservations, a round trip or a mininum stay period — anywhere within 30 percent below the coach-fare base. The second part would let discount fares with additional restrictions --- such as an advancepurchase requirement with a cancellation penalty - go into effect if it were within 40 percent below the coach-fare base.

One aviation observer Friday questioned how much the agreement would benefit the United States. He said that the true amount of flexibility — at least on the downward side — depends on the base coach fares that are set as the reference points for the zones. He also said that the zones of flexibility might be of illusory benefit, other than to assure U.S. airlines of quick foreign approval of fares, if the U.S. airlines begin to participate in IATA conferences and set higher-than-competitive prices with their European competitors.

The agreement is not supposed to affect the liberal bilateral agreements the United States has signed with some countries that provide airlines with a totally open pricing regime but is supposed to give air-lines operating to more restrictive countries more flexibility.

The agreement to be signed in February is to be an interim agreement good for six months, subject to renewal for an additional six months if all parties agree.

2 Drown in Colorado Lake The Associated Press

FORT MORGAN, Colo. - Two men drowned Friday when the cance they were in overturned during a fishing expedition on a par-tially frozen lake, officials said. A search for a third man was suspended because of thickening ice

Liza Alexeyeva, left, with her sister-in-law, Tatiana Yankelevich, as they prepared to board a Boston-bound plane in Paris.

Alexeyeva Is Reunited With Husband in U.S.

Miss Alexeveva and Mr. Semyonov were married last June by proxy. Mr. Semyonov traveled to Montana, a state that recognizes proxy marriages, to take part in Soviet authorities had refused to recognize the marriage, saying that Mr. Semyonov had been married to another Russian woman and divorced in the United States and

News Conference Planned

Mr. Semyonov declined to answer any questions, saying that there would be a news conference

Tuesday, tentatively scheduled for

The Sakharovs ended their hunger strike Dec. 8 after the Soviet secret police, the KGB, agreed to allow Miss Alexeyeva to leave the Soviet Union. He and his wife had begun their hunger strike to sup-port their demands that Miss Alexeyeva be allowed to leave the country. They were hospitalized by force on Dec. 4.

Miss Alexeyeva said on arriving in Paris Saturday that although the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize winner had given up his hunger strike after the authorities had given her permission to leave, "all his prob-

Even when he gets out of the hospital, police will still be on guard at the door of his apartment and will be restricting his movements," she said. "I ask Western countries to help him. And he can be helped if Western opinion keeps up pressure on the Soviet govern-also a tabloid, which has been ag-gressively challenging the News for circulation in the city. The publisher of The Post, Rupert Murdoch, has said in the past that he would not be interested in purchasing the News, a step from which he would probably be barred by federal anti-

Last year the News launched an afternoon edition, called Tonight, and a number of special lifestyle sections to attract some of the traditional Times readers, those with higher income and more education. The effort failed, with Tonight's circulation ultimately fall-ing below the 85,000 mark of the Night Owl edition it replaced, and last August Mr. Hunt announced the closing of the edition.

trust laws.

that the divorce was invalid.

New York City.

lems remain.

BOSTON — Liza Alexeyeva, 26, was reunited with her husband Sunday and urged continued support for dissidents in her home-land and in Poland. Miss Alexeyeva was granted an exit visa from the Soviet Union after a 17-day hunger strike by her father-in-law, Nobel laureate Andrei D. Sa-kharov and his wife, Yelena G.

Miss Alexeyeva and Mr. Semyonov urged continued pressure by Western nations and the international scientific community to protect Mr. Sakharov and his wife

from reprisals by the Soviet gov-

"I would like to remind you that am one of a very few persons [in the Soviet Union] who was able to exercise my human rights," Miss Alexeyeva said. "There are many who are unable to leave, to travel

She flew to Boston from Paris, where she had arrived Saturday, with Mrs. Yankelevich and her husband, Efrim. They were met at the autoor by Mrs. Bonner's mother, Ruth, the Yankelevich's children and friends of the family.

and be with their dear ones."

"I came to the United States to stay here," she said. Her husband's sister Tatiana Yankelevich, served as interpreter at a crowded news conference at Logan International Clutching two red carnations, Miss Alexeyeva stood next to her husband, Alexei Semyonov, 25, a graduate student at Brandeis University near here. Mr. Semyonov, the son of Mr. Sakharov's wife by an earlier marriage, emigrated from the Soviet Union in 1978.

although they were of varying opinions as to the desirability of so-called revenue enhancement ed as telling the president that it was bad policy to impose large tax increases in a recession. To do so, after having called for deep tax cuts earlier, would send a confus-ing signal to the nation and the financial markets, they said.

House director of congressional relations, said there was strong feeling in Friday's meetings that the pessimistic projections were not in-fallible, a view the president

Mr. Friedersdorf said Mr.

this Caribbean island nation's police headquarters and central pris-

France, which pays about 60 per-cent of the costs of the Ariane pro-gram, the biggest item on the ESA islation," a senior administration budget. West Germany is next official said. But he added, "Al with a 20-percent contribution. Haig, who sees the conomic plate Denmark, Belgium, Spain, the getting heavier with the strains, Netherlands, Italy, Britain, Sweden and Switzerland all have will be reined in — at least for the

3 Killed, 10 Wounded In Dominica Coup Bid

ROSEAU, Dominica — Two persons were killed and 10 wounded when masked gummen stormed

Minister Mary Eugenia Charles

overthrow the government, Prime

A policeman and a former member of the country's outlawed defense force were killed in the Saturday morning attacks. Police said a third man — also a former mem-ber of the defense force — was killed later Saturday during a nationwide hunt for the attackers. Among the wounded was Police Commissioner Oliver N. Phillip, who police said was shot in the lice station. The man killed in the assault on the prison was identified as Howell Piper, a former officer in the former Dominican Defense Force. Miss Charles said the former commander of the defense force, Frederick Newton, had been ar-head during the attack on the po-

tacks appeared to be tied to a conspiracy by Michael Perdue, the self-confessed leader of a group of mercenaries, to invade the island and put Patrick R. John, the former prime minister, back in power. Mr. John, who was prime minister for a year beginning with Domini-ca's independence from Britain in 1978, has been in the central prison since March.

tourists aboard, a port spokesman

Lubin, parfumeur, Paris. Parfums Lubin, 64 Faubourg Saint Honore 75008 Paris

On the second test, the rocket burst into flames moments after smaller shares.

(Continued from Page 1) near Warsaw was made ready to receive Lech Walesa, the Solidarity eader. The minister for Trade Unions, Stanislaw Ciosek, was reliably reported to have been at the Warsaw airport to meet Mr, Walesa when he arrived under custody at 4 a.m. Sunday. Prisons and detention centers were reported to have been prepared to receive a rush of new arrivals, said to number about 4,000. The roundup of the former par-ty leader, Edward Gierek, and his colleagues was taken by many Poles as an effort to make the millions of Solidarity supporters be-lieve that the union was not the only target but that the govern-ment was embarking on a general campaign to overhaul a state beset by anarchy.

There was widespread skepticism about the military character of the regime that has been imposed. Some intellectuals suggested that the Communist leadership was using the armed forces to try to convince the population that the issue was survival of the nation rather than survival of the unpopuiar Communist regime. Sunday, Dec. 13: Warsaw lay under brilliant winter sunshine, covered in fresh snow. The radio repeated Gen. Jaruzelski's proclamation every hour, following it with the national anthem, whose opening line is "Poland is not yet lost, as long as we are alive. Younger Poles, at least on Sunday, repeated it often, in a tone of defiance. Older people accompanied it with gestures of resignation. Gen. Jaruzelski was credited with political astuteness for having made his move on the weekend. when workers were out of their gin its counteroffensive, occupying factories, shipyards and mines, paralyzing transport and forcing the government to back down. The mere presence of the protesters was taken as a sign of effective control of the protesters was taken as a sign of effective control of the protesters.

Decree followed decree until a total of 61 were read by uniformed the martial-law authorities new powers, including the right to sentence people to death without apfor unspecified offenses against the state's fundamental political and economic interests."

"Under the Germans, at least we got the food that was marked on our ration cards," a doctor said. For many months, the Polish gov-ernment has been unable to supply even the rations to which Poles have been entitled.

Many Poles gathered in the vicinity of the circular Savior Square. Whenever the riot police's cordon was temporarily thinned or lifted, the Poles advanced down Mokotowska Street to the Solidarity headquarters. A sign calling for a "general strike" still hung over the main entrance, although the police had arrested those who were there and had confiscated material and equipment during the raid Sat-urday night and repeated sorties on Sunday.

The crowd, made up largely of orkers and youths, was truculent. The authorities broke the protest up once during the afternoon by dousing the crowd with a water cannon and sendi g in riot police-men with plastic visors over their faces and shields held high. The Monday, Dec. 14: Many people police paid no attention to the ance, a schoolhouse with many ing Wednesd said the Solidarity union would be-feeling was that a round had been tive resistance. Workers went to lost but that the battle had just be-Huta Warszawa steel plant, the Others, largely those with war- Ursus tractor plant and other entime memories, stuck by their ra-terprises. No work was done, but dios and television sets.

ers until Monday night.

That night, the strike sign came military announcers by nightfall.
The decrees banned public gatherings of all kinds, ordered Poles were scraped and washed away all into their homes at night and gave over Warsaw. Despite the 10 p.m.to-6 a.m. curfew, anti-Solidarity slogans made their appearance

Tuesday morning.
Tuesday, Dec. 15: Workers gathered outside the main gate of the Huta Warszawa plant in the morning and told how they had allowed themselves to be maneuvered into letting their leaders be arrested. They also spoke about how they had been intimidated into leaving after army and internal security forces, backed with armored cars, had ringed the plant and entered. The women were crying, and those among us who had young children didn't want to continue to

A belligerent man, possibly working for the secret police, the Interior Ministry's main operations arm, told two foreign reporters who were surrounded by workers to leave because the plant had He was shouted down by workers and threatened with the gallows. However, when the security forces materialized and ordered resist," a worker said.

Wednesday, Dec. 16: By Wednesday, the Solidarity build-ing had resumed its old appear-

Warsaw Diary: Swift Crackdown Extinguished 'Renewal' existed, although officially sus-pended; in fact, it lived on as an organized force only in plants still on strike, largely in the coal mines of Silesia. But on occasion, it was still possible to see a Solidarity badge pinned to a coat.

In the evening, the main television news program — the nation's principal source of official news featured the first "confessions" of two Solidarity chiefs of the "errors" in their political thinking. For the other news, Poles have re-turned to their old reliance on Radio Free Europe, the Voice of America and the BBC.

It quickly became evident that in the capital, at least, organized worker resistance had ended without rising above the passive stage. A Polish journalist remarked with bitterness that the situation had not even produced a political joke, for years one of Poland's principal exports to its fellow members of the Soviet bloc.

Many people appeared to be nervous about plans for demonstrations Thursday afternoon to mark the workers uprising in Gdansk 11 years ago that brought down the Gomulka reign.

Parents worried that their college-aged children might expose themselves to danger; others trem-bled at the thought that any spark in the volatile atmosphere could ignite a conflagration. Thursday, Dec. 17: On this correspondent's departure from War-saw airport Thursday, the customs inspector showed more interest in written and printed material than in collecting duty. She objected to forces materialized and ordered the reporters away, neither the ine only mimeographed documents in the only mimeographed English language bulletin of the government press agency, containing Wednesday's official an-

In a speech to the nation Saturday, Miss Charles said the attacks were linked to two previous coup attempts by former members of the former defense force, aided by U.S. and Canadian mercenaries No foreigners were reported involved in Saturday's assaults.

Miss Charles' speech followed a government statement that the at-

Mr. Perdue and nine others, eight of whom have connections with the Ku Klux Klan, were arrested in New Orleans on April 27 as they were about to leave for Dominica. They were later con-victed by a U.S. federal court of conspiring to overthrow Dominica's government.

One Killed in Haifa Harbor

The Associated Press TEL AVIV — One person died Sunday when a fire broke out aboard a Greek cruise ship steam-ing into Haifa harbor with 200

Page 4 Monday, December 21, 1981

Why Moscow Is Afraid

What is being crushed in Poland is a genuine revolution -- exuberant, spontaneous and far from settled in its ideology or program. Solidarity was undisciplined, as protest has to be in a closed society. It was not, however, anarchistic or capitalistic or directly anti-So-

So this is not a mere repetition of the Polish putsch of 1948, or the conquests of Hungary in 1956 and Czechoslovakia in 1968. The Poles had absorbed those experiences; theirs was — is — a strictly 1980s protest.

They have been testing nothing less than the capacity of a tired and corrupt political system to renew itself. That this is intolerable is more than a tragedy for Poland. It portends prolonged crisis and repression throughout the Soviet empire.

The Communist takeovers in Eastern Europe after World War II were essentially military operations: to create a buffer zone to protect the Soviet Union against invasion from the West. After Stalin's terror was abandoned, the bloc satellites had to be disciplined again, to tame their nationalism and to reassert the old military imperatives.

Moscow won that battle, and not only in Eastern Europe. The United States and Western Europe refused to risk war to challenge its dominion. Eventually, they even ratified it by recognizing the permanent division of Germany.

All that is history. No Reaganite hard-liner advocates liberation of the "captive nations." Western banks have lent Eastern Europe $70 billion — including $30 billion to Poland and pray each night for stability there. Moscow could not ask for better partners. And throughout the 16 months of ferment in Poland, not even the most extreme factions in Solidarity dreamed of evicting the Soviet Army or breaking loose from the Warsaw Pact. The Poles accept the tyranny of geogra-

What they wanted was true domestic reform: to break the grip of an oligarchy that was enriching itself but mismanaging the nation. They wanted the right to monitor their government and to help make the rules for the austere years ahead. They wanted the right to strike and to speak freely, to give workers a voice in a workers' state.

The Kremlin's alarm at this ferment, therefore, has nothing to do with defending its borders. Romania has long pursued a more independent foreign policy than any Pole contemplates; it has not been crushed. Finland has long been dominated by Soviet power, but is allowed to practice parliamen-

The danger in Poland, in Soviet eyes, was the very idea of political evolution in a Communist state. If Poles could speak freely and challenge oligarchical power, what would prevent the Soviet people from claiming the same rights? Given the stirrings in Soviet society, it is not an unreasonable fear. But it puts a huge burden on the international sys-

Other nations can respect the strategic interests of the Soviet Union. They cannot, however, guarantee the internal security of Communist rulers against obvious inefficiencies and discontents. The limited freedom that the Polish people seek is essential to creativity in any modern state. Sooner or later they must have it or the world will be an even more dangerous place.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Lord Keynes on Deficits

The Reaganauts are as wrong today as they were a year ago when they blamed poor U.S. economic performance on government deficits. Then, a predicted deficit of $43 billion was denounced as too high. Now that it is projected at $109 billion - and much higher in 1983 and 1984 — guess what they say? Deficits don't really matter.

Do they? Lord Keynes taught long ago that deficits are neither good nor bad. Their effect depends on the economic environment. A sizable deficit in 1982 would be helpful, but excessive new debt in 1983 and 1984 looks bad.

This year's imbalance does not mean that spending or tax cutting for 1982 was excessive. It means that the system is working to contain a nasty recession. Social spending has automatically increased to provide for the unemployed, while tax collections in the weakened economy decline. The increasing deficit therefore works against an even deeper recession. Reducing it now with more spending cuts or a quick tax increase would backfire by prolonging the recession, and perhaps even enlarging the deficit.

There are good reasons, however, to fear the large deficits now projected for subsequent years. By fiscal 1983 the recession will presumably have ended and so will the need for budgetary stimulus. The deficit next year should be shrinking to guard against the kind of rapid growth that would again drive up the inflation rate.

President Reagan's advisers have finally acknowledged that the 1983-84 deficits will not hold at the $97 billion they estimated last July; they are more likely to soar to a two-year total of $314 billion. Why the startling change? One reason is

Did Mr. Begin think, as he annexed the Golan Heights the other day, that President

Reagan was too preoccupied with Poland to mind? If so, Mr. Reagan must now have disabused the Israeli prime minister of that notion. Mr. Reagan suspended the memorandum on strategic cooperation that the two nations signed and that the Begin government hailed as a signal breakthrough only a few weeks ago. He cut off discussions on Israeli proposals for indirect but substantial further U.S. financial support. This is strong stuff, and it should help dispel the giddiness that the annexation has produced in Israel. It is not pleasant for the United States to apply direct and open pressure on a friend, or to contemplate having to apply more. Mr. Be-

The United States had supported a unanimous UN Security Council resolution term-

ing the annexation null and void. In its statement last week, the administration added a note of its displeasure that Israel moved while the Polish crisis was unfolding. It complained that Israel had not acted in the spirit of mutual consideration embodied in the memorandum on strategic cooperation. All this is so, but it does not go to the heart of what was wrong with Israel's unilateral act.

gin made it unavoidable.

the recession. The other is last summer's frantic tax cutting; the special-interest hogs in both parties consumed 25 percent of the government's tax base — a total of perhaps $240 billion in reduced tax collections for the

Unless Mr. Reagan reclaims some of that revenue, he will set a post-war record for deficits. And that is bound to propel the Federal Reserve Board to tighten up the money supply again, to try to break inflation with high interest rates. That braking, in turn, would only discourage the massive investment that Mr. Reagan is counting on.

The prudent path out of this trap is to follow the advice of Budget Director Stockman, recently joined by Treasury Secretary Regan: Increase taxes after the recession ends.

A good place to begin would be to speed up the deregulation of newly discovered natural gas and immediately decontrol "old" gas. A tax on the windfall gain to producers might bring in $10 billion to $20 billion a

Some anti-Keynesian supply-siders still in sist that last summer's tax cuts will produce such a boom that the government will collect enough taxes, even at lower rates, to eliminate the deficits. Mr. Stockman does not believe that. Mr. Regan and Wall Street do not believe that. The monetarists in the president's circle do not believe that.

So it is encouraging that the administration has relearned some respect for Keynes. One suspects that its economists celebrate the recession deficit mainly for political convenience. But if Keynes' teachings have merit on the way down the business cycle, they are worth heeding on the way back up as well.

The act undercut the formally agreed basis, the only conceivable basis, on which peace can come to the Middle East: the yielding of territory by Israel in return for peace agreements with its neighbors. With Egypt, Mr. Begin did agree to exchange territory for a treaty. With the Golan beyond

even theoretical reach, however, Syria has no reason to accept Israel and negotiate for the Golan's return; other nations have no reason to press Syria to do so. Is Mr. Begin's plan to foreclose negotiations on the West Bank by Israel already had ample international difficulties, not all of its own making. By this one stroke, however, Menachem Begin has forfeited the solicitude that had flowed to Israel as a result of the death of Anwar Sadat and the AWACS deal; converted Syria, a radical, terror-minded, Soviet client state, into at least a temporary diplomatic partner of the United States; perplexed and embarrassed Israel's greatest friend and only patron, the United States; and deepened his own country's terrible isolation. Mr. Begin showed himself capable of statesmanship in making peace with Egypt. Israel needs his unilaterally annexing that territory, too?

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

U.S. Is Out on a Limb With Hard Line Toward Qadhafi

WASHINGTON — In the matter of Libya's Col. Moamer Qadhafi, as in so much else having to do with foreign policy, you can almost hear the collective hum of the Reagan administration's thought processes at work:

Anything Jimmy Carter did, we will do differently.
Carter was blind to Soviet-inspired international terrorism, so the Reagan administration will show it up for the Communist conspiracy it is and make war upon it - somehow. Carter was soft on Qadhafi, so this administration will show Qadhafi up for what he is, and do something about him -never mind exactly what.

Carter was casual about the Iranian threat to the Americans in Tehran, setting the embassy up for seizure of the hostages, so the Reagan administration will clear the decks for who knows what action by getting American citizens in Libya out of harm's way.

Isn't that what the election returns were all about? Well, yes, up to a point. Presidential campaigns do tend to encourage the creation of Big Issues — imagined as well as real. But confrontation with the real world also tends to restore a certain balance. Among the theologians of the Reagan high command, however, the impulse to do the opposite, just for the sake of it, dies particularly hard.

That this is a dubious, not to say dangerous, impulse is nowhere better illustrated than by the situation the administration now finds itself in as a consequence of its highBy Philip Geyelin pitched, heavy-handed, hyped-up crusade to make the world safe from Qadhafi. Where it finds itself is out on a long and shaky limb, with scant support and some open reservations on the part of its best European allies and not even much encouragement from friendly Arabs who, deep down, would be delighted to any Ordhafi death. be delighted to see Qadhafi done in.

Who, among the world's decent and right-thinking citizens and leaders, would not? The man is a certified menace, tied in one way or another to a large part of the dark and dirty work by terrorist movements everywhere - specificaldirty work by terrorist movements everywhere — specifically including, quite probably, the dispatch of "hit teams" on assassination missions against top U.S. leaders.

Assuming (as I do) that the U.S. government has solid evidence on this score, obviously urgent countermeasures were indicated, starting with tightened security and an alert to law enforcement agencies. Recalling U.S. citizens from Libya serves the dual purpose of assuring their safety and having a certain deterrent effect.

It signals to Qadhafi that if he goes through with attempts on the fives of U.S. leaders, the United States will have a free hand to retailiste with force. It also exerts some eco-free hand to retaliste with force. It also exerts some economic pressure to the extent that the departure of U.S. technicians will disrupt Libya's oil production for a time. And it makes it safe to proceed with a U.S. boycott of Libyan oil, which would doubtless do further economic damage, while also resolving a moral issue: U.S. oil purchases would no longer seem to be financing Quihafi's durty work.

lotterri

But then what? Even if you could be consident that Qadhafi is only crazy like a fox, what possible prospect is there that so repellent a figure could be induced to mend his ways? And how, in any case, could you be sure he had

The answer is that you could never be sure, while Qadhafi rules Libya. This is precisely the limb the Reagan adminis-rules Libya. This is precisely the limb the Reagan adminis-ration has gotten out on. Having embarked on an anti-Qadhafi campaign since its first days in office, there is now no outcome consistent with the administration's presentation of the threat, short of Qadhafi's removal, one way or another, from the scene.

But the flip-side of failing to bring him down is almost certainly to build him up beyond any stature with his Arab "brothers" that he could hope to achieve on his own. That cess, according to most of the responsible Arab officials I've talked to, is already well advanced.

The great Quehafi crisis, in short, was easy enough to crank up, given the predispositions of the Reagan adminis-tration. But apart from covert actions that can only be guessed at, it may be a lot harder to crank down.

- 01981, The Washington Post.

" 'Surely,' says I, 'not THE James Watt, folk-hero and famous wilderness rapist!" 'That's me,' says he. And I says, 'NOT the renovated despoiler of our precious national heritage!' 'Right,' says he. So I ate him."

Wonder Workers for Developing World

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon, almost W without realizing it, has launched a pro-gram in the Pacific that could work wonders throughout the developing world.

The Army, Navy and Air Force are quietly deploying elite 13-man units trained to operate in remote areas. The units are mobile, self-contained, versatile. Like the Special Forces, they are linked to the military's worldwide network of communication and supply.

But instead of M-16s and grenade launchers, these units are equipped with welding tools, socket wrenches, concrete mixers and other light construction gear. They are called CATs - Civic Action

The leader of each team is an engineer. All team members are expert equipment operators and carpenters, in addition to their separate

In Micronesia, CATs have built rural roads, water catchment basins, dispensaries, schools. bridges, wells - just about everything in the way of physical infrastructure that a developing rural community needs. They are by far the most successful single U.S. aid program in a region receiving more than $100 million a year in U.S. aid. In fact, their continuing presence has been written into the independence compacts for the various Micronesian entities - at the insistence of the

Micronesia Think of it: A mobile rural construction and training unit designed for missions in developing countries — packing more skills than any unit of its kind in the world — proven effective, enormously popular. Why, then, do we find the CATs consigned By Spark Matsunaga to a few scattered Pacific islands, at a time of renewed committment to the Special Forces concept, and to bilateral aid?

CATs once had a far more expansive role, only to lose it in a twist of irony. The program was launched in 1961 under the impetus of a group of Navy civil engineers - Seabees who thought their skills might help combat reral poverty in the Third World.

Seabee Teams, as they were called then, served with distinction in rural areas throughout Latin America and Africa. Then, in 1964, the program was ended. The Seabees were ordered to send teams only to Vietnam and Thailand. A program designed to fight the causes of war had become another weapon in a brushfire war that was fanning out of control.

And so the teams joined the ranks of dozens of "pacification" programs that faded from awareness when we left Indochina, their prewar achievements and extraordinary potential forgotten.

Except by a group of stubborn-minded Navy civil engineers stationed in the Pacific territories. There the Seabee Teams were reborn as CATs. Army and Air Force units in Guam and Hawaii learned of the CATs' success and asked to join the program.

The next step should be to restore the CATs to their former role elsewhere in the develop-ing world. CATs have proven their effectivness on Pacific islands. Why not Caribbean islands? Not long ago, the Cubans took a crack at training Jámaicans at rural construction, employing special units called brigodisus. The program was a failure. Now they are building an airfield on Grenada. They aren't doing well with that one either, we hear. That's not surprising. The Cubans are not the world's best builders. We are.

Or consider Zimbabwe. Earlier this year, the United States joined 35 other nations in pledging $2 billion toward a three-year Zimbabwe reconstruction and resettlement program. A great deal is riding on that effort, which the Soviet Union is boycotting.

Ironically, rural construction constitutes the weakest element of the entire U.S. foreign aid effort, which is weighted toward human services such as health care and education. Those services are needed. But also needed.

more and more, are roads, wells, bridges, the nuts and bolts of economic development. although we rank second to none at the required skills, we ignore the opportunity. If the Pacific experience is any test, greater use of CATs would be a boon to military morale. CAT members are volunteers. And there is no shortage of them, although a CAT tour neans eight months in the field. It's not hard to see why. Blue collar skills are taken for granted in the United States. But reral communities in the Third World appreciate the advance in skill and efficiency a CAT rep-

At a time when we are seeking to correct the conditions that trigger brushfire wars, CATs are too good an idea to pass up -- again.

Spark Matsunaga, a Democratic senator from Hawaii, wrote this article for The Washington

Miraculous Vote, Then Reality in Honduras

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — The Hondurans claimed that their election Nov. 29 demonstrated that they inhabited an "oasis of eace and tranquility" in the midst of the Central American storm. By evening on election day the capital city of Tegucigalpa was more raucous than tranquil, as triumphant Liberal Party members raced through the streets in trucks, waving the party's flag, and a motorcycle parade made its way to the ca-thedral, where President-elect Roberto Suazo Córdova went to give thanks for his miraculous victory.

In Honduras there was something miraculous about holding the election in the first place. It was the second general election since 1932; the last one, in 1971, was so tainted by fraud that only half the electorate bothered to vote. This election produced a record turnout, 80 to 90 percent of the electorate, and a landslide for the Liberals, including a surprising absolute majority in the Chamber of Deputies.

Strife Avoided

But beneath the cuphoria and the novelty of a clean election, many Hondurans wondered how much it had to do with reality. If Suazo manages to serve out his four-year term of office without interruption by coup or assassina-tion, it will be the first such tenure since 1928.

Honduras, with a population of 3.7 million, has always been considered the backwater of a backward region, and is the second poorest country in the Americas, next only to Hairi. Nonetheless, it has managed so far to avoid much of the civil strife that has tormented neighboring Nicaragua, El Sal-vador and Guatemala. "Here in Honduras you don't have the same social tensions you have in a place like El Salvador," said Edmond Bogran, a leading businessman. The rich aren't as rich, and the assets of the nation aren't concentrated in the hands of so few."

By Anne Nelson new government will undoubtedly be the economy, a crisis that many Hondurans blame on the military regime that has governed the country since 1978. Military corruption has been taken for granted, and mismanagement of the banking toward incursions by Salvadoran system has brought the economy to the verge of collapsa, until even the conservative private sector betroops in pursuing gnerrillas. There have been discussions in the Central American capitals of gan to press for a change. the revival of Condeca, the Central Capital Crisis The capital crisis has become severe in recent weeks. One reason is the contagion of capital flight that has struck Central America. Hon-duras lost about 53 percent of its mid-November, its foreign reserves had plummeted to $13 million. Another blow was last year's col-lapse, amid scandal, of Banfinan, a nationally based investment bank. Suazo made corruption and the economy key issues of his campaign, but on a level that was more designed to attract growth than to appease the international banking community. Unfortunately, in order to edge back toward solvency, his administration may well be obliged to implement austerity programs that will hurt his standing with the populace, anti-corruption measures that will enrage the military and enforcement of existing land-reform laws that will alienate the big landowners.

The persistent question is how much of its power and perquisites the military can be expected to yield. On one hand, Hondurans have a sense of dread that they will be contaminated with the same double dose of "subversion and repression" that has infected the rest of the region; on the other, they find themselves increasingly drawn beyond their own borders in a regional involvement seemingly beyond their control. There have been a number of border skirmishes with Nicaragua, and relations The first crisis confronting the between the two countries are armed forces, the most powerful military position in the govern-ment. There has been some specustrained by the presence of several thousand of former Somoza national guardsmen who use Hondulation that Gen. Policarpo Paz ras as their base of operations. Garcia will attempt to claim the Honduran military forces have taken an ambivalent attitude position when he steps down from the presidency in January.

American Defense Council that fell apart with the demise of the Somoza regime, its prime backer. Meetings between high-ranking

Guatemalan, Salvadoran and Honduran military officials have been taking place over the past year to explore soch an alliance. But while many Honduran military officers sympathize with the battles being fought in the neighboring coun-tries, there is also an embittered contingent of young officers that were trained and groomed for service in the aftermath of the 1969 war with El Salvador, According to one Liberal Party leader close to military circles, "There are some that would just as soon fight the Salvadoran government troops as the Salvadoran guerrillas - they

Much of the future military policy of Honduras may be decided with the appointment of the chief

don't really make a distinction."

Honduras' own guerrilla prob-lems remain minimal; several spectacular arrests by the Honduran police around the time of the elections revealed safe-houses full of arms caches, but these were believed to be en route to El Salvador and Guatemala, Meanwhile, the United States has been steadily increasing its military as well as its economic aid to the country. Combined:military loans and sales are expected to reach $20 million in 1982, up from $8.2 million in 1980. Hondurans wonder how effec-tive their new constitutional government will be in preserving the relatively tranquil, albeit bankrupt, way of life they have enjoyed until now. And they fear that, for all the electoral excitement, real progress will be harder to achieve.

Anne Nelson is the Central American correspondent for Maclean's Magazine. She wrote this article for the Los Angeles Times.

Poles Must Decide on Reaction

By William Safire

NEW YORK - The terrible question everybody is afraid to face is this: As their leaders are being herded into concentration camps, what should the Polish people do?

Does the West want them to meekly accept the "crackdown" ordered during Soviet Marshal Viktor Kulikov's visit to Warsaw. going back to work, forgetting the aims of Solidarity as the Czechs forgot the "Prague Spring"? Or do we want them to resist, first with sullen slowdowns, then with the creation of an underground, with sabotage and guertilla harassment aimed at bringing down the pup-pet government, to be followed by the certain takeover of occupation duties by the Soviet Army?

The view of the Western ap-peasement set is to arge submis-sion and docility. Britain's Man-chester Guardian seems almost pleased: "Poland has, for the first time in almost 18 months, a goverument that is prepared to govern and, so far, the nation has not crupted." Neville Chamberlain's successors hall "General Jaruzelski, a man of patriotic and moder-ate reputation" and suggest that we reward his "albeit" pretty brutal" move with an offer of aid.

The view of the U.S. government differs. At the arging of la-bor leader Lane Kirkland, future U.S. aid to Poland would be condi-tioned on the end of martial law. the release of the inited union leaders and the restoration of the obligations previously granted by the Polish Communist regime.

But even this more hardheaded approach, which must soon be ac-companied by an end to the roll-ing-over of credit, evades the terri-ble question of what we want the Polish workers to do. Defense Secretary Weinberger takes time out from his unwitting encouragement of the Soviet-Syrian agreemation of couragement of Polish resistance: There's a great desire not to have another Hungary on our hands,"

He does not want to mislead Poles into thinking that our disapproval of martial law and invasionby-proxy means that we could come to the aid of any uprising.
That is important to make clear. Equally important to make clear which we have not done - is that our care not to incite the warred-upon Polish workers must not be construed as any caution to them not to resist. The decision to submit or resist is not for us to meddle in. That is strictly for the Poles to decide. Jaruzelski is not a Polish hero. painfully preventing a brutal Soviet invasion; the truth is that he is a Polish Quisling, doing the Soviet dirty work and making it possible for appeasers in Europe to refrain from retaliating against the Soviet

ERS 17 11

his has thank

Line . Hard - The

14134

1....

The voice is the voice of Jaruzelski, but the hand is the hand of Kulikov. His war on the Poles is being waged on two fronts:

The psychological blitzkrieg is aimed at the spirit of Solidarity.

That is why all communications other than military pronounce-ments have been shut down: to strip away the sense of being part of a mass that gives the workers' movement its strength.

Kulikov's second front is aimed at the West, to prevent us from countering his separation and iso-lation of Poles. He wants us to think that Polish resistance would only make things worse for the Poles; he wants us to plead with courageous Poles to submit, thus increasing their sense of isolation. That is why our moral solidarity is so important now. We must let the Polish people know that we will respect their decision, whether it be sullen patience or outright defiance; that we will give their quis-lings no unrestricted aid; and that if events reach the stage where Kulikov and his invaders take personal control, we will launch an allout economic and political crisade to make continued oppression in Poland too great a burden for the Communist world.

©1981, The New York Times,

Dec. 21: From Our Pages of 75 and 50 Years Ago

Pressure on Israel

1906: Deadlock in Majlis

TEHRAN - The financial position of Persia could not be worse. It has come to this pass owing to the opposition of the Majlis. The financial situation is a deadlock. The Majlis will not allow the government to obtain money to carry on the affairs of the country. The Majlis is itself without cash, and its members are quite incompetent to assume the reins of government. The country stands today entirely without money. The national budget account is overdrawn and the treasury is sorely in need of money. The salaries of those in the diplomatic service stand unpaid for a whole year. Money does not circulate, and the result is disastrous. To carry on the king's government is impossible.

1931: Hungary's Foreign Loans

statesmanship now, desperately.

THE WASHINGTON POST.

BUDAPEST — Hungary will declare a transfer moratorium on most of its foreign loans and short-term credits before Christmas, it was learned from authoritative sources tonight. Tomorrow the Cabinet will discuss the final draft of the measure, and the bill providing for a moratorium will be submitted to the parliament on Tuesday. The transfer moratorium will relieve Hungary of interest and sinking fund payments totaling approximately 200 million pen-goes yearly. The moratorium, however, will not include pre-war loans, the 1924 League of Nations loan of 25 million Swiss francs, or the 1930 Treasury note issue for £5 million, which was . largely taken over by the Banque de France.

Herald Tribune

John Hay Whitney Chairman

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger Co-Chairmen

International Herald Tribuna, S.A. on capital de 1,300,000 F E.C.
Paras No 73 B 2112, 179/183, see Charles de Gualle, 92531 Noully, see-Sone T.E. J47-12-45 Teles 487718 Herald Para Cables, Herald, Paras, Directur de la publication Walter N Taispe U.S. subscripton pace 2325 partly Second class pattings paid at Long island Car, N Y. 11101 © 1941 International Herald Tribune, All rights reserved. Commission Partner No 34 231

General Manager, Asia: Alain Letter, 24-14 Hemory Road, Room 1801, Hong Kong, Tel. 5-27 50 18/9 Teles; 01170 DETHICHES.

Walter N. Wells Robert K. McCabe Stephen Klaidman

Lee W. Huebner

Philip M. Foisie

Educer Deputy Editors Chief Editorial Writer

Publisher

Executive Editor

Roland Pinson René Bondy François Desunisons Richard H. Morean

Associate Publisher Director of Finance Director of Circulation Director of Advertising

Albania Said to Bar Mourning for Shehu

BELGRADE -- There has been national mourning in Albania
r Premier Mehmet Shehu, 68, 10 committed suicide Thursday
ght, diplomatic sources said. Alinia does not declare national ourning for people who take cir own lives, the sources said. The Albanian ATA news agency a Saturday quoted a statement by a Central Committee of the Almian Communist Party and govnment as saying that Mr. Shehu ministed suicide at a moment of grous breakdown. The brief atement gave no details of how e died. Mr. Shehu was the chief eputy and the presumed heir to ommunist Party chief Enver

Mr. Shehu's death seems unlike-Mr. Suenus accuta serial Albania, to change policies in Albania, thich prides itself on being the ist bastion of Stalinism, the sourc-

The Central Committee secre-ary, Ramiz Alia, will most likely ecome number two in the power der, they added. Diplomats also mphasized that First Deputy Prenier Adil Carcani is influential. Radio Tirana broadcast light nusic immediately after announc-ng Mr. Shehu's death, the sources aid. There were no commemora-ive meetings, no flags at half-staff and no books of condolence were pened, they added. The flag at he Albanian Embassy in Belgrade was flying at full staff Saturday. and work went on as usual. Mr. Shehu gave the second speech at the party congress in lirana last month, confirming his tatus as number two to Mr. Hoxia, who spoke first, the sources and Mr. Shehu's age was showing ant his voice was firm when he leliver it, they added. The sources dismissed speculaion that the suicide was the result of a power struggle. Mr. Hoxha told the congress that party nade his speech, though he sat to unity was firmer than ever, they said. Earlier last week Mr. Shehn received several foreign visitors, in-cluding Romanian Deputy Pre-mier Cornel Burtica, the first Sovi-et bloc leader to visit Albania in 10 years, the sources said.

Mr. Shehu's death leaves Mr. Hoxha as the only one of the Communist leaders who took over Albania at the end of World War II still in power. Mr. Shehu fought in the international brigades against Franco in the Spanish Civil War and was a Communist partisan commander in Albania in World War II.

OBITUARIES

After the war he became the chief of staff of the Albanian armed forces under Mr. Hoxha's command. In 1948 he became interior minister, in 1954 premier and in 1955 defense minister as well. He resigned as defense minister

Mark Gayn

TORONTO (UPI) — Mark Gayn, 72, chief writer on foreign affairs for The Toronto Star, died Thursday of cancer. For nearly 50 years Mr. Gayn traveled the world, reporting on the political upheav-als in China and Japan and serving stints on The Washington Post, Chicago Sun, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Newsweek and Time magazines. He joined The Star in 1952.

Elizabeth E. Heffelfinger

NEW YORK (NYT) - Elizabeth E. Heffelfinger, 81, the Re-publican National Committeewoman from Minnesota from 1948 to 1960 and the secretary of the party's 1960 national convention, died Saturday. Mrs. Heffelfinger was a key backer of Eisenhower for the Republican presidential Mehmet Shehu ... in 1960.

nomination in 1952. She was secretary of the party's national com-mittee from 1957 to 1960.

Eugene Conley

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Engene Conley, 73, a former lead tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, died Friday. Mr. Conley sang for three years at La Scala in Milan and was a regular guest artist on "The Voice of Firestone" on U.S. radio and television.

Clark W. Thompson

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) -Former U.S. Rep. Clark W. Thompson, 86, who represented the 9th Congressional District for 20 years until 1967, died Wednesday at his home here.

James C. Healey

NEW YORK (NYT) - James C. Healey, 71, a Democratic con-

Mission to Hanoi by 4 U.S. Veterans Stirs Their Memories and Emotions

By Bernard Weinraub New York Times Service

HANOI --- Four American veterms of the Indochina War, trem-noticing a group of North Viet-namese soldiers waiting to greet stane at a bleak Hanoi airport to in enthusiastic welcome by Viet-namese officials. "My first instinct was to call the

One of the veterans, Tom Bird, a whole thing off," said Mr. Bird former infantryman with the 1st several minutes later, as he re-Cavalry Division, started walking down the steps of the plane before him. Mr. Bird swiftly returned to

New Premier in Oslo Tackles Soviet Issues

By John Ausland International Herald Tribune

OSLO - Kaare Willoch, the bead of Norway's new Conservative government, is troubled by the same problem that faced his Labor Party predecessors: How to maintain harmonious relations with the Soviet Union while at the same time preparing for a possible attack from that quarter.

Although Mr. Willoch, unlike

Labor premiers, does not have to keep looking over his shoulder at a political left wing, he must still contend with the Norwegian version of the anti-puclear movement that has swept over Europe. Defense Minister Anders Sjaastad has acknowledged the public's concern about nuclear weapons. This has not, however, deterred him from accelerating several pro-grams that were originally set in motion by the Labor government but had been allowed to languish this year out of deference to the party's left wing.

NEWS ANALYSIS

These programs include stockpiling of supplies for a U.S. Marine brigade in central Norway, stockpiling of supplies for a Cana-dian battalion and an additional Norwegian regiment in northern Norway, and obtaining missiles for defense of Norwegian airfields. The last of these has gained increased significance as a result of extensive stockpiling at a number of airfields for allied aircraft.

Priorities Underlined

Foreign Minister Svenn Stray underlined the government's priorities by sending his deputy, Eivinn Berg, to Moscow for talks with Soviet officials while Mr. Stray went to Washington.

One of the changes the Soviet Union will have noted both in the Moscow talks and the press re-ports on Mr. Stray's visit to Washington is a new tone concerning the Labor government's proposal for a Nordic nuclear-free zone. Al-though the agitation over nuclear meapons makes it impossible for Mr. Willoch to repudiate this idea. te is even cooler to it than his Laor predecessors, who had it orced on them by their left wing. In a recent foreign policy adlress to the Storting, or parlia-

5th Fast-Attack Sub Commissioned in U.S.

The Associated Press GROTON, Conn. - The Phoeix, a nuclear-powered submarine, as officially joined the U.S. Navy, ringing the fleet of fast-attack abmarines to 15.

The 360-foot (109-meter), 6,900-m, torpedo-firing submarine was mmissioned Saturday. It is the fth Los Angeles-class submarine elivered by General Dynamic orp,'s Electric Boat Division this ar. It joins the fleet a little more ian a month after the delivery of ac Obio, the first of the Navy's 10 age Trident missile-firing submament. Mr. Stray consigned the proposal to a study group in the forcign office. Norwegian and Soviet delegamet nere s modili ior vei another round of negotiations regarding the boundary line in the Barents Sea. In brief, the Norwegi-ans maintain that the line should lie considerably to the east of where the Russians believe it should be. At stake is a lot of fish and perhaps a great deal of oil and

Talks Limited

Helge Vindenes, the Norwegian representative, and Boris Podtserov, the Soviet negotiator, spent most of their time arguing about the application of international law to the boundary line. Mr. Vindenes repeated the Norwegian offer to work out a compromise, but Mr. Podtserov owed no interest. Since these talks were limited to the boundary line, they were only of symbolic value. The Soviet Union has long made it clear that it is interested only in a package settle-ment of outstanding issues in the north. These include who is in charge in the waters and on the shelf around the Spitzbergen archipelago.

Like the boundary line, this also involves fish and perhaps oil and gas, but the main Soviet concern is that any drilling in the Barents Sea not interfere with the operation of its large naval forces based in the Murmansk area. While the Willoch government has been trying to establish work-ing relations with the Soviet Union, Norwegian news organizations have been throwing sand in the machinery with stories about KGB operations in Norway.

The allegations include industrial espionage, spying on defense preparations in northern Norway and subsidies to the anti-nuclear movement. The Justice Department has described these stones as speculation. The only allegation he denies, however, is that the KGB has paid Norwegians to write arti-cles regarding nuclear weapons.

This commotion was precipitat-ed by the expulsion several months ago of a KGB agent from Den-mark for involvement in the peace movement. This led to intensified inquiries by the security police into the activities of several Soviet diplomais here who had previously served in Denmark.

They are counselor Leonid Makarov and first secretary Stanislav Tchebotok, who are generally thought by politicians and reporters here to be the chief and deputy chief of the KGB in Norway. According to the Colon with the chief and deputy chief of the KGB in Norway. According to the Colon with the chief and the chief are the chief and t cording to the Oslo daily Aften-posten, the security police have mended their expulsion.

Broadcast Monopoly Ends

OSLO (AP) — The Norwegian government has ended the state's 48-year-old broadcasting monopoly by allowing 40 private compa-nies and organizations to start local radio or cable television prograins next year.

turned outside. "Its just too strange. I feel a little out of con-

Mr. Bird and three other veterans, led by Robert O. Muller, executive director of the Vietnam Veterans of America, were taken in limousines to the sprawling, Cuban-built Thang Loi (Victory) Ho-tel on the fringe of Hanoi. They are here on a six-day visit, which began Friday.

Missing Servicemen They plan to talk to officials

here and in Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon, about the issues of the estimated 2.500 American servicemen still unaccounted for since the end of the Vietnam war in Orange, a powerful defoliant that is suspected of causing genetic damage and other serious medical

Mr. Muller, a former Marine, said that his group wants to convince the Vietnamese to allow U.S. scientists into "heavy defoliated areas" to assess its effects.

The other veterans who arrived Friday were Michael Harbert, a former Air Force sergeant who flew bombing missions over North and South Vietnam, and John Terzano, a former Navy seaman.

During the flight from Bangkok aboard a packed Soviet-built Il-yushin 138, the veterans were alternately exuberant and reflective.

"It's strange," said Mr. Muller. "I can't figure out if I know the passengers on the plane, if I have seen them before. If I know them or if they know me."

Mr. Harbert stared out the window and recalled the missions he flew over the same lush, green mountains, over the Ho Chi Minh trail and the Cambodian and Laotian border regions.

"Nothing has changed, but everything has changed," he said. "I close my eyes and I am right back calling in air strikes over these places. Its so strange. I can still see the scars on the ground."

"I feel so good coming back," said Mr. Bird, "but I can't look at these faces up the aisle. I feel fro-

From the aircraft, approaching Hanoi through low clouds, the land was flat green, still pocked with crater holes. At the airport, Mr. Harbert said, "Its amazing to fly into Hanoi without people shooting away. People are so quiet, the airport so simple. Like landing in a farm field. In Kansas or somewhere"

Mr. Muller, who was crippled in the war, was carried down the airplane steps and was promptly surrounded by Vietnamese officials and local photographers. In his car, he said quietly: "I can't even sort out my emotions now. I can't believe it. I am in Hamoi."

China Asks Turkey To Play New Role

PEKING — Premier Zhao Zi-yang has told Turkish Foreign Minister Ilter Turkmen that Turkey is in a very important strategic position and that Peking hoped Ankara would play a greater role in international affairs, Peking Ra-

During a visit to Peking Mr. Turkmen also met with Deng Xisoping, the Communist Party deputy chairman. The Chinese news spency said Mr. Turkmen and Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua later signed an agreement on eco-nomic, industrial and technical co-

By Michael Parks Los Angeles Times Service

PEKING - A new activism and assertiveness is developing in China's diplomacy, foreign observers and diplomats here say.

After concentrating largely on bilateral relations for the last decade. Peking is now fashioning a major international role for itself and subtly reshaping its foreign policy as it does so. China speaks out at times as a leading member of the Third World, a defender of developing nations' interests. At times speaks as a member of the international Communist movement, a promoter of progressive causes, but most often simply as China. To tell the United States and the Soviet Union that they cannot run the United Nations nor dictate inernational affairs as they like, China recently vetoed the election to a third term of UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and insisted on a Third World candidate.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Criticizing the Superpowers

On the Middle East, southern Africa and in the dialogue between the industrialized and the developing nations, China has articulated its own positions, usually moder-ate and practical, and has forcefully criticized the Soviet Union and the United States for pursuing their own interests at the expense of other countries.

China also has expressed itself recently on East-West relations, U.S.-Soviet arms talks and other issues facing Europe, on unrest in Central America and on the general conduct of world affairs.

Diplomats in Peking say China appears to be determined to be heard as a major power whose views must be taken into account. China is also preparing a fallback position, diplomats believe, against the possibility of its rela-tions with the United States deterirorating over possible U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. The issue already has eroded the "strategic partner-ship" that Washington sought, and Peking is working now to ensure that its strategy of a "united front" against the Soviet Union survives any break.

Angered by Image

China strongly resents its image as a nation too weak and preoccupied with internal affairs to play an international role -- and reacts even more angrily when characterized as a U.S. proxy.

"China has its own views, its own policies, independent of other countries, and it will pursue those in the interests of world peace," a deputy foreign minister asserted

Diplomats here see resurgent strains of Chinese nationalism in

"The Chinese have long dreamed of making China a rich and powerful nation, and this has become the basis again of most of their current policies, including foreign policy," a European ambassador said.

"They gave up the pretense of being a revolutionary power almost a decade ago, and have concentrated since then on improving bilateral relations," he added "Now they seem to be seeking an international role as the world's most populous country and a cru-cial element in the global balance

Increased Activity

Chinese foreign affairs specialacknowledge Peking's increased diplomatic activity, partic ularly in international forums and among Third World nations, but they put their country's evolving policies in a somewhat different perspective. China needs a peaceful international environment for its economic development, they say, recount ing what has been the premise of Chinese foreign policy for several years and is generally attributed to Deng Xiaoping, the powerful dep-uty chairman of the Chinese Communist Party.

The greatest threat to that comes from the Soviet Union, China believes, and the best protec-tion is a front uniting the United

Chinese Bricklayer Seeking His Father Gets Help in U.S.

Washington Past Service
LOS ANGELES — A Chinese bricklayer who has spent four years searching for the man he says is his American father has started a new job in the United States and says many people are trying to help him find his father. Zheng Lianqun, 34, was flown to Dover, Del., last week after being freed from a prison in Hong Kong. He will live in Dover and work at a Chinese restaurant run by his financial sponsor, Kee Chang, a Chinese-Vietnamese refu-

"I am very happy to be here,"
Mr. Zheng said in a telephone interview. "Many American friends are already trying to help me." Mr. Chang said a U.S. Navy veteran stopped at the restaurant and gave Mr. Zheng information about a woman in San Diego who may know his mother. know his mother.

know his mother.

Mr. Zheng has told the U.S. authorities that he was born in Tianjin, China, in 1947, and was left with friends and relatives when his Chinese mother went to San Diego to join the U.S. Marine she had Unable to obtain a U.S. visa after cajoling and pleading for years with American officials and journalists in Peking, Mr. Zheng crossed the border into Hong Kong illegally in May. Members of the U.S. Congress became interested in his case and persuaded the Immigration and Naturalization Service to grant him a "humanitar-ian parole."

Envoys Say Peking Shaping Major World Role for Itself

basis of possible compromise, in Southeast Asia, Africa and the

During the past year, particularly since June, it has reached out to States, Japan, Western Europe, Third World nations and China. Here problems arise, Chinese improve its relations with Third analysts say, for this grouping is far from an alliance; there is not World countries, including India, its old Asian rival, and to put for even a strong coalition of interests. ward its positions, sometimes as a

As a result of this analysis, which was reaffirmed last spring.
Chinese diplomatic efforts are aimed at strengthening the alliance of interests that Peking would like to see develop. "No, we don't see ourselves as the world's peacemakers," a senior Chinese official re cently told a visiting European politician, "but we do think we have a role, sometimes a crucial role, in forging a defense against the Soviet Union's global ambi-

Peking has chosen to play that role largely in the Third World.

India Reports Little Progress in Border Talks With China

Middle East.

The Associated Press
NEW DELHI — India and China have agreed to continue talks on their disputed border despite little progress at the recent discussions in Peking, External Affairs Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao said during the weekend.

The world's two most populous countries opened their first border and normalization talks in almost without any "substantial progress" on the border question, Mr. Rao told a parliamentary committee on Saturday.

The minister said both sides have agreed in the meantime to derelations. Committee members summit conference at Cancin. Mexico, in October, Premier Zhao Ziyang pressed the industrialized countries to pursue a dialogue with developing nations aimed at establishing a new world economic or-

China has long seen the Third 16 Feared Lost off Britain World as the area most vulnerable to what it believes are Soviet desires for dominance. PENZANCE England - The six-man crew and two children aboard the 1,400-ton freighter Un-As a result, China has backed Saudi Arabia's Middle East peace plan. It has strongly supported the South-West Africa People's Organ-ization in seeking independence ion Star and the eight-man crew of a lifeboat that went to rescue them are feared drowned in mountainous seas off southwest England, authorities said. A body and for South-West Africa (Namibia), and called Reagan administration policies obstructive until those pol-icies were modified to win African wreckage from the lifeboat were washed ashore Sunday.

20 years on Dec. 10 in an effort to urged Mr. Rao that India should improve strained relations.

The five-day talks concluded first concentrate on resolving the

India maintains that China has illegally occupied 14,500 square miles (37,700 square kilometers) of Indian territory since the 1962 war and that Peking wrongfully claims velop trade, economic and cultural 90,000 square miles of northeast

Even so. China's minister of education, Jiang Nanxiang, charged in an article last month that practices such as key schools did not tional principles set out by the bomework and more frequent tests. This puts too much of a burden on the few students who excel-conform to the egalitarian educacomplicated and emotional border

In these and other efforts, China has kept its positions moderate and constructive, even if that has disappointed some Third World radicals, according to diplomats Third World countries should coordinate their actions to cone with the threats of the two superpowers," Foreign Minister Huang Hua said in Ghana during a recent

tour of a dozen African countries. 'Limited Sovereignty' Evoked

The Reagan administration's apparent intention to sell arms to Taiwan was compared in China with the Soviet concept of "limited sovereignty" that President Leonid I. Brezhnev used to justify the 1968 intervention in Czechoslovakia. The rationale for the sale was described by a Chinese commentator as "arrogant and hegemonistic log-

Some diplomats see in these and other recent references to imperialism a movement back to China's 'three worlds" doctrine in which the Soviet Union and United States were both regarded as ene-

But Chinese officials insist that there has been no essential change in what Peking describes as its strategic decision four years ago that the Soviet Union is not just its principal enemy, but that, with its allies such as Vietnam, it is China's concrete floors, scuffed walls and desks worn by the fidgeting of countless youngsters, hardly looks exclusive by Western standards. But during a visit, its 853 pupils seemed alert and eager and its 71 teachers and staff dedicated.

"The idea of abolishing key

Criticism of China's Elite Schools Is Mounting

By Christopher S. Wren New York Times Service

SHANGHAI — Zhao Jianping, a lively 7-year-old in a green sweater, selected another color from his crayon box, shifted his sheet of paper and sketched the white plastic rabbit that the teacher had set out as a model on her desk.

The drawing class had begun at the Shiyan Primary School in Shanghai, and the two dozen children concentrating on their task were clearly oblivious to the controversy that has revolved around the quality of education they are receiving.

After the Cultural Revolution

ended five years ago, Shiyan School was designated a "key" school, one of an elite network across China that has benefited from more funds, better facilities and superior teachers.

Restoring the System

Resources were too limited to enrich all schools equally, the reasoning went. So the more promising schools were selected to focus on the brighter children, and thereby foster the talent to narrow China's technological gap with the West. The decision basically revived a system that had existed for a half-dozen years before the Cultural Revolution.

"The idea behind the key schools," according to Yang Lijian, the principal of the Shiyan Primary School, "was to restore the educational system faster and gain experience for other schools. Judging by the results, we think this has been a success. Education in China now is in comparatively

"But at the same time," Miss Yang said, "some problems appeared. Some key schools tried to attract better teachers from other schools, widening the gap between them. Also, some parents tried to enroll their children in the key schools, claiming that they were gifted children." With such educational elitism clared this fall that it was abolishing its system of key primary schools and that primary pupils would no longer be divided according to learning potential. Educational authorities in the provinces of Shandong, Sichuan and Shanxi also announced plans to abolish the tracking of school children by ability. The key school provincial people's congress in Qinghai province last October.

Other regions, including Peking,

Communist Party. "Some primary and middle schools," Mr. Jiang said, "have di-vided their classes into quick-progress and slow-progress categories. They only pay attention to teaching the students of the few quick classes, giving these students more with an adverse effect on their allround development. under mounting criticism, the Shanghai Educational Bureau de-"On the other hand, the schools take a laissez-faire attitude with regard to the education of most students, thus dampening the initiative of a large number of youths and children," Mr. Jiang said. But he stopped short of ordering an end to such inequality. While Shanghai's Educational Bureau has promised to eliminate the disparity in its schools as soon as possible, some schools have system was further criticized at a been given a reprieve by semantic uggling. The Shiyan Primary School has been redesignated an experimental school, still deserving where the government's senior bu-reaucrats live, are maintaining the of special consideration. The school, with its unpainted schools is to run every school well not just to run some schools well." said Miss Yang, who first came to teach at the Shiyan Primary School 28 years ago. In fact, Shanghai this summoned more than 1,000 high school teachers back to teach in city primary schools. Some key schools have been nicknamed "connection" schools because officials wangled places for their children, knowing that they would be better prepared for the competitive high school and college entrance examinations that ensure a promising future.

Miss Yang said her pupils came from predominantly working class neighborhoods. About 40 percent of those who finish the sixth and final grade continue on to competitive high schools, which Miss Yang said was "slightly above average." An article in Peking's Red Flag journal earlier this year reported that only 60 percent of Chinese children finished primary school and that 30 percent passed examinations qualifying them for

The Irish have a way of making you feel like a queen. They put you up in one of their ancient castles. Invite you to lavish medieval banquets at night. And show you the most beautiful countryside in the world by day-in a jaunting cart, no less (with you holding the reins). But before you share it all with the folks back home, check out these pound-saving tips.

SAVE ON SURCHARGES Many hotels outside the U.S.-charge exorbitant surcharge fees on international calls. And sometimes the fees are greater than the cost of the call itself. But if your hotel has TELEPLAN, the way to keep hotel surcharges reasonable, go ahead and call. No Teleplan? Read on! There are other ways to save.

SAVE WITH A SHORTIE In most countries there's no threeminute minimum on self-dialed calls. So if your hotel offers International Dialing from your room, place a short call home and have them call you back. The surcharge on short calls is low. And you pay for the callback from the States with dollars, not local currency, when you get your next home or office phone bill.

SAVE THESE OTHER WAYS Telephone Company credit card and collect calls may be placed in many countries. And where they are, the hotel surcharges on such calls are usually low. Or, you can avoid surcharges altogether by calling from the post office or from other telephone centers.

SAVE NIGHTS & WEEKENDS Always check to see whether the country you're in has lower rates at night and on weekends. Usually the savings are considerable.

You'll save a lot of green when you follow these tips. And a lot of gas when you travel by jaunting cart.

Reach out and touch someone

February 8 and 9, 1982 in Paris

The International Herald Tribune invites you to

MEET THE NEW ADMINISTRATION

The election of François Mitterrand and the subsequent Socialist victory in the French parliamentary elections clearly mark an important turning point for the French economy.

With the cooperation of the new Socialist government, the International Herald Tribune has organized a conference designed to help senior executives of foreign companies judge how the new administration's policies will affect their company's activities and investment in France,

Prime Minister Pierre Mauroy will open this meeting on "New French Economic Policies," to be held February 8 and 9 at the Intercontinental Hotel in Paris.

The program will include presentations by Jacques Delors, Finance Minister; Michel Jobert, Minister of Foreign Trade; Michel Rocard, Minister of Planning and Regional Development; Nicole Questiaux, Minister of Social Policy; Pierre Dreyfus, Minister of Industry; André Chandernagor, Minister delegated to the Minister of Foreign Affairs, in charge of European Affairs; and Laurent Fabius, Minister delegated to the Finance Minister, in charge of the Budget, as well as Jacques Attali, Special Counsellor to the President; Bernard Attali, President of D.A.T.A.R., the French government's regional development agency; Christian Goux, Chairman of the Economic and Finance Committee of the National Assembly, and other senior government officials.

Poulenc; Jean-Luc Lagardère, Chairman of Matra; Bernard Lathière, President of Airbus Industries, and Yves Ragougneau, President of Sony France.

Each presentation will be followed by a question and answer period, and simultaneous French-English translation will be provided at all times.

To register for this exceptional international conference, please complete and return the registration form below today.

CONFERENCE REGISTRATION FORM

Return to: International Herald Tribune Conference Office, 181 Avenue Charles-de-Gaulle, 92521 Nevilly Cedex, France. Or telephone: 747.12.65. Telex: 612832. Please enroll the following participant for the conference to be held February 8 and 9, 1982 in Paris.

First Name Position

Сотралу Address City/Country Telex Telephone

Participation fee: F.F. 5,500 per person (plus 17.6% VAT for registrations from France) or equivalent.

Conference documentation will include a copy of the 1982 edition of the French Company Handbook, the only English language guide to French companies.

☐ Please invoice Fees are payable in advance of the conference.

Fees will be returned in full for any cancellation that is postmarked on or before January 22. After that date a cancellation fee of F.F. 1,000 will be incurred. Cancellations received by the organizers less than 5 days before the conference will be charged the full fee.

HOTEL REGISTRATION FORM

Return to: The Intercontinental Hotel International Herald Tribune Conference 3 Rue de Castiglione 75040 Paris Cedex 01. Telephone: 260.37.80. Telex: 220114.

A block of rooms has been reserved for participants at preferential rates on a first-come, first-served basis. Reservations must be received by January 25 on this coupon.

☐ Single (F.F. 670 per night, tax and service included)

Donnie (F.	r. Blu p	er mäpt	, tax	and	scrvice	included)
Surname
First Name Position Company
Address
City/Country
Telephone		Te	lex
Date of arrival	l:
Approximate h	our:

Enclosed please find a check for F.F.

the equivalent for the first night's stay.

 $\mathbb{E}(\{\Delta\}_{T,t)\in \mathcal{A}_{T}}$ A Marie Marie Marie Milips to St. Eurobonds · DM Bonds · Schuldscheine for dealing prices call

Wastdeutsche Landesbank, Head Office, P.O. Box 1128, 4000 Dusseldorf 1 letephone 8 26 31 22 · Telex 8 581 881; International Bond Trading Dept. elephone 8 26 37 41 · Telex 8 581 882; Intern. Institutional Investors Dept. Westdeutsche Landesbank, 41. Moorgate, London EC2R &AE/UK Telephone 638 6141 - Telex 887 984

at B International S.A., 32-34, bouleverd Grande-Duchesse Charlotte mbourg, Telephone 447411 - Telex 2831

Leading Marketmakers in Europonds VVESTLB Westdeutsche Landesbank

Automakers Expect Help From Reagan

addina (ili) Ida - Viloyaan (a.)

From Agency Disperches
WASHINGTON — President Resgan has assured the auto industry that he will help it get auto emission standards relaxed, ac-emission standards relaxed, according to top executives of the biggest U.S. automakers.

"We were very encouraged by the president's attention and his understanding, and we are looking for help from him, particularly in the revisions to the Clean Air Act," Roger Smith, General Moses chairman, said after the mean nors chairman, said after the meeting with Mr. Reagan at the White House on Friday.

The Clean Air Act is currently up in Congress for reauthorization, and industry leaders said that mick action on the emission tandards is needed if there is to be any impact on 1983 models.

They said the changes they want tould mean a savings of $80 to $300 per car — enough to boost sales by 300,000 cars a year. Automobile sales in the first 10 days of December were at their lowest since the slump of the late 1950s; down nearly 28 percent from last year's depressed levels.

Wall Street analysts, however, are predicting that U.S. automakers will cut their year-end losses to around $1.6 billion from 1980's $4 billion due to cost cutting moves, better overseas performances and higher car prices.

Despite the improved loss picture, Chrysler chairman Lee A. lacocca said, "Things may be getting a little worse for the next three to six months, but hopefully come July and August when the next 10 percent tax cut kicks in, things will start to pick up steam. The tough part is getting from here to there."

Asked if Mr. Reagan made any specific pledges, Mr. Smith said,

His help on the Clean Air Act was the thing we were looking for Earlier this week, the auto executives got a promise from House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. that he would try to get the stalled Clean Air Act revisions moving through Congress.

David Healy, an analyst for the New York firm of Drexel, Burn-ham, Lambert, said General Motors will show a profit of $300 million after a 1980 loss of $775 millian. Ford Motor will cut its loss to $1.13 billion from $1.54 billion, he said, while Chrysler will lose $530 million, down from $1.56 billion, and American Motors will cut its loss to $120 million from $350 mil-

With L-1011 Dead, Leader Of Lockheed Presses Ahead

By Thomas C. Hayes New York Times Service

New York Times Service

LOS ANGELES — For more than a decade, the giant Lockheed Corp. could be found in the same corporate constellation as several other flickering stars like the Penn Central and Chrysler. Long the country's No. 1 defense contractor, Lockheed's brilliance had been disputed by a cost overum in liance had been dimmed by a cost overum in the production of a huge cargo aircraft and a resulting $200 million writeoff in 1971.

Almost simultaneously, it was hit by the bankruptcy of Rolls Royce Ltd., the engine supplier for the company's L-1011 commercial jet, and had to go to Washington for a controversial $250-million federal loan guarantee to been the plane and the company in antee to keep the plane and the company in business. On top of that, it had to deal with the embarrassment of an overseas payment scandal in the mid-1970s which, among other things, rocked the Dutch monarchy and Jap-

By 1976 Lockheed had lost the lead in defense contracting. Today it ranks a distant sixth, behind such companies as General Dy-namics and McDonnell Douglas, both recent winners of big Pentagon aircraft contracts that had been Lockheed's bread and butter.

Even now, Lockheed's hair-thin profit margins look more like those of a supermarket chain than a major defense contractor. Long-term debt has soured again. And Lockheed faces losing another big piece of its business, the P-3C Orion anti-submarine plane that it has been building for the Navy. But Lockheed is still very much in busi-ness which, from the perspective of the its

By Karen W. Arenson

New York Times Service

Reserve if you will Blame President Reagan or David A. Stockman or the supply-siders or the oil companies. Rail against the banks with their high rates or Detroit with its layoffs or the stores with their prices. Point the finger wherever you will, there's a Grinch out

By the end of November, 8.4

percent of the labor force was memployed, the most since the recession six years ago — and the numbers are going up. Industries like automobiles and housing are locked into full-blown depressions and there is little cheer in many others, such as farming, major appliances, steel, hunber and textiles.

country's stores. This is the most critical moment of the retailing year, the period from Thankspiv-

And the crunch is testing the

there and it's stealing Christmas.

NEW YORK - Cite the Federal darkest hours not long ago, is in itself an achievement. The credit belongs largely to one man, Roy A. Anderson. The company's senior financial officer as the crises broke and nearly landed Lockheed in bankruptcy court, Mr. Anderson was the one executive in the company who got along with the company's many and often angry bankers.

In 1976 the bankers had brought in Robert W. Haack, an investment banker and former president of the New York Stock Exmer president of the New York Stock Exchange, as chairman and chief executive to rebuild Lockheed's woeful image with both the financial community and the U.S. Defense Department. Mr. Anderson survived the purge of Daniel J. Haughton, chairman and chief executive during the overseas payments scandal, and A. Carl Kotchian, president during those years and become vice. dent during those years, and became vice

A year and a half later, Mr. Haack retired and Mr. Anderson took over. Mr. Anderson has had to make one difficult decision after another - the latest just two weeks ago when he gave up on the L-1011 Tristar, the company's commercial wide-body jet, thus admitting the error of his predecessors' assurances in the early 1970s that with a little government help the plane would make money

If Lockheed sticks by the decision it would take a $400-million writeoff on the plane that has lost it $2.5 billion in the 13 years of its existence. It also would mean that the company has abandoned a proud career as a builder of commercial aircraft and will concentrate entirely on the business it knows best, selling weapons to the Pentagon.

Yuletide Bringing Little Joy to U.S. Retailers

ness. "Retailers always say you can have either a great Christmas or a good Christmas, because no matter what, people come to the store,"

said Edward E. Yardeni, vice president and chief economist at E.F. Hutton & Co. "But this recession could finally break that rule; we

For the economy in general,

There's been an ever-widening

there is scant hope for an early re-

circle of weakness," said Murray

L. Weidenbaum, chairman of President Reagan's Council of Eco-

"For the automobile industry, this will be the worst Christmas in a very long time," said Albert M.

Woinilower, chief economist at

First Boston Corp. "It is miserable

not only in terms of the actualities,

but also in terms of the prospects.

could have a terrible Christmas."

covery as the new year begins.

nomic Advisers.

Roy A. Anderson ... 'No fun' killing the L-1011.

It was a decision that the financial community endorsed. The day after the Dec. 7 announcement, Lockheed's stock jumped 74/2 points on the New York Stock Exchange to 4. It was easy to see why. Without the L-1011, the company would have had opera-ting profits of $343 million last year instead of the $144 million it actually had.

Now, says Mr. Anderson, Lockheed can concentrate on the products that it sees as big money winners in the Reagan administration's increased defense budget - Trident nuclear missiles, the C-130 Hercules military transport plane and classified military satel-

"Anderson did as much as he could" to (Continued on Page 9, Col. 3) recession as Detroit and other hard-hit old industrial cities, consumers are not yet in a real vise.

Total income has held up reasonably well, in part because most wages have continued to keep up with inflation. And while unemployment has shot up, industry is still managing to absorb new workers entering the labor force, so employment has not fallen very High interest rates, while mining sales of homes and durable goods, are generating generous re-turns for the millions of Americans who have set something aside in such investments as money market funds. The tax cut of Oct. 1, small as it was, has been a help, too.

"People tend to denigrate it, but it added take-home income on the order of $15 billion, or the equivalent of 1 million jobs at $15,000

As the year was winding down,

(Continued on Page 9, Col. 6)

each," Mr. Wojnilower said.

Big New British Telecom Agency Is Having Bureaucracy Problems

LONDON - The British government, pressed to revitalize sagging industry, is placing heavy emphasis on developing a telecom-munications business that is competitive despite being government-The first step in the process took place two months ago with the birth of British Telecom in a move that separated the government's telephone company from the Post Office. "We are going through an extraordinarily revolutionary situation here," Sir George Jefferson, former head of British Aviation and now chairman of British

Telecom, said in a recent inter-

The separation is the first major product of the the British Telecommunications Act, which officials are calling "the most important industrial measure" enacted by the government.

Parallels Seen

But despite the enthusiasm for the venture. British Telecom seems caught in the web that entangles much of this country's business: the uncertainty that a governmentowned company has in dealing with the private sector. Although the telephone organization is being asked to compete in world mar-kets, it is having difficulty getting the unprecedented authority to raise funds from nongovernmental

There are certain parallels bevolutions in Britain and the United States. Both revolutions are driven by technological developments that permit the linking of private computers via satellites in what are already competitive busi-nesses. Both involve the awakening of sleepy, but enormous organizain the United States, American Telephone & Telegraph, and in the United Kingdom, the British Post Office.

The British program has two goals. One is to bring competition into the sale of telephones, telex machines and common switchboard and call-switching devices. The second is to permit other companies to use the nation's telephone network — the world's fourth largest — for a variety of computer services.

Historically, most of British

Telecom's equipment was pur-chased from three firms: General Electric (no relation to the U.S. company), Standard Telephone & Cables (an International Telephone & Telegraph subsidiary) and Plessey. The new act allows other firms to compete for the $300 million to $400 million subscriber market there, the world's third largest. (The exchange rate last week was around $1.88 to the

The problem with the system for people who want to sell products in competition with the British telephone company, is that they must receive approval from the complex bureaucracies of the British Standards Institution and

BT's promotional literature speaks directly of the need to borrow about $200 million this year to meet its investment needs. "At present British Telecom must borrow from the government, which will not lend as much as we re-quire," the company said. "We need increased flexibility, including the ability to borrow in the private money markets."

Sir George, in a prepared state-

'If we are to be market responsive, we can't be stuck with government financial policy'

the British Electronic-Technical Approval Board Until those groups finish their work, British Telecom is in the difficult position of having to approve new products of its competitors. "We shall inevitably be criticized, but we have no intention of being laggardly," Sir George said.

An even stickier political problem involves the funding of British Telecom's new ventures. While BT which invests more money every year than any other British ven-ture, including about $4 billion in capital improvements this year, and has assets worth about $30 billion — endorses the competitive idea, it is still concerned that the competition in equipment and long-distance services will rob it of revenue it needs to maintain local telephone service, which it oper-

As a result, BT is in the uncom-fortable position of seeking permission from the government to is-sue bonds to raise as much as a $1 billion over the next several years. "If we are to be market responsive, we can't be stuck with government financial policy," Sir George said. "I hope we're close to a solution." So the government entity is chalment issued as the company split off two months ago, echoed that thought. "Today, we are still dependent on the same sources of finances," he said. "And that is tying our hands behind our backs as we face up to the challenge of

Also tying the company's hands, officials say, is a bloated BT bureaucracy. BT's junior executives say officials maintain the attitude a government bureaucrat and are leary of competing with private concerns. Sir George has forced the hiring of new sales people who share his regard for aggressive competition. An enthusiastic young member of that bureaucracy complained that his colleagues think "they live in a safe world that owes them a living." He added that ultimately BT's management will be forced to "shed many staff members."

Sir George says that after BT's growing pains cease he hopes it will be transformed from a "single monolithic operation" into "all sorts of incestuous partnerships" with private companies. "We are hauling BT in that direction as fast as we can," he said. "We want a lenging its opponents within the British treasury, who worry about one led by the civil service."

Europe's leading management and charter company for business jets.

PRIVATE JET SERVICES 8058 Zurich Airport Tel. 1 - 814 20 02 24 hrs. Telex 59 820 pjet ch

Market's Activity Slows Before the Holidays

By William Ellington

AP-Dow Jones LONDON - International dollar bond prices eased slightly last week in slow trading amid indications that investors and traders were reluctant to make commitments before the new year.

Market yields of seven out of the eight most recent straight dollar debt offerings were at 16.25 percent or higher Friday. In con-trast, seasoned issues were yielding less than 15 percent across the maturity range.

Normally, a certain amount of swapping of seasoned issues for new issues would narrow such a great yield disparity. However, traders said that very few of their dients were willing to make adjustments in their portfolios before the end of the year.

No straight debt offerings were announced during the week. How-ever, a $40-million, 15-year convertible Eurobond offering of L.M. Erickson, the Swedish telephone and electronic conforment manufacturer, quickly sold out.

Earlier Issue Delayed

The issue was priced at pur bearing 9.5 percent. The conversion price was set at 5.0 percent above the closing price of the shares on the Stockholm Stock Exchange at the time of the offering.

In September, L.M. Ericsson postponed a similar issue because its share price was depressed in a sudden plunge of share prices on the Stockholm exchange. This

Phillips to Start Oil Output From Ivory Coast Field

LONDON — Phillips Petroleum expects to start producing oil next year from an offshore field in the ivory Coast, a move which will boost the West African country's hopes of being a significant ex-porter by the end of the 1980s.

The company said last week that n expected to begin shipping oil out of the Ivory Coast's Espoir field some time between July and October. Three more production wells were planned and according to sources close to the World Bank, the Espoir field could produce at least 320,000 barrels a day toward the end of the decade.

Industry sources said it looked as if the Espoir field, in only its initial stages, would at least double current Ivory Coast production, of about 10,000 barrels daily from a field operated by an Exxon subsi-time, the issue was sold within 24 bours, said a representative of S.G. Warburg and Co., the manager.

The Ivory Coast government estimates the country will be self-sufficient in oil by 1982 and become a net exporter by 1985.

He attributed part of the success to use of a British distribution technique in which the un-derwriters agree among themselves on who will approach which institutional investor. Under the nor-mal Eurobond distribution methall underwriters can solicit business from the same institution.

EUROBONDS

The Euroboad underwriting technique is open to abuse as lenders can play one underwriter off against another to obtain the big-gest discount from issue price. In-deed, most Eurobond offerings are sold at discounts at least equal to the selling commission. This normally leaves underwriters with a skimpy 0.38-percent fee and little incentive to support the issues they

Prices of Deutsche-mark denominated Eurobonds eased during the week as short-term interest rates moved higher, in part a reaction to the U.S. Federal Reserves' report Dec. 11 of a $4-billion surge in the money supply.

Then in its latest report, the Fed said Friday that the M1-B definition tion of the money supply rose $800 million — the fourth increase in five weeks — setting off a late spurt in short-term rates in New York and a decline in bond prices as market participants were disap-pointed that the money supply had not declined after the strong growth of recent weeks.

Rates for six-month Deutsche mark deposits in London rose to 10.81 percent offered from 10.5 from par with a 10-percent percent a week earlier. According to calculations of Credit Suisse-First Boston, Deutsche-mark-de-nominated Eurobonds were yield-ing 10.40 percent at the end of the week. Thus, there was no incentive for investors to switch funds from deposits into bonds. The only issue scheduled for offering during the week was on behalf of three Finnish lending insti-tutions: the Land and Industry Mortgage Bank, the Finnish Real Estate Bank and the Industrial Bank of Finland.

Managed by Berliner Handels und Frankfurter Bank and guaranteed by Finland, the 60-million-DM, 10-year bond issue is expect-car sales would not save the industry. And you can say the same thing about home building."

that the effects of the continuing low sales in those industries will continue to ripple through the "Many companies are now ex-tending their Christmas plant closings into January" as they try to sell off their large inventory accu-mulations, said Mr. Yardeni.

Things will get a lot worse before

Despite all those grim numbers, or perhaps because of them, economists note some bright spots.

"Outside heavy industry," Mr.
Wojnilower said, "the situation is not too bad, and the economy is less dependent on heavy industry than it used to be. Also, military is in a big upswing; there has been a acceleration in orders."

Beyond such epicenters of the they get better.

Many economists are predicting

Eurobond Yields* Week Ended Dec. 16 (U.S. Dollars)

International institutions	14.56 %
Industrials, long term	14.52 %
Industrials, medium term	14.70 %
Canadian dollars, medium term	14.48 %
French fr. medium term	17.25 %
Unit of acc. long term	12.17 9
<ul> <li>Colculated by Luxensbourg Stoc</li> </ul>	k Exchana

Market Temover Week Ended Dec. 18 Total Dollar Equivalent 4,745.0 3,837.2 907.8

7.511.2 6,643.4

CURRENCY RATES

S 1 0	London (b) Alitem New York Poris Zarich ECU		2,299,40 1,884 10,873 3,4262 0,5675	4,2975 532,90 0,4387 253,85 • 79,89 •	210,22 0,1733 31,59 •	0.0821 ° 4.753 × .0.1498	487.97 3 0.3993 0 231.30 1 73.045 4	2015 1.400 1.515 667.20 1029 8.5478 4.572 317.45 7361 4214 1.9536	13.9385 164.54 0.1345 78.22 * 24.62 * 7.9408
İ				Ď	ollar Va	lues
)	$ Equiv.	CHYMRCY	Per U.S.S	$ Equiv.	Corre	Per کگال vo	S Equiv	Carrency	Per U.S.S
1	1.1384 /	Lustralian $	0.8844	0.0653	tercell st	nekel 15.325	0.4854	Singepore $	206
£	N.A. Bei	tries schilling gien file, fronc	_	2,0044 3,5511	Kowelli	ê yêd 219,40 diner 0,261á	8.0014	S. African read S. Korean was	698.68
Y		Canadian S	1,1897	0.408	Malay, ri	laggit 2.2551		Sponish peseto
8	A1345 D	calify krose	7.425	0,1712		roes SB(1		Swedish krona
	0.227) F	lanish mark	4.4035	0.1263	Phil. m	een 8.3264	0.0264	Tah≠ou S	37.24

ESterling: 7,2043 (righ £

Interbank exchange rates for Dec. 18, 1981, excluding bank service charges. D.M. F.F. 169:37 44.12 1 16.6985 6.445

t e	Milen New Yorks Zorich ECU		2,298,40 1,886 10,873 3,4262 0,5675	532.90 0,4367 253.65 - 79.89 - 2,4472	31.57 · .0.14 6.1924 1,305	.3 1	487.57 0.2993 281.30 * 73.045 * 2.6753	31.515 0.0259 14.572 • 4.7361 • 61.4216	65/20 8/5/20 317/45 -  1,953/6	14454 0.1345 78.22 - 24.62 - 7.9408
,				D	ollar Value	s
5	$ Equiv.	Chilescy	Per U.S.S	$ Equiv.	Currency	Per کگا	S Equ	N. Cs	rency	Per U.S.S
1	1.1364	Australian $	0.8844	0.0652	larvell streke	1532	0.485		apore S	206
E	0.0472	Austries schilling		0.0044	Joponese yea				loun rend
	N.A.	Belgian file, franc	_	3,5511	Kowalii dine:	r p.2616			1900 WOQ	675.68
V	0.1405	Canadian 5	1,1897	0.4438	Malay, ringgi	2253			sh pesebo
2	0,1345	Donlyh krose	7.435	0,1712	Marse, kroes	SBG	0,171		ist: krona
	0.2271	Firmish mork	4,4035	0,1203	Phil. peso	8,3264	9.02		Here S	37.24
-	8.8173	Greek groching	57.70	0.01.52	Port. escodo	65.867	100		الثوم أو	ZZ 975
5	0,1745	Hone Kees 5	5.6665	0.2524	Saudi riyai	3,4775	0.292	3 UAE	Edirham	2,673
Z	1.533	trish L	1467	1,1617	S.D.R.	0,860	•

A friend has left us

André Coussement

1931 - 1981

The International Banking Community

Hydrocarbons International Holding S.A., Luxembourg Tradinvest Purchasing Company Limited, Bermuda Hydrocarbons International N.V., Curação

> £200,000,000 Acceptance Credit Facility

> > Agip S.p.A.

S. G. Warburg & Co. Ltd.

in conjunction with Soditic International S.A.

provided by

The Sumitomo Bank, Limited

Standard Chartered Bank Limited

Banca Nazionale del Lavoro The Bank of Nova Scotia Channel Islands Limited Commerzbank Aktiengesellschaft The Industrial Bank of Japan, Limited

The Mitsubishi Bank, Limited Allied Irish Investment Bank Limited

Bank Brussels Lambert (U.K.) Limited

Creditanstalt-Bankverein

Antony Gibbs & Sons, Limited

The Long-Term Credit Bank of Japan, Limited

The Taiyo Kobe Bank, Limited

National Westminster Bank Group

S. G. Warburg & Co. Ltd.

Barclays Merchant Bank Limited

The Kyowa Bank, Ltd.

The Sanwa Bank, Limited

Amsterdam-Rotterdam Bank N.V. Brown, Shipley & Co. Limited

The Dai-Ichi Kangyo Bank, Limited

Guinness Mahon & Co. Limited

N. M. Rothschild & Sons Limited

The Tokai Bank, Limited

Agent Bank S. G. Warburg & Co. Ltd.

November 1981

d Bi plade li as Rise i

Bosch Buys Its Ticket Into Communications

By John Tagliabue Now York Times Service
STUTTGART — Some people like to think of Robert Bosch as a West German auto parts company

Although Bosch diversified into products like home appliances and radio equipment as early as the 1920s, its reputation still rests largely on its sophisticated auto ignitions, fuel injection and lighting

But now Bosch plans a major investment in telecommunications, using as a channel the operations of the faltering AEG-Telefunken group. Executives at Bosch headquarters outside this south German city hope the new venture will grow into one of its most profita-

"This is the entrance ticket to a market we think has an enormous future," said Kurt Losten, the Bosch board member for sales and international activities. We already have much of the know-how. We now will have the possibility to develop very interesting compre-

The development is being watched closely in Europe. The elecommunications sector is widew expected to see tremendous expansion in the 1980s. In addition, family-owned Bosch is viewed as something of a pillar of fiscal and managerial stability in a West Ger-man industrial world where reces-

Abu Dhabi Aide Predicts Rise in Output Capacity

NICOSIA - Abu Dhabi is planning to expand its crude oil pro-duction capacity to 3 million bar-rels a day by the end of 1985, the Middle East Economic Survey said

Sunday Mana Said al-Oteiba, Abu Dhai minister of petroleum and mineral resources, told the authoritative oil publication that the Gulf state is conducting an extensive program of oil and gas exploration and development.

"We are sure that we have sufficient oil for at least one century to come, at the present levels of exploration," the minister said, "We are starting with studies of our main onshore fields, hoping to improve the recovery factor.

Mr. Otaiba made it clear that production would not necessarily be increased to full capacity.

MEES said that the present pro-duction capacity is difficult to estimate. Although the total rated capacity of the installations is approximately 1.8 million barrels a day, the actual usable or sustainable capacity probably would not be more than 1.3 to 1.4 million barrels a day, it said.

sion, strained finances and spreadning pessimism are causing a record number of bankruptcies among weak companies and shrinking profits shockingly even among the aditionally strong ones.

In recent weeks, Bosch has entered into a complex series of deals that will give it, by 1983, a controlling share of Telefonbau und Norlzeit, the telephone systems manufacturer now 41 percent owned by AEG-Telefunk strong minority interests in AEG's telecommunications division and Olympia office machine subsidi-

It will share these interests with Mannesmann, a steel company that is also branching out into electronics, and with several banks and an insurance company to es-tablish a large new West German telecommunications group.

The idea is to bring Bosch's capital and expertise in things like radio and television equipment, pow-er antennas and wide-band communications equipment to the AEG division that is among its most profitable but that could be dragged down by the overall weakness of the parent. AEG has paid no dividends since 1973, and expects its demestic group to lose 650 million Deutsche marks this AEG's telecommunications division makes transmission systems and radio equipment, manages all AEG's space activities and is moving into optical fiber cables.

Bosch executives see a market developing in the 1980s for products like data banks and new forms of communications and telephone systems. Gains in these sectors, they reason, will offset any slowdown in the automobile or housing markets, where Bosch is now most vulnerable.

But despite Bosch's successes elsewhere, some analysts are judging the new venture cautiously.

Most agree that the industry is headed for extensive growth. But they also predict fierce competi-tion. They predict the competitors in West Germany alone will include Siemens, the country's largest electrical company with a strong and profitable telecommunications division, and Standard Elektrik Lorenz, International Telephone & Telegraph's West German subsidiary.

"In the weight of the financial investment and in the framework of our corporate policy, this deci-sion is comparable to Bosch's development in the 1920s," Mr. Los-

Analysis tend to agree, but they add that it may also be Bosch's biggest risk since that time. In the words of one bank's analyst, who asked not be identified: "It's certainly one of their biggest opportunities in a long while. But it is also, no doubt, one of their major

Depressed U.S. Economy Biting Into Retailers' Peak Sales Season

retail sales looked healthier than some economists had feared. The Commerce Department reported that retail sales in November rose eight-tenths of 1 percent from Oc-

Still, as pointed out by Edward Guay, chief economist at Connecticut General Life Insurance, "They are up less than inflation."

Moreover, year-to-year results show definite slides at some major store chains. While K Mart registered a sales increase of 16.2 percent and Dayton Hudson a rise 11.1 percent in November, Sears, J.C. Penney and Woolworth, for example, all reported declines.

At J.C. Penney, despite its sales cline, a confident note is struck. The chain is having "a good Deaccording to Duncan Muir, a spokesman, with catalogue other sales are on target. "We've heard all the gloom and doorn," Mr. Muir said, "but we're having a good December, so we're pretty pleased around here." He added that the store's inventories are also in better shape now than they had en, and are slightly below levels at this time a year ago. At K Mart, which expects sales gains to run "in the high teens"

during December, Susan McKelvey, publicity director for the chain, said that "The first week of December was softer than plan, especially in the industrial Mid-But, she added, "We have reason to believe that the second week was close to plan. And we expect a repeat of last year's buying behavior, when we saw a very strong buying surge in the final week before Christmas. We're just hoping that the weather will cooperate with a light blanket of snow

what he termed "our exciting lines

Finally, the company's long-term debt, reduced to $390 million in 1978, has soared again, to nearly

$950 million during a period of record-high interest rates. As a result, Lockheed paid $139 million in interest charges to lenders in the first nine months, nearly double the level from the comparable perithe cost of carrying it has been se-vere," Mr. Anderson said. There will not be significant change until the L-1011 inventories are worked

Meanwhile, its equity, reduced to about $110 million by the $400 million Tristar writedown, could rebound to as much as $475 million by the end of 1983. The increase is expected to result from the inflow of large amounts of cash

from government defense pro-

Lockheed's lenders, having already made a harrowing trip with Lockheed, seem willing to stick with Mr. Anderson. An important factor in their decision is that

Lockheed, which never caused the government to actually put up any off in 1983, he added.

We have too much debt and of business."

od in 1980.

and a temperature that is cold, but not very cold."

Many such chains are sacrificing some of their profits to lure customers, by increasing their promotional budgets and cutting prices.
"We're advertising very heavily and taking deeper discounts on much of our merchandise," said Miss McKelvey.

The stores that are ailing now should offer real bargains early next year. "Retailers will be stuck with some excess inventory going into January," Mr. Guay predicts "so anyone with patience will find more markdowns both in the last few days before Christmas and in the weeks after Christmas.

Indeed, in Seuss-like (ashion, some of economists are betting that the badder things get, the better they may turn out. That is, most see in the present economic weakness the foundation for a healthy recovery next year.

The deeper than expected decline, Mr. Weidenbaum said, "makes it more likely that we will have a strong rebound."

"Right now everyone is focusing on how bad things are, but I'd ex-pect people to be surprised at the growth in sales during the first half of next year," Mr. Guay predicted.
"The turn in sales is coming right now, though it won't show for Christmas. By the second quarter, we will have favorable retail sales on a year-over-year basis."

eir 12l

He maintains that the liquidity of the consumer and the greater availability of credit at better terms will fuel retail sales. Industrial production, he said, should be somewhat slower to return to normal, but that that, too, should improve by the second quarter of 1982. The return to the healthy economy is taking place right now, although all the economic data are lagging and are still chronicling the decline," he said.

But while many economists agree with that scenario, most of them also say that the strength of the recovery really depends on government policy.

Consolidated Trading Of AMEX Listings

Soles High Low Lost Choe
709,300 12% 12 12½ —¾
637,100 374 27% 33½ +2%
626,000 20% 19% 20% —¾
601,500 7% 6% 7% 4%
649,500 36% 37% 37½ +%
679,500 37% 37% 37½ +%
679,500 21% 20% 21 —¾
679,500 8% 7% 6%
303,600 10% 8% 6%
303,600 10% 8% 9% 9% +¼

Volume: 23,970,500 shares Year to Date: 1,393,105,600 shares Issues traded in: 937

Chairman's Role Cited in Survival of Lockheed the company will be pumping cash from the Tristar program into sell the L-1011, said Alan Benasul aerospace industry analyst for Drexel Burnham Lambert. "But it made no sense to continue carrying the L-1011 out another five or six years, at losses of more than $150 million a year, and after all that then decide to kill it. They're better off having it out of the way

On Dec. 7, after sitting through another discouraging management discussion on the plane's outlook for orders, the 15 directors of Lockheed voted unanimously to halt production of the L-1011.

"I suspect that was the toughest decision I'll ever have to make or participate in making." Mr. Anderson said, alternately reflective and ebullient in an interview shortly after the board vote.

Mr. Anderson, 62, was the fourth of six children raised on a small farm near Ripon in central California. "We had a rough go," he recalled. "My parents were hard-working, honest people. But it was the Depression and times the people of the recent of the state of the people of the state were hard for everybody. You learn certain values from that that A top student who excelled in math, he skipped a grade in high school. But, lacking the money for college, he studied bookkeeping in a local business school. With the help of the Navy he attended Kansas State Teachers College, Tulane University and Harvard for training as a supply officer. After the war, he finished an undergraduate degree in economics and business at Stanford University and later graduated from the Stanford Busi-

The semi-weekly flights to the East Coast that he made during

Lockheed Slips to No. 6 as Arms Supplier $883 million of contracts, its military sales in 1980 totaled $3.24 billion and its market share was 4.2 per-

WASHINGTON - It has been a steep slide down the ladder of defense contracting for Lockheed. The Pentagon's No. I supplier in 1970 with 5.9 percent of the arms market, the company now stands in sixth place with its market share of 2.7 percent.

A decade ago, Lockheed had $1.8 billion in contract awards for such products as the C-5A Galaxy and P-3 Orion aircraft, Polaris and Poseidon ballistic missiles and the Agena spacecraft booster. Last year, its contracts, worth $2 billion, covered work on the Trident, Polaris and Standard ARM missiles, the P-3 Orion, C-141 Starlifter, C-5 Galaxy and C-130 Hercules aircraft, as well as space vehicles and amphibious assault ships.

In fiscal 1980, Lockheed, according to the Defense Department figures, was displaced by the following

General Dynamics. From second place a decade ago with contract awards from the Pentagon of $1.18 billion, its total last year came to $3.5 billion. With a market share of 4.6 percent, it supplied F-16 and F-111 aircraft, Stinger and Rim-66 missiles, the MK-15 weapon system and nuclear submarines.

McDonnell Douglas. Ranking fifth in 1970 with the debates on the federal loan guarantee are just memories now,

but he continues to work 12-hour days, arriving at Lockheed's Burbank headquarters by 7 a.m. Mr. Anderson, who has a wife

$358,235 in salary and bonuses last

It Was No Fun

1011, Mr. Anderson said. The L-1011 is a technologically advanced aircraft that lost in the heated marketing race for jumbo jet orders to

"It was no fun" killing the L-

four children, received

• General Electric. After being in third place in 1970, its awards last year came to $2.2 billion, and its market share was 2.9 percent. It sells the Pentagon nuclear submarines, F-18 fighter aircraft engines UH-60 Uttas helicopter engines, the Minuteman missile and miscellaneous electronics equipment.

Sea Stallion helicopters.

in the competition, and to McDon-nell Douglas' DC-10, which developed problems only later when safety questions were raised about the pla The Tristar has recorded 244 sales since its introduction in 1971. compared with 574 for the 747 and

Boeing's 747, which had the advantage of being introduced early

300 planes were needed to break even. This fall the break-even point was said to a sale of 500. Then there is the $400-million

366 for the DC-10 as of June 30.

Lockheed said early that sales of writeoff, the bill for completing another 20 planes on firm order and for working off its inventory. The process will take two years. And the L-1011 decision is cer-cent. Its major products included F-15 Eagle, F-4 Phantom, F-18 lighter aircraft and the C-10 cargo plane plus Harpoon, Tomahawk and Dragon missiles.

ed Aircraft, this firm captured 4 percent of the market with $3.1 billion worth of contract awards last year for F-100, TF-30, TF-33 and J-56 turbofan and turbo-jet engines plus work on UH-60 Uttas and the CH-53

Boeing. The company has doubled its share of the market since 1970 to 3.1 percent and moved up from 12th place to awards last year of $2.4 billion. Its products include the Airborne Warning and Control

System, the Tomahawk, Shorad, Minuteman and Roland missile systems, radio and television equipment

for the Advanced Airborne Command Post and air-

• United Technologies, Previously known as Unit-

tain to result in reductions in the workforce in the Lockheed California division, where 9,500 persons are working on the Tristar. And the Pentagon's decision to halt orders for the P-3C Orion raised more fears among the division's 23,000 employees.

Mr. Anderson emphasized that the California division is "working to pick up new business" and that money, repaid lenders the entire $250 million at a relatively high profit rate. "He was the one guy you could believe throughout all of the messes in the early and middle 1970s," said a high-level banker, who asked not to be identified. "He always levels with people, sometimes maybe even too much for his own good. Through the years he has gained a tremendous amount of respect in the financial community.'

Crédit National

ECU 200,000,000 5-Year Credit and Notes US $ 200,000,000 7-Year Credit Facility

Unconditionally Guaranteed by the Republic of France

Crédit Lyonnais

Caisse des Dépôts et Consignations

Banque Nationale de Paris Chase Merchant Banking Group Banque Bruxelles Lambert S.A. Chemical Bank International Group Lloyds Bank International Limited Mitsubishi Bank (Europe) S.A. Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York

Algemene Bank Nederland N.V./Banque de Neuflize, Schlumberger, Mallet Banco de Vizcaya (Paris Branch) Bank of Montreal Banque Internationale de Gestion et de Trésorerie - BIGT Banque de l'Indochine et de Suez The Bank of Tokyo, Ltd. Gulf Riyad Bank E.C. IBJ International Limited Crédit Commercial de France Barclays Bank S.A. Paris Crédit Commercial de France Guir Riyao Bank E.C. 183 Inter The Long-Term Credit Bank of Japan, Limited Zentralsparkasse und Kommerzialbank, Wien

Caisse Centrale des Banques Populaires

Crédit du Nord Société Centrale de Banque

Crédit Industriel et Commercial The Sanwa Bank, Limited

Kleinwort, Benson Limited

Morgan Guaranty Ltd

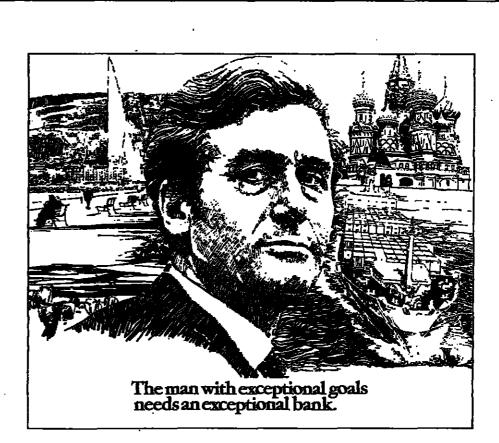

Caisse des Dépots et Consignations Crédit Lyonnais Banque Nationale de Paris Chase Manhattan Limited Chemical Bank International Limited

Dealers for ECU Notes

Lloyds Bank International Limited

Goldman Sachs International Corp.

What makes TDB exceptional? Our bank in Switzerland, for example.

As one of the larger commercial banks in Switzerland, TDB Geneva can give you a complete range of sophisticated banking services. We also give you the personal attention that can be so important to your business.

In our Group we serve our customers exceptionally well-and we do that in a number of ways. To begin with, we concentrate on the things we do best, such as trade and export financing, foreign exchange and banknotes, money market transactions and precious metals.

Secondly, our clients in Switzerland or abroad benefit from TDB's worldwide network of affiliates and correspondent banks. This includes not only the major financial centers, such as New York, London and Paris, but also a number of less familiar places, where our exceptional knowledge of local conditions can be a big help in your business.

While our operations are international, we run our back-office systems with typical Swiss efficiency and discretion. You may not notice this directly, but it shows up in quicker decisions and fewer errors.

So the next time you visit any of the cities listed at right, drop in to see us. Our multilingual account officers will be glad to welcome you and talk over your individual banking needs, wherever you do business.

TDB Holding Group: US$ 10.4 billion in assets: US$ 887 million in capital and loan funds employed, as of June 30, 1981.

Group banks: Genera, London. Paris, Liexembourg. New York (Republic National Bank of Neu York), Athens, Buenos Aires, Chiasso, George Town. Hong Kong, Los Angeles, Miami, Munte Carlo, Montevideo, Nassau, Panama City. Punta del Este. Santiago de Chile. Representative offices: Beirnt. Caracas, Frankfurt. Mecico City. Rio de Janeiro. São Paulo. Tokyo.

Trade Development Bank

Swiss subsidiary of the Trade Development Bank Holding Group, Luxembourg

Mutual Funds

EUROFIMA

(European Company for Financing of Railway Rolling Stock, Basle)

DM 50 000 000.-9 1/4 % Bonds of 1981/1986

- Private Placement -

Berliner Handels- und Frankfurter Bank

Batter Fe 2n Dation / 20 Dation / 20 Dation / 20 Dation / 20 Dation P Bancon I am Backer / 20 Dation /

Chicago Exchange Options
For the Week Ending Dec. 18, 1981

Parins
Newfine

TransCanada PipeLines

H. Neil Nichols

M. T. G. Graye

TransCanada PipeLines is pleased to announce the appointments of H. Neil Nichols as Senior Vice President, Corporate Finance, and Mitchell T. G. Graye as Vice President and Treasurer. Mr. Nichols has held several senior management positions since joining the company in 1956. Mr. Graye joined TransCanada in 1981 after several years of utility corporate finance experience with a major Canadian investment firm.

Convest 8.50
Convest 9.50
Conve

FIT blane 1.50
FIT blane 1.50
FIT blane 1.50
FIT blane 1.51
FIT blane 1.51
FIT blane 1.52
FIT blane 1.52
FIT blane 1.52
FIT blane 1.53
FIT bl

REPORT LANGE
如他的话上对,如何还是是对外,这种不是这种的话,我们还是有一个,我们是这个是一个,我们是这个是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个, 我们的话,我们是这种的话,我们是这种的话,我们是一个,我们是这种的话,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是一个,我们是

MANUTURN PROMEST AND THE STATE OF THE STAT

NAMES THE STATE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERT

ASK FOR IT EVERY DAY.

EVERYWHERE YOU GO.

Treasury Bills

White Kirkin the turning

International Herald Tribune

uld the ent

Over-the-Counter

Scies in Net 1985 High Low Last Chipe

ProCos 25
Procos

achin Fest, Johann Georg Reillmiller

tige Verhaltnisse

के व्य विकासिता वह है। won den Gewerkschaften We ger Abkommen unteres

Zustand ein Jahr der

Manches in den Geselleist

gen des Sommers 1980 la:

wurde viel langsaner res

ausgemacht, in heufe æ

vollender: Zugleich aber ist

den Weg der Verinderste

Worden, aus damais erange

konnte. Es ist aber and ze mehr offen, 15 sich derig

Sen Jahrenton termine il

ainten beide Seiten und h

Herr werden seil

e Kunde

ide and kriminell

sprogramm

ed from Page 10)

April 197 April 1986 A

Signature of the state of the s

Treich 2 state 1 .20 15.2 Signor 1.9
Signor 1.9
Signor 1.9
Signor 1.9
Signor 1.9
Signor 1.8

CHICAGO — Alan Page, a de-fensive tackle with the Chicago Bears, closed out his 15-year pro-feashs.

football career Sunday.

And what has it all meant?

"The importance [of pro football] in this world is far out of proportion to what it really is — entertainment. I would feel as though I wasn't being true to myself if I became part of the hype."

"As entertainers, we [professional athletes] live in a highly visible environment, one where the people involved live great lifestyles. Because of that, most of us don't realize you can't play foreydon't realize you can't play forever. In fact, the way things go, you end up trying to deny it."

"I'm disappointed that I end-

Wilkison Repeats as Titlist

The Associated Press SYDNEY— Tim Wilkison won the New South Wales Open tennis championship for the second time Sunday, defeating Chris Lewis of New Zealand 6-4, 7-6, 6-3 in the final. Wilkison previously cap-mred the 1978 NSW Open.

Friday's Results

EAST Brishom Young 39, Princeton 38 Texas 72, Harvard 71, OT SOUTH N.Georgie 74, Alabama 51, 42

SE Louisiana 66, North Park 54 MIDWEST NE Illinois 79, Wis, Whitewater S.Dakoto 72, Yankton 50

NE Illimeis 79, Wis.-Whitewater 71
S.Dakole 72, Yankten 50
Wis-Lacrusse 57, Luther, lowe, 51
Witherberg 69, Hiram 69
SOUTHWEST
Ark-Little Rock 63, NE Laussiana 62
Baylor 85, McMurry 65
FAR WEST
Artzona 62, III. Wasleyon 57
Artzona 62, III. Wasleyon 57
C.S. Dominauez Hills 59, San Francisc
Oreson Shote 102, Penastylvania 64
Puget Sound 73, Phillips Univ. 59
Seattle 73, Concordia 72

EAST Boston Coil. 79, Pairfield 73, 20T Contisius 69, W.Michigan 67 Dartnauth 62, Manhattanville 45

Darinsouth 62, Monhatters Delaware St. 69, Rider 68 George Washington 32, Get Holy Crass 79, Cologie 57 Maryland 98, Otto U. 64 N.Caralino 39, Rutgers 36 Ohlo St. 99, Princeton 55 Pritsburgh 88, Robert Mort St. John's 72, Ferdham 59 Syracuse 78, Purque 74 Teopie 82, Villianova 48

Auburn 77, Florido St. 76 Grambling & Protrie View 60 Jockson St. 77, Stillman 72 Memphis St. 82, SW Leuislana 7

Finn Wins Nordic Race The Associated Press DAVOS, Switzerland — Harri Kirvesniemi of Finland beat Swedish Olympic champion Thomas

Wassberg by 2.4 seconds Saturday to win an international 15-kilometer cross country ski race here.

Saturday's Results

ed up playing this long [15 seasons]. I figured it would last about five years. This is a business where you don't grow. For me, it's been live years of experience and then one year of experience 10 times.

"But the first time I thought about leaving. I realized there was no place else for me to go, nothing much. I could do. That's where the decision to go to law school came

Vivid Memories

The moments Page says he will remember are hardly those people will remember him by. His record of 28 blocked kicks, for instance, pales in his own mind when he re-calls watching a game film in which a lineman celebrating a touchdown broke a teammate's leg by jumping up and down on it.

Page really does hear a different beat. After all, this is the same man who left fame and fortune after 11 years in Minnesota because the brass insisted he carry more than 225 pounds on his 6-foot-4 frame. Characteristically, the Vik-

- U.S. College Basketball Scores -

Vanderbill 72, Indiana 51, 66 Varginia 51, 95, Rutgers-Come Wake Forest 79, Appaiachlan William & Mary 69, N.C. West

water Fernast 77, Appealachian S William & Mery & N. C. Wassian MIDWEST Bowling Green BI, Tri. St. & Cent. Michigan & Anderson & Chechanett & Malami & Dayton 78, Old Dominien 77, OT Defroit 25, Michigan SI Drotte 72, Jowe SI, 55 E.Kentucky SI, Akron 46 Hillackie SS. Michigan Tech 40 Hillackie SS. Michigan Tech 40 Hillackie SS. Michigan Tech 40 Hillackie SS. SI, Loois 43 Hillackie SS. Michigan 55 Indiana SS. SJ. Loois 43 Hillackie SS. Michigan 55 Indiana Card. 81, Butter 69 Indiana Card. 81, Butter 69 Indiana Card. 81, Butter 68 Michigan SI. 161, Marshall & Mirmesota 76, Marshall & Mirmesota 77, Ball St. 57 North Delcato 111, N. Montona 76 N. Delcato St. 81, N. Michigan 78 Olso Wessleyan 81, Triffin 77 S. Delcato St. 83, N.W. Joved & Toledo GJ, Charleston, W.Va. 61 SOUTHWEST Arkansas 91, Biscovne 61

Arkansas 91, Biscovne 61 Baylor 88, SW Oklohoma 65 Onal Roberts 78, Cleveland St. 75

SW Taxon St. 57, Texon Western Tvisa 69, Cent.Florida SI FAR WEST Artzona 67, New Macdon 63 Artzona St. 54, Col St.-Los Angel Colorado 54, Celorado St. 53 Idaha 48, San Jese St. 45 Idaha 51, 90, 5.1/toh 74 Oreson St. 62, Loskwille 54

Idaha St. 40, S. Utah 74
Oreson St. 20, Louisville 55
Pupet Sound 44, Whitworth 42
Richmond 65, Oreson 64
South Clara 62, Stanford 68
S.Chiorodo 69, Denver 45
Texts Tech 71, Utah 65
UCLA 87, DePost 75
Virginia 75, Cheminade 59
Wirshindon 84, Menthons St. 70

Leyola, III. 75, Northwestern 71 Cotton States Cla

Georgia 76, Ala.-Birmingham 72

SW Texas $4.87, Texas We

Alan Page

...ready for a new life. ings viewed the issue as a question of strength; Page, one of agility.

West Virginia 85. Long Island U.S. Red Ceder Classic Wheaton 41, Wis-Start 28 See Cereivel Classic

NBA Standings

EASTERN CONFERENCE

16 8 .667 2 15 9 .625 3 14 10 .583 4 14 10 .583 4 6 17 .261 TTV

"The manner in which I left Minnesota has to be one of the low points of my career," Page said, pausing briefly. "But come to think of it, maybe it was something of a high point, too."

Prep All-American at Canton, Ohio, Central Catholic; All-America defensive end on Notre Dame's unbeaten (9-0-1) 1966 national championship team; an anchor of all four of the Minnesota Vikings' Super Bowl contenders: the only defensive player to win the NFL's Most Valuable Player award (1971), and a seasoned professional who played 15 years in a sport where the average career spans just six, including 206 consecutive starts.

"It really doesn't seem in the 15 years Alan Page has been playing, I've been with him 13 of those. Time really does fly," said the Bear coach. Neill Armstrong, who spent several seasons with Page at Minnesota before the two were reunited in Chicago.

ed in Chicago. "But the one thing about him that always impressed — and I rarely use always or never — is that I can never remember a game where he didn't give his best.

Same Problems

As distinct as Page's contributions on the playing field have been, it is likely that his influence will be felt just as surely in the league front offices next year. The Minneapolis firm of Lundquist & Vennum, for which he will work when he hangs up the helmet, spe-cializes in labor law. Among its clients is the NFL Players Associa-

"It's highly likely that I'll get involved in this one way or another," said Page. "In the 15 years I've played, the conditions are not appreciably better, if they're better at all. The problems today are basi-cally the same ones as when I came into the league.

"There is no mobility, for openers. On top of that, pieces and parts of the agreement have got to

NHL Standings

	Mirro Stantonia
1	WAI E	CONEI	r D R	MC	'A	_
	WALES CONFERENCE Patrick Division
	FW	M (	T		Pis.	GF GA
•	hma	W 18		_	4	136 113
	NY islanders			5
	Philodelphia	19		1	29	127 114
	Pittsburgh		12	5	35	124 127
	NY Rangers		16	4	_	109 132
	Washington		21	2	20	124 138
		oms Div				_
	Montreal	- 17	7	•	4	162 95
	Buttole	16	9		40	124 103
	Quebec	17	14		39
	Boston	17	10	4	38	119 99
	HorHord	7	15	9	23	103 130
	CAMPBELL CONFERENCE
	No	rris Divi	Sio.	1
		W L	T		45.	GF GA
	Ch. 1		9	٠	35	147 121
	Chicago	13
	Minnesoto		10	9	35	137 113
		13				137 113
	Minnesoto	13 14	10	4	32	137 113
	Minnesoto St. Louis	13 14 12	10 15 14	4	32 31	137 1 13 120 132
	Minnesolo St. Louis Winnipeg	13 14 12 10	10 15 14 18	4	32 31 25	137 113 120 132 126 147 115 140
	Minnesoto St. Louis Winnipeg Defroit Toronto	13 14 12 10 8	10 15 14 18 15	4 7 5 8	32 31	137 113 120 122 126 147
	Minnesoto St. Louis Winnipeg Detroit Toronto Smr	13 14 12 10 8 rthe Div	10 15 14 18 15 15	4 7 5 8	32 31 25 24	137 113 120 122 126 147 115 140 135 149
	Minnesoto St. Louis Winnipes Detroit - Toronto Sm Edmonton	13 14 12 10 8 rthe Div 22	10 15 14 18 15 15 15	4 7 5 8 6	32 31 25 24 50	137 113 120 132 126 147 115 140 135 147 200 132
	Minnesoto St. Lautis Winnibes Detroit Toronto Smi Edmonton Voncouver	13 14 12 10 8 withe Div 22 13	10 15 14 18 15 15 15 15	475864	32 31 25 24 50 32	137 113 120 132 126 147 115 140 135 147 209 132 127 126
	Minnesoto St. Louis Winnless Detroit - Toronto Extraction Vencouver Calgary	13 14 12 10 8 Yithe Div 22 13	10 15 14 18 15 15 15 15	4758647	12 31 24 50 52 29	137 113 120 122 126 147 115 140 135 149 200 132 127 126 130 150
	Minnesoto St. Louis Wimbes Defroit Toronto Sm Edmonton Voncouver Coscouver Los Angeles	13 14 12 10 8 7fite Div 22 13 11	10 15 14 18 15 15 15 15 17	4758 6472	33 24 50 32 29 20	137 113 120 122 126 147 115 140 135 147 200 132 127 126 130 150 133 156
	Minnesoto St. Louis Wimiles Detroit Torente Sm Edmenton Voncouver Calgary Las Angeles Colerado	13 14 12 10 8 7 Title Div 22 13 11 12	10 15 14 18 15 15 15 17 22	4758 66725	12 31 24 50 52 29	137 113 120 122 126 147 115 140 135 149 200 132 127 126 130 150
	Minnesoto St. Louis Wimiles Detroit Torente Sm Edmenton Voncouver Calgary Las Angeles Colerado	13 14 12 10 8 7 Title Div 22 13 11 12 6 kday's Re	10 15 14 18 15 15 15 17 22 18	4758 64725	32 31 24 50 29 26 17	137 113 120 122 126 147 115 140 135 147 208 132 127 126 130 150 133 156 63 162

Colorado 3, Vancouver 1 (Gagne (5), Lever (11), Allier (7): Elderbrink (1)). Saturdary's Results Quebec 7, Buffolo 3 (Clautier 2 (14), Goulet 2 (17), A. Stastiny (14), Richard (10), P. Stastiny (22): Perregulit 2 (10), Peterson (2)). St. Louis S. Voncouvec 6 (Babych 2 (11), Turn bull (13), NRI (6), Perfertson (11)).

(21; K. Crowder (7), Fergus (7)1. New York 2, Pittsburgh 3 (Hickey (5), (13), Moloney (3); Gardner (19), Bout

BASEBALL

American League

OAKLAND A'S-Signed Dan Meyer, third construct to firee-year contract.
National League
HOUSTON ASTROS—Traded Cesor Cedena utilelder, to the Cincinnati Reds Inight, third basemon.

Transactions

Son Diego 6 17 251 111/2 Friday's Results New York 121, Chicago 186 (Russell 22, Cortwright 22, Williams 21; Greenwood 18, Gilmore 18, Theus 177). New Jersey 190, Milwoukee 28 (R. Williams 22, C'Koren 14; Bridstemm 19, Lanier 14). Phoenix 105, Son Antonia 184 (Robinson 38, Johnson 19; Gervin 22, Moore 18). Konten City 180, Lith 95 (Bridster 18, Johnson 19). 18; Danfley 29, Griffith 19). Housten 112, Dailos 93 (Malone 22, Leavell 13; Vincent 29, Davis 17). Boston 99, Woshington 98 (Parish 32, Bird 21; Johnson 21, Ruland 20). Indiana 189, Cleveland 73 (Banton 15, Williams 12, Davis 13; Williams 16, Carr 10, Huston 10). Safurday's Resetts Dehrolt 132, New York 104 (Tripucka 31, Benson 24; Richardson 25, Smith 22). New Jersev 19, Cleveland 107 (Birdsong 29, B. Williams 20; Mitchell 36, Williamson 28). Dallas 102, Portland 95 (Vincent 24, Nimphius 28; Rossey 25, Not 11).

Montreal 5, Boston 2 (Wickenhelser Latieur (14), Jarvis (12), Acton (18), Lang Colgary 5, Colorado 2 (McDanald (10), Lavalee (11), Peplinski 2 (16), Piett (9); Cameron (4), Leer (12)). Toronto B, Winnipes 4 (Anderson (19), Gavin (1), Valve 2 (16), Martin 3 (11), Derlopa (16); Hawerchaik (18), Lindsfrom (12), Babych (10), Christian (13)).

New York Islanders S. Detrell 1 (Carroll (2), Bossy 2 (25), Tonelli 2 (12); Blokadell (18)).
Los Anseles S. Horfford 5 (Bonor (6), Bozsk 2 (21), D. Smith (4), Dionne (23); Lyle (3), Meagher (12), Stouetton (22), Francis (7), Westey (5)), Edmonton 9, Minnesota 6 (Hushes (15),

Gretzicy 3 (38), Kurri 2 (9), Lumley 3 (19); Christoff (10), Payme (9), Palmer (14), Smith (21), Palmer (15), Meighan (11), Chicopo 6, Washington 4 (Secord (23), Suriter (18), Preston (8), Lysick (10), Savord 2 (17); Robertson (4), Tookey (8), Carpenter (11), Gould (11)

New Zealand Preserves World Cup Chances

From Agency Dispaches
RIYADH — New Zealand's national soccer team preserved hope of World Cup qualification by beating Saudi Arabia Saturday, 5-0. The winning margin put New Zealand level with China in the Asian qualifying group.

All goals were in the first half.

The New Zealanders came close three times in the second, but could not manage the sixth goal that would have qualified them. A playoff match with China will decide who, in addition to Kuwait, represents the Asian group in Spain in 1982.

Frankfurter Allgemeine shaur De aill et neu Zeitung is the leading national daily and business newspaper-Milliarden Defert Varietie read all over Germany and in 144 countries around the world. According to an opinion poll carried out amongst 1258 senior businessmen in North America, Europe and the Far East by the British Urban Publishing Company, F.A.Z. is judged the world's most reliable non-English language Als am 31. August isset. newspaper.

*L.A.T. 1981

Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung P. O. Box 2901, D-6000 Frankfurt am Main Telephone 759 10

POOTBALL National Feebball League WASHINGTON REDSKINS—Sign Clark detensive and Placed Oils Wo back, on the injured reserve list, Canadian Football League WINNIPEG BLUE BOMBERS—Sig More Sports Utah center Danny Schayes snarling as he pulls a rebound away from Kansas City center Leon Douglas in National Basketball Association action Friday. Kansas City won, 100-95. On Page 13 CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS ESCORTS & GUIDES CACHET U.S.A. (Continued from Back Page) ESCORTS & GUIDES ESCORTS & GUIDES ESCORTS & GUIDES VENNA - EXCLUSIVE Excert Service Tel: 47-74-61. Other mojor cities available AMSTERDAM ATHENS ESCORT SERVICE, Tale phone, Athens 360 30 62. HONESTY ESCORT SERVICE, TEL: 223143. MADRID LIA ESCORT SERVICE. Tel: 4586002 - 2509472, Credit cards. LONDON DUESSELDORF-COLOGNE Domin English Escort Agency. 0211/38 31 41. ZURICH-BASEL-GENEYA. Omeg Escort Service. 0049-6103-82048. AMSTERDAM Portman Escort Agency 67 Chilbern Street, London W1 TEL: 486 3724 or 486 1158 FRANKFURT - WIESRADEN - MAIN SHBILEY Escort Service 0611/282728. PRANKFURT ESCORT SERVICE Near Frankfurt Airport, 06171-73908. FRANKFURT, SYBELL Escort Service Tel: 0611-417480.

TEL AVIV-JERUSALEM LONDON Escort Service. SCARLET LONDON - CHELSEA GREL Excert So vice, 51 Beaucheamp Place, Londo SW3. Tel: 01 584 6513/2749, 4-12 pm. LONDON AMSTERDAM A-AMERICAN ESCORT SERVICE ESCORTS NY & BELGRAVIA EVERYWHERE EEC. - CAPITALS

ZURICH Vanessa Escort Service Tel: 01/47 02 12 - 69 22 45 LONDON ZARA Escort Agency. Lon-don, Heathrow & Gatwick areas. Tak Zurich - Geneva 10 cm. - 10 pm.; MSTERDAM APOLLO Excert Service. Ansterdam (0) 20-

NGLAND: 01-625 7969 LONDON. THER EEC CAPITALS
Tel: Germany 0-6103-86122 YOU ARE--OR GO America-Transworld

212-591-2934 212-461-6091 212-961-1945 Girls, be an escort. Call or write POB 176, Fresh Meadows, NY 11365, USA

LONDON EXECUTIVE CLASS Exact Service. Tol 262 2108 LONDON JACQUEZINE Exact Ser-vice. Tel: 402 7949. LONDON JUDY ESCORT, SERVICE Tel: 01 883 4187. BNGLISH ESCORT SERVICE, Landon/Heathrow. (01) 757 87 54. LONDON BELINDA ESCORT SERVICE Tel: London 229 4241. Tel: London 229 4241.
LONDON MARIE CLAIRE ESCORT
Service, Tel: 01 225 1863.
TOPAZ ESCORT AGENCY. Tel:
London 722 2874.
LONDON LINESEY ESCORT SERVICE
Tel: 01 422 9533
LONDON BLANCA Escort Servica. Tel:
01 352 3667. LONDON DESSE Excert Ser London 587 0451. AMSTERDAM-JB Excert 222785 Buiten Wieringenstron HAGEN ESCORT SERVICE. 1 19 70 32.

ESCORTS & GUIDES REGENCY - USA

ORIDWIDE MULTEINGUAL ESCORT SERVICE NEW YORK CITY Tel: 212-838-8027 & 212-753-1864.

INTERNATIONAL ESCORT SERVICE

CAPRICE ESCORT SERVICE IN NEW YORK

TEL: 212-737 3291. L'ELEGANCE

> ESCORT SERVICE NEW YORK

TEL: 212-563-0322

CROSSWORD By Eugene T. Maleska

ACROSS I — Antony 5 Pentateuch

10 Affirmatives 14 River into the Baltic 15 Wing part 16 Escutcheon border

17 Sly trick
18 Like Cugat's rhythm
19 Cartoonist Gross
20 "Call Me——"
22 Feast of Lights 24 Trek led by

26 Amigo's emphatic approval 27 Jewish month 29 She could us clues re locale of ewes 33 Hiding place: 37 Facts and woman 40 Noblewoman container for liquids 42 Goad

43 Algerian port 44 Holiday boon for some 45 Comedian Richard 46 Snack for José 50 A son of Jacob 52 Horn made

Tishri 11 Estrada 12 ----- breve 13 Adam's third

61 Shake---

(hie) 62 Demolish

64 ----- ha-Shanah 66 In------ of

(instead of) 67 Molding

68 Diva's song 69 Take on cargo 70 Solomon ruled

DOWN

I Cut the lawn

2 — a dozen
3 Enjoy a vacation
4 Belief

5 Collection of

7 Boaz's wife 8 Another name 9 Twain's

Jewish law 6 Wave, in Spain

one 71 Desires

org. 25 Hebrew letter from a ram's horn 56 Candelabra for (same as tsadi) 28 —— Cain 30 Weird 22 Across 31 Therefore 32 Atlantic Beach 60 Battery terminal attraction childhood borne 10 Holy day in

33 Vegas machine 34 Home of Irish kings 35 Genesis name 36 Where 56 Across are displayed 38 British byebyes 41 Pillager 45 Laborer south of the border 47 Roman household god 49 Haifa greeting 51 Go away, with 53 Raid

21 One of Esau's

55 Type of bag used in baseball 56 Shopping-center feature 57 Lamb's pen 58 Requirement 59 Portico 63 "... justice for

65 Owns

54 Worship

WEATHER

LOW C F -5 23 Overco 4 39 Cloudy ALGARVE ALGIERS AMSTERDAM ANKARA ATHENS MANILA MEXICO CITY 5 41 Fair
4 25 Fair
-13 9 Snow
-11 12 Possor
10 14 Fair
11 52 Fair
11 52 Fair
11 52 Fair
11 52 Fair
-7 19 Fair
-7 19 Fair
-7 17 Fair
-1 12 Fair
-1 12 Fair
-1 12 Fair
-1 12 Fair
-1 14 57 Fair
-1 4 45 Fair
-1 4 57 Fair
-1 4 57 Fair
-1 4 57 Fair
-1 58 Fair
-1 64 Fair
-1 7 63 Fair MIAMI MILAN Cloudy MONTREAL MOSCOW MUNICH HAIROBI AUCKLAND BANGKOK BE/RUT BELGRADE BELGRADE
BERLIN
BOSTOM
BRUSSELS
BUCHAREST
BUDAPEST
BUDAPE KEW DELHI REYKJAVIK RIO DE JANEIRO COSTA DEL SOL SALISBURY DAMASCUS SALISBURY SAO PAULO SEOUL SHANGHAI SINGAPORE STOCKHOLM DUBLIN EDINBURGH SYDNEY TEL AVIV TOKYO TUNIS VENICE

«Wine is meant to be enjoyed, not analyzed to death.»

The Herald Tribune's new book by Jon Winroth makes light of wine snobbery—but sparkles with facts

This quotation is from Jon Winroth's new and highly professional book, in which he rejects the windy pontification so often associated with wine buying, wine tasting and wine serving.

Witty, chatty, and often irreverent, this is a book of our time. For those who know wines and those who don't, there's much to be learned from WINE AS YOU LIKE IT. Order a copy today for yourself-and some extras while you're at it. A perfect gift, for friends or family.

INTERNATIONAL

Wine as you like it US $18 or equivalent in any convertible European currency—plus postage: in Europe, please add $1.50 or equivalent for each copy; outside Europe, please add $4 or equivalent for each copy. Complete and recum this coupon with your check to: International Herald Tribune, Book Division, 181 avenue Charles-de-Gaulle, 92521 Neuilly Cedex, France. cooles of WINE AS YOU LIKE IT. Address: City and Code:

· pac

THOSE GAMES CAN CAUSE

PERMANENT BRAIN DAMAGE.

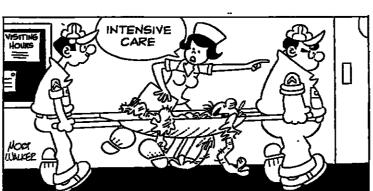

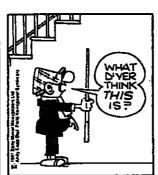

THE

LAST TWE

MY EROTHER

in-law

SPENT THE

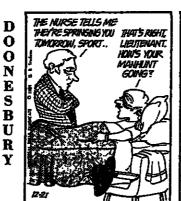

WEEKEND

PARKER.

AS KETTH AND

MARTHA TALK AFTER KENNY

60ES 10 BED. THEY ARE INTERRUPTED

0

G

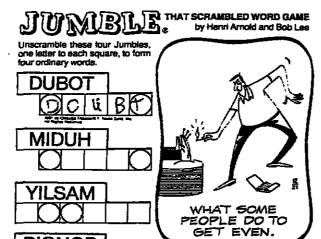

DENNIS THE MENACE

"I wanna give him a tip, too ... so 1'll

GET 6000 SERVICE AT CHRISTMAS!"

BIGNOB

Imprime par P.I.O. - I, Boulevard Ney 75018 Paris

Jumbles: EIGHT TEPID BISHOP FIASCO

Answer: Two things that kept him from being a good dancer—HIS FEET

BOOKS

PICASSO The Early Years, 1881-1907. By Josep Palau i Fabri. (Illustrated.) $160 until Dec. 31; $175 therea

Rizzoli International Publications, 712 Fifth Avenue, N.Y., N.Y. 1001 Reviewed by Anatole Broyard

ONE forgives Josep Palau L Fabri for his text in "Picasso: The Ear-ly Years, 1881-1907" for the sake of the hundreds of illustrations. hundreds of illustrations - some of them quite rare — that he has as-sembled in this encyclopedic but elegantly printed book. Many of the pic-tures are interesting in their own right and others for what they tell us about Picasso's development.

In his exhaustive presentation of Picasso's genealogy, Palau i. Fabri is like those Spaniards who recite in a sonorous voice, rolling the r's and relishing the gutturals, the long list of their family names. With true Catalan gusto, he defines the book as "an exploration, as immediate and intimate as possible, of a man of exceptional inner resources, who expressed his states of mind, his passions, his chimeras, his yearnings, his speculations, his shifts of mood and sensibility, his impressions, his emotions, his rages, his well-being or his distress, through the varied media of drawing, painting, sculpture, engraving, ceramics." The flamboyant Picasso himself might have winced at this encomium.

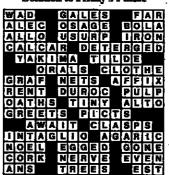

Picasso's first drawings, which have not survived, were of spirals, express-ing his fondness for churros, or sugardusted fritters. The earliest drawings in the book, done when Picasso was 8 or 9 years old, are remarkable. So is a painting from 1889, of the port of Malaga. In 1891, he did a drawing of donkeys mating.

Sentimental Taste

Though the young Picasso turned out his share of wooden or academic drawings, there is a powerful painting of his Aunt Pepa, done in 1896, that shows an amazing psychological grasp. We are almost relieved to see that Picasso was capable of daubing a number of irresolute landscapes, as well as conventional El Greco-like clongations.

At first, Picasso seemed almost compulsively attracted to pathos huddled crouching begging blind isolated figures. One improbapainting from 1903 shows three particles of the erty-stricken barefooted people in plicably choosing to freeze on a very beach. It would not be too m call Picasso's taste sentimenta this period.

We forget how good Picasso was direct portraiture until we see wellike "The Procuress" of 1904, show a strong-faced woman with one mificent and one milky, blinded The "Old Guitarist" in 1903 and "Ironing Woman" of 1904 announg a long period of blue and pink rom? ticism that included the sup. "Woman With a Raven." "Woman "Woman With a Raven." "Woman" a Chemise" and the acrobat ser which reached its apotheosis in large 1905 picture of a family of acrobats, who, as Meyer Schapiro pointed out, are all gazing, in the self-isolation, in different direction "Woman With a Fan." "Boy Witz Pipe" and "Nude Boy Leading Horse" are all here too as well as a Horse" are all here too, as well as a of clumsy works that seem incone able coming from the same man. W the 1906 portrait of Gertrude St Picasso comes to the end - and g haps modern art does too - of a tain kind of soft romanticism. As tend toward the more desperate mes of, say, Eduard Munch. The flattened planes in the port of Gertrude Stein clearly show in ences that have been variously cribed to African, early Catalan even Sumerian painting. Already, casso was preparing himself for " Demoiselles d'Avignon," the 1 work that has been credited with accused of, changing the face of 20 century art.

this, avant-garde romanticism work

The many preliminary drawn and sketches for this great paint, make it one of the most satisfying documented works that we have. the book's illustrations show in lay detail. Picasso's gradual editing of original plan amounts to a matur, of everything that went before, as v as a prefiguring of much that was come. It's a natural place to break the book, with Picasso poised on brink of Cubism. We can never have too much of the ultimate paradigmatic artist. visual art allowed and "Picasso: " Early Years" enables us to own first part of that everything.

casso, who is, as Palau i. Fabri clair

Anatole Broyard is on the staff of i New York Times.

CHESS

KORCHNOI does not usually adopt 3. B-N5ch, but he may be lading his real stuff in preparation for the championship match scheduled to begin Oct. 1 in Merano, Italy. After 7 O-O, however, it would have been prudent for him to choose the simplifying line with 7 . . . BxB; 8 QxB, O-O; 9 N-B3, N-K5; 10 NxN, BxN; 11 N-R4, BxB; 12 NxB, P-Q3. On 17 P-Q5!, it would have bee dangerous for Korchnoi to aim for a closed center with 17 . . P-K4 because of 18 B-R3!, Q-B2; 19 N-R4, Q-R4; 20 P-B3!

The powerful point of Timman's 23
P-B3! was evident after 23 . . . RK4; 24 B-Q4!, when 24 . . R/K4xQP?!; 25 P-K4!,
R/Q4-N4; 26 NxP would have given
White a great advantage in mobility.
Korchnoi's Korchnoi's alternative, 24... RxKP; 25 Q-Q3, R-K1; 26 B-B3, R-R1; 27 NxP, while superior, yielded White a mobile kingside pawn majority that could be used for a mating attack, whereas Black's queenside ng attack, whereas Black's queenside pawn preponderance was lamed.

Korchnoi's 28... P-N3 was an active attempt to fight off the white pieces, but, of course, it weakened the black king position.

Shouldn't Korchnoi have tried to clear off as much material as possible with 24.

with 34 . . . RxRch? When he adopted this strategy later, at Moves 40-42, it was perhaps too late. Korchnoi could have forced complications with 43 . . . R-N4, yet it is not clear how he might have escaped not clear how he might have escaped from 44 N-K4l, RxQP; 45 P-N5l, Q-N3; 46 P-B7ch, K-R1; 47 R-B6, Q-R4; 48 PxP, R-Q8ch; 49 K-B2, Q-R5ch; 50 K-K2l, Q-K8ch; 51 K-B3, Q-B8ch; 52 QxQ, RxQch; 53 K-N4, RxR; 54 NxR, BxP; 55 N-Q7, K-R2; 56 K-B5 with a winning ending for White

White.
Instead, his 43 ... Q-N3 left him no recourse against Timman's 44 P-B7ch, K-R2; 45 N-K2! with the horrendous threat of 46 N-B4 and 47 N-

Korchnoi soon had to give up I bishop after 49 P-B8/Q, but althou the game was virtually decided at the point, he hung on until 60 NxNP t fore giving up. .

QUEEN'S INDIAN DEFENSE

White Timoso	Block Keechnel	White Timeses	Black Kordensi
IP-OI ZP-QB4	N-KB3 P-K3	31Q-B3 32P-B5	R-KS- P-KN
3N-KB3	B-Noch	32P-85 32N-N2	QR-K
423-02	P-QR4	34KR-K1	K-NI
ज्ञ ¥ेख	P-QN3	35P-B4	B-N2
6B-N2	B-NZ	36P-B6	PxP
70-0 · 8B-84	0-0 B-K2	37R-KB1	B-B1 R-K6
9N-B3	N-K5	38NxP 390-N2	N-K5
10Q-B2	NEN	40N-B5	NxB
110xN	P-03	4INER	N±R
12Q-Q3	P-KB4	42NxN	R-K4
130-153	Q-Q2	48N-83	Q-N3 - K-R2 -
14B-N5 15QR-Q1	B-KB1	44P-87cb	K-R2 P-R4
16Q-B3	B-85	42N-152 42N-154	Q±NI:
17P-05	PzP	470±0	PEQ
18PzP	Q-82	470±0 480-88	B-K2
19B-83	P-R3	-40P-B3/Q	Back
20P-QR3 21N-R4	P-R5 R-R4	50R-87ch	K N3
2ZBzB	RXB	51R±B 52K-N2	R-KB R-QB
23P-B3	R-K4	53R-B2	Pži
34R-04	RxKP	54PxP	RaP .
25Q-Q3	R-K1	33E-N3	R-25
250-03 253-83 27NxP	R-R1	56R-84	RzR
26P-KN4	N-02 P-N3	57NxRch	K-B4 P-N4
29N-R4	K-R2	256/-52 256/-62	PO
500 TO 4	===		_ **

RADIO NEWSCASTS

BBC WORLD SERVICE VOICE OF AMERICA

42.2 36.7 25.2 19.7 14.9 13.9

عدامن الرجل

Bears Diminish Broncos' Postseason Chances, 35-24

ets, Giants, Bucs Reach NFL Playoffs

From Agency Dispatcher

IEW YORK — The New York
s captured their first National orball League playoff berth in years Sunday, using short scori runs by Kevin Long and Bruce uper and Richard Todd's two schoom passes to rout the een Bay Packers, 28-3, and nch an AFC wild-card slot.
The victory assured the Lets of

The victory assured the Jets of home-field advantage against iffalo in next Sunday's AFC id-card playoff. It eliminated the ckers from playoff contention, d earned the New York Giants NFC wild-card spot.

Long burst one yard for a score the opening three minutes of the me, Harper went over from ree yards out in the second quar-r and Todd iced the game with is 47-yard scoring pass to Jones 2 seconds before halftime. Todd roduced New York's fourth mehdown with just 5:25 left hen he hit Wesley Walker on a 7-yard scoring pass.

The Jets' defense, meanwhile, ottled up the Packers' explosive efferson. The Jets, who lead the agne in sacks, had nine Sunday o finish with 66 — one short of he NFL record set by Oakland in

Giants 13, Cowboys 10

In East Rutherford, N.J., Byron funt's interception set up Joe Danelo's 35-yard field goal at 6:19 of overtime on Saturday, giving New York a 13-10 comeback victory over Dallas. The triumph, coupled with the Jets' victory over the Packers on Sunday, put the Giants

ATLANTIC CITY, NJ.

Dwight Branton, using relentless pressure from the opening bell, floored Matthew Saad Muhammad midway through the 10th round Saturday en route to capturing the World Boxing Council light beavyweight title via a technical knockout. The bout was stopped at 2:54" in the 10th round of the

Braxton knocked down Saad

Muhammad with a right to the jaw midway through the 10th round.

Saad Muhammad jumped to his feet, but Braxton backed him into the ropes and began pummeling him as his cornermen screamed at referee Arthur Mercante to stop

Braxton dominated the fight

Scottish Kicking

Beats Australia

In Rugby, 24-15

EDINBUGH — Scotland fell behind, 15-9, then piled on 15 points to beat Australia Saturday, 24-15, in the third test match of Austraha's three-month rugby union tour of Britain and Ireland. The Wallabies have beaten Ireland and lost to Wales, and will face England at Twickenham on Jan. 2.

Goal-kicking made the difference, as Australia scored three tries — by flanker Simon Poidevin, wing Brenden Moon and center Andrew Slack — to Scotland's one. Paul McLean missed with three of four penalty kicks and all three

Scottish captain Andy Irvine, al-ready the leading scorer in the 110-

year history of international rugby, set a new Scottish match record with 17 points. He succeeded with scheduled 15-round fight.

into the NFL playoffs for the first time since 1963.

Danelo had hit the upright from 33 yards at 3:36 of overtime and blew a pair of easy first-quarter attempts, but he atomed for his mis-takes despite kicking into a 15 mph wind.

Buccaneers 20, Lions 17

In Pontiac, Mich., Bill Capece kicked a 30-yard field goal 12 seconds into the fourth quarter, and tackie Dave Logan returned a fum-ble by Lion quarterback Eric Hip-ple 21 yards for a touchdown 70 seconds later, lifting Tampa Bay to its second NFC Central Division title in three years with a 20-17 upset of Detroit.

The Buccaneers will open their postseason play in Dallas against the Eastern Division champion Cowboys in two weeks.

Cedric Brown's second interception of the game, which came with 7:02 to play and took place in the end zone, blunted a late Detroit effort to get back into the game. Tampa Bay clinched the game when Theo Bell recovered an onwhen the bell recovered an on-side kick attempt by the Lions af-ter they had scored with 1:21 left on an 8-yard pass from Hipple to Leonard Thompson.

Bears 35, Broncos 24

In Chicago, Gary Fencik raced 69 yards with an interception for one touchdown and Al Harris lumbered 44 yards with another theft as Chicago dealt Denver a 35-24 loss, seriously damaging the Broncos' playoff hopes.

Alan Page concluded a brilliant

15-year career with 3 sacks for 35 yards. Bolstered by a strong first-half performance. Chicago held a 14-3 lead at intermission, and converted the key Bronco turnovers into 14 second-half points. Walter Payton took a pass seven yards for his second touchdown catch of the game and Chicago's final score.

With the New York Jets having defeated the Packers, Denver's only chance for a playoff berth would be a loss Monday night by the San Diego Chargers, who visit

Eagles 38, Cardinals 0

In Philadelphia, Ron Jaworski passed for three touchdowns and Wilbert Montgomery rushed for 108 yards and a score as Philadelphia crushed St. Louis, 38-0, to clinch the home-field advantage in the first round of the NFL

The Eagles, who had scored just 43 points in losing their last four games, built a 28-0 halftime lead en route to a wild-card playoff confrontation Dec. 27 against the

49ers 21, Saints 17

In New Orleans, short-yardage specialist Johnny Davis bulled over from 3 yards out midway through the fourth quarter to give San Francisco a 21-17 victory over New Orleans.

George Rogers ran 107 yards for the Saints, becoming the NFL's regular-season rushing champion and breaking the rookie rushing record of 1,605 yards set by Ottis Anderson of St. Louis three years leans touchdowns.

Rogers finished the season with 1,674 yards, 28 yards better than Tony Dorsett of Dallas.

Dolphins 16, Bills 6

In Miami, David Woodley hit Tommy Vigorito for a 7-yard touc-down pass, and Uwe Von Schamann kicked three field goals to spark Miami to a 16-6 victory over Buffalo on Saturday, giving the Dolphins the AFC Eastern Di-

The triumph, which avenged a 31-21 loss at Buffalo Oct. 12, means the Dolphins will get a week off before holding their opening playoff game at the Orange Bowl.

Colts 23, Patriots 14

In Baltimore, Bert Jones threw three touchdown passes in what could be his final game for Balti-more as the Colts edged New Eng-land, 23-21, and ended a 14-game losing streak.

In ending the NFL season the way they started it, with a triumph over New England, the Colts fin-ished in a tie with the Patriots at 2-14. But New England will get the first pick in the collegiate draft.

Chiefs 10, Vikings 6

In Bloomington, Minn., Steve Fuller threw for the winning touchdown, and running back Billy Jackson rushed for 102 yards as Kansas City held off Minnesota, 10-6. It was the season finale for both teams, each of which already Joe Danelo, the New York Giant placekicker, shows his frustration at missing his first field-goal attempt in overtime, while Bruce Thornton of the Dallas Cowboys jumps for joy. But Danelo's later attempt was perfect, and the Giants won, 13-10.

Brigham Young Passer Foils Washington State

SAN DIEGO — Jim McMahon, the most successful passer in college football history, closed out his collegiate career Priday night by passing for 342 yards and three touchdowns to lead Brigham Young to a 38-36 victory over

COLLEGE BOWLS

Washington State in the fourth annual Holiday Bowl.

McMahon, a 6-foot, 183-pound senior who has set 55 NCAA records in his college career, passed for 254 yards in the first half. "I was sick and tired of hearing how the Pac-10 is so much better" than the Western Athletic Conference, McMahon said. "Hopefully, people around the country will notice, and the WAC will get a little more

BYU finished the season with

State was 8-3-1.

Dan Plater and Gordon Hudson

ught touchdown passes, fullback Waymon Hamilton burst one yard for a score and Kurt Gunther added a field goal to give BYU a 24-7 halftime lead. WSU quarterback Ricky Turner ran for a two-yard

After an interception return by cornerback Tom Holmoe stretched BYU's lead to 31-7, Washington State produced three touchdowns by Don LaBomme, Robert Wil-liams and Turner before Scott Pettis caught an 11-yard pass from McMahon to open the final peri-od. Mike Martin burst one yard for WSU late in the game and Turner ran for the two-point con-

Said WSU coach Jim Walden of McMahon: "He may be the best get-yourself-out-of-a-mess and getyourself-something-good quarter-back in the business. It's not luck because he does it all the time."

Missouri Outkicks So. Miss

ORLANDO, Fla. — Bob Lu-chesi kicked four field goals Saturday to lead Missouri to a 19-17 upset of Southern Mississippi in the 36th Tangerine Bowl. The sophomore split the uprights from 45, 41, 30 and 28 yards.

Missouri's defense, led by All-American tackle Jeff Gaylord, sacked third team All-American quarterback Reggie Collier six times for losses of 42 yards and hurried him into errant passes. 'Against a team like Missouri, we needed to play errorless ball and we didn't," Collier summed up. Running back Bob Meyer scored a touchdown for Missouri. The losers' points came from a four-yard run by Sammy Winder, a 37-yard field goal by Steve Clark and a 74-yard touchdown pass from Davy Sellers to Louis Lipps in the 170 care of the 170 car in the last 70 seconds.

ter when Mever scored on a threeyard run set up by a 37-yard chutch completion by Brad Perry to tight end Andy Gibler. Southern Miss quarter, moving 27 yards in nine plays before Clark's field goal, Missouri right back Jeff Smith took the kickoff on his 4-yard line, hesitated, then shot up the right side 56 yards to the Southern Mississippi 40. The Tigers moved to the Southern Miss 28 and Luchesi kicked his first field goal.

After Collier fumbled away pos-ession on the next play, Missouri moved to the 24 and Luchesi kicked a 41-yarder to give the Tigers a 13-3 halftime lead. Southern Mississippi pulled within three points with Winder's touchdown, but Missouri reponded by driving 75 yards in 17 plays to the 14 for Luchesi's third score. He iced the game after the defense sacked Collier twice and a short Southern Miss punt gave Missouri a first down at the 34 midway in the fourth quarter. With a minute left, Southern

Miss quarterback Sellers connected on a 74-yard touchdown pass to Lipps, but Missouri recovered the onside kick and ran out the clock.

We don't want to put up with him for another year." The letter did not ask Kuhn to Missouri led from the first quar-

resign. It said that "we the undersigned are not going to vote for the re-election of Bowie Kuhn," and requested that the information be conveyed to Kuhn through the Executive Council "in a dignified and

9 Clubs Sign Letter Urging Commissioner's Departure

Baseball Owners Gang Up on Kuhn

By Murray Chass

New York Tones Service
NEW YORK — Major league club owners cannot officially determine Bowie Kuhn's fate until next year, but nine of them - five in the National League and four in the American — went to the recent baseball meetings in Florida with a letter aimed at inducing the commissioner to resign or at least not ron for a third term.

The letter, a copy of which was read to The New York Times, was torn up, but not before it created turmoîl in the National League and served notice to Kuhn that there were enough votes to prevent him from continuing as commissioner when his term expires in August, 1983.

The existence of the letter, the thinking behind it and reactions to were pieced together from conversations with owners in both leagues. While all did not agree with the letter strategy, they generally agreed that Kuhn, as one said, has a problem."

Kuhn declined to comment. "I aware of the letter "and I became aware of the group of clubs who were raising the questions the letter presented. Beyond that, there's not much I can say. I've been faced over the years with incidents very much like this, so it doesn't come as any enormous surprise to me."

Said Gabe Paul, the Cleveland owner: "Anybody who thinks Bowie will resign has another thought coming. He will never resign. He's not made that way."

The owners must let Kuhn know of his status no earlier than 15 months before his term expires (next May) and no later than six months before (February, 1983). It would take four owners in the National League or five in the American to block his re-election.

Signing the letter from the National Leagne were August Busch Jr. of St. Louis, William Williams of Cincinnati, John McMullen of Houston, Ballard Smith of San Diego and Nelson Doubleday of the New York Mets. The Chicago Cubs, according to sources close to the matter, become involved in the movement in the late stages but chose not to sign.

Bowie Kuhn

American League signers were George Steinbrenner of the New York Yankees, Edward Bennett Williams of Baltimore, Eddie Chiles of Texas and George Argyros of Seattle.

Bloc of Votes

Apparently, not everyone who signed the letter agreed on what its purpose was. But all had negative views of Kuhn and were telling him his job was in jeopardy.

"We wanted to indicate to other people in both leagues," one of the signers said, that "there was potentially a bloc of votes to stop his reelection, and to see what the reaction would be."

Another signer saw a more spe-cific purpose in the letter, which was intended for baseball's Executive Council, the owners' advisory body for the commissioner.
"We wanted to have a committee set up to search for a new commissioner with the hope that Bowie would see the light," the owner said. "Some will say they would be satisfied just to know he wasn't going to run for re-election. But the real guts of the thing is

Eddie Chiles, the Texas owner, has been critical of Kuhn and the structure of baseball's hierarchy. The letter signers, Chiles said by telephone from his Texas office,

proper manner."

"are expressing their basic frustration at what has happened in baseball in the past few years, the way decisions have been made. Baseball's problems have not been managed well. I think there's a lot of deep antagonism there. I don't see anybody changing."

Peter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers, whose father, Walter, was long considered the real power behind Kuhn, learned of the existence of the letter and began calling owners sympathetic to Kuhn.

Finally, one of the signers s ested that if the letter posed such 2 devastating problem, it could be tom up. At the time, the letter had not been introduced at the meeting. Some owners never even saw it, although copies do exist.

By Neil Amdur

New York Times Service

For Tracy Austin, the challenges of tennis are welcome every day; for Chris Evert Lloyd, those challenges have become increasingly

And so it was Saturday night

In beating Shriver for the 10th time in 12 matches. Navratilova served confidently, volleyed defuly and even tried topspin on her backhand passing shots. She ag-more difficult.

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J.

Toledo Nips San Jose State that gave Toledo a 17-3 halftime

FRESNO, Calif. — Tony Lee kicked a 41-yard field goal with 15 seconds left in the California Bowl Saturday to give Toledo a hard-fought 27-25 upset victory over San Jose State.

Lee's game-winning kick came seconds after the Ohio team had gone behind for the first time in the game, 25-24, on a two-point conversion pass by San Jose tail-back Gerald Willhite to wide receiver Kevin Taylor. The conversion followed a 35-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Steve Clarkson to Mervin Fernandez with less than a minute remaining. l'oledo quarterback Maurice Hall completed passes of 18 and 34 yards in the final 52 seconds to set up Lee's winning kick. It was Hall's passing, key interceptions by the defense and the running of tailback Arnold Smiley lead and kept San Jose behind un-til the final minute. Mixing his passes with Smiley's running, Hall kept San Jose off balance most of

In the wild fourth quarter, To-ledo got a 27-yard field goal to go up, 24-11. Two minutes later San Jose roared back, going 73 yards in eight plays capped by a 22-yard touchdown pass from Clarkson to Fernandez. Toledo blocked the point after, making it 24-17.

Most of the final quarter was played between the 20-yard lines, until with 52 seconds left Clarkson again hit Fernandez. Willhite's two-vard flip to Taylor gave the Spartans a 25-24 lead that looked definitive.

But with no time outs, Toledo took the kickoff and moved 66 yards in four plays to set the stage for Lee's winning field goal.

Tracy Austin in action at the Toyota tennis championships in East Rutherford, N.J.

De Agostini Avenges Loss to French Skier

SAALBACH, Austria - Doris de Agostini of Switzerland won the women's World Cup downhill ski race here Satrurday, finishing just ahead of Marie-Cécile Gros-Gaudenier, the French woman who unexpectedly won Friday's race.

De Agostini, runner-up on Friday, won in a minute 13.71 seconds. Gros-Gaudenier was second in 1:13.93 while Irene Epple of West Germany came third in 1:14.00 and moved back into the lead in the overall World Cup standings.

Proven Talent

The start of the race was delayed for half an hour because bad weather required that the track be changed. A heavy storm raging along the course during the previous 24 hours had made it impossible for organizers to prepare the track properly on the upper sec-

NHL Suspends Player For Shoving Official

MONTREAL - Winnipeg forward Jimmy Mann Friday became the second National Hockey League player in a week to be disciplined for abusing an official, recaiving a three-game suspension and a $500 fine for shoving lines-man Gord Broseker in a Dec. 9

On Wednesday the league had suspended Phildelphia forward Paul Holmgren for five games and fined him $500 for punching referee Andy Van Hellemond. The NHL Officials Association called the Holmgren suspension "grossly inadequate" and appealed for a tougher penalty.

tion. The race was consequently held on a reduced track of only 1,710 meters, compared with the 2,387 meters of the previous day.

"I didn't even know the French girl before she defeated me on Fri-day," De Agostini said Saturday. There is no doubt we will have to watch her in the next downhill races this winter. She proved with her second place today that her victory on Friday did not come by chance. She is a great downhill talent."

Gros-Gandenier, who before Friday had never placed better than fifth in a World Cup down-hill, said: "I felt I could do better when I clocked excellent times in training runs on this track in the last few days before the races. Now I am confident I can crack the top three in any downhill race. If I didn't feel that way, I'd better give up skiing."

Epple's third-place finish won enough points to regain the lead in the overall women's World Cup standings with 104 points. Erika Hess of Switzerland is second with 96 points.

Cooper Sixth

Christin Cooper of the U.S. team finished a surprisingly high sixth, considering that her special-ties are slalom and giant slalom. It gave her an excellent chance of gaining additional World Cup points from combined standings that will be computed on the basis of Saturday's downhill and a subsequent giant slalom event in

Unlike Friday, some of the young and more daring competi-tors failed to challenge the stars on the slower trail where experience, material and snow conditions played a role.

Late starters found ruts and bumps, which they had to negotiate with caution because of foggy weather that substantially reduced visibility,

Men's Downhill Delayed

CRANS-MONTANA, Switzer land (AP) — Heavy snowfalls forced the organizers of the men's World Cup downhill race here to put the event off by one day to

WOMEN'S DOWNHILL

1. Doris de Aestini, Switzerland, 1:13,71,
2. Marie-Cécile Gros-Goudenier, Fra
1:13,94.
3. Irane Epsie, West Germany, 1:14,00,
4. Lea Scelkner, Austria, 1:14,19,
5. Cornella Proli, Austria, 1:14,19,
6. Christin Cooper, U.S., 1:14,44,
7. Dianne Lehaday, Conada, 1:14,59,
9. Veronika Vitzinum, Austria, 1:14,56,
10. Elisabeth Chaud, France, 1:14,74,
11. Ingrid Eberle, Austria, 1:14,75,
12. Lourie Greham. Canada, 1:14,88,
13. Roscame Toly, U.S., 1:15,16,
14. Diano Holgith, Canada, 1:15,13,
15. Maire-Luce Weismeier, France, 1:15,22,

WORLD CUP STANDINGS

1. Epple, 104 points.

2. Eriko Hess, Swiftzerland, 94.

3. Hossal Werzel, Llechtenstein, 72.

4. Ross Marria Quario, Hally, 44.

5. Cras-Goudenier, 45.

5. De Agostini, 45.

7. Perrine Pelen, France, 41.

6. Cooper, 41.

7. Tomoro McKinney, U.S., 30.

18. Seefiner, 25.

19. Christo Kinshofer, Wast Germany, 2

Reds Acquire Cedeno From Astros for Knight

United Press International
CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds, trying to rebuild their outfield have traded third baseman Ray Knight to the Houston Astros for Cesar Cedeno. Earlier this month, they acquired outfielder Clint Hurdle from Kansas City.
The departure of Knight, a hard-playing dependable third baseman, means the Reds may try gravated a pulled groin muscle ear-ly in the first set, but there was nothing wrong with the way Navratilova moved on the opening point of the second-set tiebreaker. In a marvelous display of her athletic ability, Navratilova made corner-to-corner gets on Shriver's overheads and then won the point Johnny Bench at third base. The Reds said Cedeno wants to play with a running forehand pass day night's encounter. She

down the line. She swept the tie-breaker, 7-1, with a forehand at love, trailed, 30-15, in the seccross-court service return winner. Navratilova leads in the series with Austin, 16-12, but Austin has a 3-2 edge this year. One more Austin victory could further com-plicate any definitive ranking

among the two finalists and Lloyd, the Wimbledon champion who is when Austin, 19 years old, overwhelmed Lloyd, who will be 27 on Monday, 6-1, 6-2, in the semifinals of the Toyota tennis currently No.1 on the computer. That Austin should defeat Lloyd so decisively, in 1 hour 16 minutes, may have disappointed many in the crowd of 9,156. On Thursday night the two engaged in a classi three-set marathon, which Lloyd won in a decisive tiebreaker.

championships.

Austin was to face Martina Navratilova on Sunday night for the $75,000 first prize and perhaps consideration for the year's No.1
spot on the computer rankings.
Navratilova eliminated her doubles partner, Pam Shriver, 6-4, 7-6. But Lloyd admittedly had geared herself mentally to play Shriver in the semifinals, and perhaps Navratilova or Austin in the final. The burden of committing to another potentially long, tedious struggle, with the taste of a 3-hour 18-minute victory still fresh, appeared to be more than Lloyd was prepared to deal with. Even Lloyd's choice of a midnight blue outfit seemed to capture her dark attitude toward the rematch.

> By contrast, Austin seemed to profit from the mistakes of her close, frustrating loss and grew more confident throughout Satur-

Austin Overwhelms Lloyd in Quick Rematch ond game and then swept nine consecutive games, using drop shots to combat Lloyd's drop shots, driving corner-to-corner and even moving in occasionally to cut-

> The victory was Austin's ninth in 16 matches against Lloyd. She remains the only player with a career edge over Lloyd.

On Friday, Austin beat Mima Jausovec and Shriver beat Andrea er to move into the semifinals of the round-robin event.

N.F.L. SUPERBOWL

LIVE from DETROIT Sunday, Jan. 24 - 10 p.m. SALLE PLEYEL PARIS

MERIDIEN HOTEL PARIS 2 nights accommodation 1 ticket for superbowl

 U.S.$130 in Double U.S.$203 in Single

AL KHOBAR: 864.6000 PARIS: 758.12.30 Sales Dept.

five of eight penalty kicks and con-verted a late try by Jim Renwick. The score was locked at 15-15 for most of the second half. Australia's three tries to none had indicated a rout, but Irvine had kept the Scots in the game by kicking five out of five penalties. When a drop by flyhalf John Rutherford broke the tie, the fired-up Scots accelerated to victory despite three penalty misses by Irvine.

More Sports On Page 11

ton landed dozens of hard punches to Saad Muhammad's head and body, and opened a gash on the side of Saad Muhammad's nose in the fourth round.

Dwight Braxton delivering a hard right to Matthew Saad Muhammad on Saturday en route to winning the World Boxing Council light-heavyweight championship on a TKO in the 10th round.

As early as the second round, Braxton staggered Saad Muhammad with a hard right and landed several combinations, but could not floor the champion before the beli sounded. Saad Muhammad, traditionally slow starter who has relied on late-round knockout punches in recent fights, only occasionally stung Braxton with a crisp left jab, and weakly counterpunched under Braxton's barrage of hard blows. Several of Saad Muhammad's previous opponents hurt him in the early rounds, but Saad Muhammad, who won his title from Marvin Johnson with an eighth-round knockout in April, 1979, and defended the crown 11 times, always managed to come After the fight, Braxton said the 27-year-old Philadelphian's track record had been on his mind.

Hardly a Cakewalk

"It was a life and death situation all the way," Braxton said. "He hit an the way, bratch said. He had me with some punches — I ain't going to lie to you — I saw the ceiling turning around. But I just told myself I wasn't going to go

"Man, let me tell you something The man hit as hard as a mule licks. But he was looking for that one shot and I was ready for him."

Sead Muhammad was unavailable for comment immediately after the fight, but promoter Murad the fight, but promoter Murad Muhammad, who called the result "one of the biggest upsets of the year," said prefight "confusion" in Saad Muhammad's camp may have contributed to the defeat. A dispute between Saad

Muhammad's handlers and the promoter over the size of the champion's purse may have distracted his concentration, according to Murad Muhammad.

The victory raised Braxton's record to 16-1-1 with nine knock-

Mamby Retains WBC Title

The Associated Press LAGOS, Nigeria — Saoul Mamby of Jamaica outpointed Obisia Nwankpa of Nigeria to retain his World Boxing Council junior welterweight championship Saturday night, the Nigerian news agency reported Sunday.

Saad Muhammad Loses Title on TKO from the opening bell. Stalking the champion around the ring, Brax-31-42 with 24 knockouts.

> Council junior middleweight champion Wilfred Benitez and veteran Roberto Duran will be held at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, acpromoter Don King, Earlier re-

> Benitez vs. Duran

ports had placed the fight at the

CLEVELAND (AP) - The Jan. 30 fight between World Boxing

cording to a spokesman for boxing

Riviera Hotel, also in Las Vegas.

Language

Vulnerable Windows: The Panes of Coinage

By William Safire

NEW YORK — A plaintive, if syntactically convoluted, message has come to this department from a U.S. senator.

"My previous occupation, prior to coming to Washington, having been a farmer from South Dakota, I have been curious about two new expressions Washington bureaucrats have expressed to me." The senator went on to pose a question;

"On Tuesday, during the Law of the Sea hear ing, a witness de 🚰 scribed the new Law of the Sea Treaty as a window of opposite Treaty as a window of opportu-nity. On Thursday, during AWACS hearings in the Foreign Relations Committee, a State De-partment official told me we had a window of vulnerability.' Where,' asks the hyperfenestrated solon, "did all this window talk come

Space Lingo

From outer-space lingo, that's where. "Launch window" was a phrase that came off the pad in the late 1960s. The Soviet and American vehicles flew to Venus close together," wrote Walter Sullivan of The New York Times on Oct. 18, 1967, "because both were fired during one of the periodic win-dows for such shots. These are brief periods of time when Venus is overtaking the earth and relative positions of the two planets are

A second metaphoric root can be found at the nearest bank. Most tellers no longer work behind windows, as "thrift institutions" and "full-service financial institutions" vie for depositors' dollars with a new, open look; soon, I expect de-positors and tellers to work out their transactions on a cosy love seat. In the old days of fishy-eyed stares, however, you went to a barred window; accordingly, the Federal Reserve's willingness to extend or contract credit became known as the nation's "credit window," and the U. S. Treasury's willingness to convert gold to dollars became known as "the gold

AMERICA CALLING

ATH47'DN. Travelers' messages. Write Bax 6262, Olympia, WA 98502, USA.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

gained a connotation of a small space or short time in which some-thing important could be accom-plished. The old panoramic, openness meaning remained — a new restaurant called "Windows on the World" opened atop New York's World Trade Center — but sud-denly "window" had a new vista on which to look.

John Newhouse, a former armscontrol official, says that the "win-dow of vulnerability" phrase crept into the Senate's hearings on the SALT II treaty in the summer of 1979. (Others suspect an early 1970s origin) "The phrase describes a time just ahead," writes Newhouse, "when improved Soviet missile forces will, in theory, be able to destroy most of America's silo-based Minuteman ICBMs in a literal bolt from the blue."

As "window of vulnerability" was bruited about in the summer of 1979, it was natural for the view to be described from the other side of the window: "Frank Barnett of the National Strategy Information Center, a hawkish think tank," re-ported Time magazine on Nov. 12, 1979, "warned of a Soviet window of opportunity" in the 1980s."

But no political or strategic phrase carries real authority unless it has passed the lips of the High-est Authority. On Sept. 24, 1981, our little window made a breakthrough: "Til confess, I was reluc-tant about this," said President Reagan in explanation of a cut in defense spending, "because of the long way we have to go before the dangerous window of vulnerability confronting us will be appreciably

Careful users of metaphors will note that these windows are not open and closed, as are gold windows and credit windows, but are "narrowed" and "widened." Al-though the window refers to time -a period of years - it cannot be used with "lengthened" or "shortened," because those words do not fit the idea of a window.

I have a hunch that there is still mileage in windows. We have yet to deal with the window pot of marijuana and the window dressing of media manipulation, as the storm window of outrage forces us to fling wide the French doors of

New York Times Service

Coping With Down's Syndrome

Bringing Afflicted Children Into Normal Life Instead of Hiding Them

By Glenn Collins New York Times Service

NEW YORK — "Well, I wiggle her all around, see," said 7-year-old Sean Cohan, as he attempted to describe, as precisely as possible, exactly what it was like to have a 3-year-old sister who has Down's syndrome. "Then she wiggles me all around." he said, "and she jumps on me. Then she jumps on my dad. And that makes me laugh a little, and it makes my dad laugh a lot!"

Had he forgotten to describe anything? "Well, sometimes she beats the beck out of me," he said, giggling as his sister Alexis came over and give him a hug.

The sentiments, however, were not all giddy. "Really, it's not Down's syndrome I worry about," said 13-year-old Judy Garczynski about her 6-month-old sister, Megan. my sister has a heart condition, and she might not make it." She paused a moment amid the silence of the other children around her. "We take it one day at a time."

Sibling Day

It was Sibling Day at the school of the Association for Children With Down's Syn-drome in Bellmore, N.Y., and 39 children from 21 families had come to visit their brothers' and sisters' school.

Sometimes movingly, sometimes hilarious-ly, they shared their experiences with other children whose siblings have Down's syndrome. They talked about the cruel teasing of friends and the ignorance of neighbors and even teachers. In the end, they said they'd had a very good time.

The existence of the get-together was evidence of a reversal in U.S. life: the trend against institutionalizing children with Down's syndrome. This is making them a presence in communities, schools and fami-lies — and an important factor in the lives of their brothers and sisters.

Genetic Defect

Before 1960, more than 80 percent of children with Down's syndrome were institution-alized, "and the other 20 percent were hidden said Dr. Jessica G. Davis, a medical geneticist who is an associate professor of clinical pediatrics at Cornell University Medical College. "Recently, close to 100 percent have been coming into communities."

Down's syndrome, a genetic defect that causes mental retardation and may be associated with some physical and facial characteristics, has no known care. It is not uncommon: One out of every 1,000 live births in the United States — about 3,000 a year — is a Down's syndrome child, regardless of racial, nomic or regional differences.

Recently a national organization called the Sibling Network was formed to coordinate research and share information among educators, physicians, parents and social workers at Vanderbilt University in Nashville,

Siblings Day brings Down's syndrome children together with others.

"Traditionally, there was the tendency to bide these problems away, to shroud them in mystery," said Dr. Davis. "Siblings were encouraged not to talk about it — and so often the siblings felt angry and isolated."

the siblings felt angry and isolated."

Many new parents are shattered to learn that their child has Down's syndrome; it isn't easy for the siblings either. "It can be very scary for the next closest child in the family," said Dr. Davis. "Mother goes off to the hospital and comes back — and there's a new baby with a problem. Young children may even wonder. Is this my fault? Also, in many families, the child with Down's syndrome may get more attention than other children."

"The attempt now is to bring Down's syndrome children into the family circle in a natdrome children into the family circle in a nat-ural way," said Fredda Stimell, the executive director of the school at the Association for Children With Down's Syndrome, "We try to encourage the siblings to talk and learn from one another."

Terminology

One of the problems that older siblings have is coping with the word "retard," winch is commonly used as a pejorative among children. With the other kids, you have to explain to them — that they're taiking about your brother," said 12-year-old Todd Pro-beck of Wantangh, N.Y., whose 3-year-old brother, Danny, has Down's syndrome, "I don't think lots of kids really know what they're saying.

"The word 'mongoloid,' too, has very neg-ative connotations," said Mrs. Stimell, the preferred term is Down's syndrome. "We try to raise consciousness generally about the use

The siblings themselves are some of the

EMPLOYMENT

EXECUTIVES AVAILABLE

PERNOTH WOMAN, 32, experienced in and order business, buying, mtl seles, adverteing media, English, Sparish, Italian, German seeks challenging po-sition, Sen 404, Herold Tribune, 92521 Neutly ander France.

GENERAL POSITIONS AVAILABLE

CORLDWIDE publishing company

guidas, 25+ years in businas, Work of home and/or obroad. Many open-ings available worthwide. See the world, make good maney. No exper-sion necessary. DTS, Suedales 2, D-6462 Meithach 3, W. Ger. Tel. 89 6868/S17, Th. 445242 DES D.

WATTELLI
BRITISH, 26, actionion to degree level, Rassonable Durch, some Franch, Diversely experienced, Including of field, disco recongeneers, a life journalism, Intelligent, determined, easily adaptates, seese of humans, Seela interesting and chollenging position amywhere in the world, Antriking considered. Write Box 15235, Herald Tribune, 92521 Nausily Cadex, Pranza. HARVARD GRAD, AMBITTICH, English, Sponish, Franch, Economics background, computer, extensive infl experience, seela position in enterpy, Instantia, captabural development, Africa, Europe, Middle East, Mark Woods, English Sponish College 212-744-8427 BRUNGSIAL GRADIANTE, device per

SECRETARIES AVAILABLE

NEED A TENPOSARY SECRETARY Coll: G.R. Interim, Paris 225 59 25.

most important consciousness raisers, as they ry to dispel their friends' stereotypes about Down's syndrome. Some of them have brought their small brothers and sisters to class or assembly programs about mental retardation, to demonstrate that they are active, energetic and friendly. "It's more difficult for my sister to learn than me," said 9year-old Douglas Robinson. "They need extra help because they're slow. But they can

Records Seldom Kept

Even the siblings' teachers use negative words. "One thing you can do is to go up to the teacher afterward and say, 'Please don't use those words because my brother has Down's syndrome," said 14-year-old Chris Probeck, Todd's brother. Several children who had done that with teachers or neighbors said that the reaction was always one of embarrasament and apology on the part of the grown-up.

Reliable national record keeping about Down's syndrome is almost nonexistent, but the trend is dramatically against institutionalization. Every Down's syndrome child born since 1974 in New York's Nassau County has returned to his or her family, or to a home through foster care or adoption.

What did children with Down's syndrome themselves think of Sibling Day? "I'm having a real good time," said 13-year-old Cindy Ann Giller. Her sister, Sandy, 2, also has Down's syndrome. "I've been teaching her how to do puzzles and how to say sounds," she said, eyeing the blond Sandy, who was racing around in bright red shoes and shirt. "She's incly to have a big sister like me."

EMPLOYMENT

TYPIST

English mother tongue

Send resume (with phone number if possible) to # 18,689, Contense Publicite, 20 Ave de l'Opera, 75040 Paris Cadex III, who will forward.

POSITIONS WANTED

NGLISH NANNES & Mothert Heb free now. Nesh Agency, 27 Grend Fo rade, Brighton, UK. Tel: 652 666.

AUTOS TAX FREE

Thunderbird, 79, alwar, $400 Deville, 17, 2door deset, $12,000 Masterig, 3 doors, 79, $4900 Novo, 77, white, A/C, $2000 Mercades 200, new, champagne Mercades 200 D, new, toigs beige Mercades 200 SD, USA, new, changagnes

ICZKOVITS

Claridenstrase 36, CH-802/ Zurich Teh 01/202 76 10. Teles: 53444,

Letter From Pushkar

Camel Is More Reliable Than the Electricity

By Tyler Marshall Los dageles Times Service

DUSHKAR, India - As in a scene from a Cecil B. DeMille film, smoke from thousands of campfires drifted lazily over the desert encomponent crowded with camels, horses and cattle, along with their turbaned, dark-skinned

The only links to the 20th century were the electric lights from this nearby Hindu holy town and a cluster of modern tents for tourists drawn to the spectacle.

Asia's most colorful camel-trading fair was in full swing.
The size of the event, which this year brought about 10,000 camels phis traders from throughout India's desert state of Rajasthan and adjoining areas, suggests the extent to which this ancient desert beast

Used by Troops

The camel a vital part of life and lore in India's desert region, has survived the changes of the modern world as successfully as it has the extremes of desert climate. India has spent billions of dollars on a sophisticated military arsenal, but it still uses camelmounted troops to patrol the sensitive desert frontier with Pakistan.

Pakistan does the same thing.
"In that kind of terrain, nothing can match them," B.V.S. Drona, an officer in India's Border Security Force, said recently.

Desert farmers, who have found that the camel is often better suited than expensive tractors for plowing their small plots of land, have also found additional uses for the animal. In the early 1950s, for example, some local artisans developed a highly efficient camel cart that rolls on old airplane tires.

Today, this blend of the cultur ally old and new carries people and goods up to 40 miles in a 10hour day.

Economical but Slow

The cart's capacity — up to two tons or 15 people — and low operating cost make it economical despite its slow pace.

"Time doesn't matter," Pukha Ramji, a village elder, said with a shrug. "If people have more time, they only fight."

Ramp's village, which has 400 camels, got its first tractor in 1975 and has since added four others.

But Ramii expressed doubt that there would be a sixth soon. A tripling of diesel fuel prices in recent years has helped push the tractor further out of reach for all but the richest landowners.

"Besides," Ramii sald, "it's exier to resell a camel. No one wants a tractor."

Since the late 1940s, India's camel population has nearly tripled to roughly 1.5 million. And with such growth, the Rajasthan state government has begun fi-nancing research and development offerts to improve the stock.

Mother Nature has already provided sturdy raw material - an animal with the ability to retain enough water to go as long as a week without a drink despite scaring desert heat. Its preferred diet is grass, but it can survive on dry leaves or branches. Its hump is mainly fat, stored energy.

Local historians believe that the camel came to the subcontinent from the Arabian Peninsula and that it has been used for nearly 4,000 years on the Great Indian Desert as transport for man and

Nuclear Technology

Although India's nuclear techology provides power to run electtic pumps for a growing number of deep-water wells in rural areas. such power is not always reliable, and camel power is still widely used for drawing water.
The camel is always there," village elder Ramji said. "Electricity The camei's ungainly appearance and slow, awkward guit might give the impression that it is a docile, slow-witted animal, but it is nothing of the kind.

When mistreated, it can react violently, and has been known to-kill a tormentor, ripping with its teeth and crushing with its weight. The camel has an impercable sense of direction and the ability to find water in the desert.

Depending on its size, age and breed, a healthy adult camel can cost from $100 to $1,000.

Despite a fourth year of famine in Rajasthan's desert regions, about 100,000 people turned up for the trading fair at Pushkar. Camel races and other entertainment have been added in recent years, but the principal action is still the happing over camels and

SUBSCRIBE to the INTERDEAN INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE AND SAVE. Vz a uám arpitotypia. Já tyr 249.54.00 64.31.44 596.7444 (06199) 2001 41.85.30 you can save up to 42% of the newsstand price, depend on your country of residence occi candid Tribuse and Harrald Tribuse arcind Soll AUTOMOBILES, REMOVALS, BAG-GAGE, Special roles by oir to U.S.A., Conodo, 6, other destructions. Tran-sorr, Paris 500 03 04. MORLOWICE removels/car shippi Morini Air Frest, Paris 288 73 97. AT CHRISTMAS BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

SAVE TIME
CUT DOWN ON YOUR POSTAGE
Send Your Greefings Through An Ad-'Season's Greetings'

DIVORCE IN 24 HOURS Metual or contested actions, low cost. Hait or Dominican Republic. For infor-mation, send $ 3.75 for 24-page booker / handing to Dr. F. Gonzales, CDA, 1835 K 32.N.W. Washington D.C. 2006, U.S.A. Tal. 202-452 8331 or 703-829-0674. Warldwide service.

YOUR CHRISTMAS PARTY? Delicious concres, fine Champagne, elegant and charming surroundings, r 50 to 100 people. F 110 all included

PERLINEG Lew? - having problems SOS HELP crisis-line in English. 3 p.m 11 p.m. Tek Paris 723 80 80. SUN N.Y. TIMES, jet Euro-del Write POS 2, 1000 Brussek, Belgi

RE-LOCATE

MOVING

COMPLITIE PORTRAITS Printed on T-shirts, on all crash business that can earn you $6000 - $8000/month. Color, b & w. new & cased systems for immedi-cia delivery, $10,000-$29,000. Kenna GrabH, Dept. p21, Postrach 174082, 6000 Frankfurt, W. Ger. Tell. 0611-747809 Tbu 412713, 10ons-6pm

RESERVATIONS: 260 37 90 (Ext. 266) 3 roe de Castiglione, Paris 1 er.

writter P.C. 2. (1994) Paris. Tek 325. 76.03-751 38.90. PORTUGAL SEE Holidays and Travel

20 WAYS TO Jost ga doven tijn liet gall ynw liggele W land laterigan gill

POR SALE. International Group of Publishers, trading workwide 23+ years, unlimited possibilities for expension, ideal for newtoment to publishing field. Can be operated from any part of the world. Price basis US$1,500,000. Brff. Ros. 1639, Gr. Eschenheimenntr. 43, 6000 Frankfurt, W. Germany. LTD. COMPANIES FROM £ 69. Formations UK and worldwide, including ske of Man, Persona, Liberio & Angulia. Cartica. C.C.M. Ltd. 5 Upon Church St., Douglas, Isle of Man, LLX, Tel. Douglas, Isla of Man, LLX, Tel. Douglas, 627/FUI COMUNG. COTTON CARNYAS - tento 8, torpoulins for army 8, civil uses available. Con-text manufacturest and exporters N.P. Waterproof Indiatines List, 2079, Ten-tile Flazzo, M.A. Jinnah Road, Karachi, Palistian. Teles: 24/28 WPROF PK -Calple Waterproof Karachi.

OFFICES FOR RENT NEAR CHAMPS BYSES High does furnished effices BY COWNER Trilingual heateurs. Heler - porking. 33 nue Galilee,751 16 Paris. Tel. 723/7224

BUSINESS SERVICES YOUR OFFICE in Hong Kong, Prestige address, tallor, secretarial, Cape Rich Ltd., Teleszi; 37616 URBCH HX. DOYOUARD service & investig The 630698. Tel: 306 64 03 Ports OFFICE SERVICES

LONDON BUSINERS ADDRESS/ PHONE/TELEX Emplains, Suite 66, EF Regard St., WI. Tel.: 43F 7094. EAL ESTATE FOR SALE

PRENCE PROVINCES BEAUTHUL RUBAL MANESON 52 kms S.W. of Park, near Rembosilet Longe Eving, kitchen, postry, 4 bed rooms, 2½ boths, central heating, go

HOLLAND

AMSTERDAN-CENTER. Magnificent renovated specious operational (over 2000 sq.ft.), at Relatingroats. 2 livings, 1 dining room, 2 bedrooms + 2 bathrooms, office, kindsen + parity, portion, price US$ 150,000 (service, maintenance, central heading steem). Writes D. Ropelston, Keizengracht 108, 1015 CV Amsterdam, The Netherlands Paris & Suburds MEUDON

Exceptionnel 5 please + terrace 100 m2 nique, immerble b Prix a debatire. Tel: 248 05 49.

NEIRLY EXCEPTIONAL, dose Asser-can Hospital, owner selfs spadou town house (600 st.m.) with garder High price. No agent, Mease phon office hours Paris 563 78 40. NEIGHLY: Owner sels 6th floor studio 44 st.m., high doss, modern building Boloony, exampsed thickers, caller, or rags. F620,000. Tel: 75' 62' 88'. CDECN. 3 rooms, 70 sc.m., charm, ol comforts. F900,000. Tel: 325' 21' 60'.

USA GENERAL INVEST IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA Aportment, Commercial and Industrial complexes, curvally reorioges $200 million of Real Estate, $120,000 mini-ment. Contact Michael K. Hayde, P.O. Box 6348, Orange, California 92667, U.S.A.

REVERLY HILLS, 27,500 sq.ft. soned commercial lots, available near press grous Wilshire Bd. in Beverly Hills, Cal framio. Call Ann, Paris 288 05 51, af-

REAL ESTATE TO RENT/SHARE

AVORIAZ

RAIDA VALII - Fully furnished opera-ment in prestigious building for next or sale. Near American schools. Three bedrooms, large recognition room, Two bestrooms. Assimum six months of $500/month. Prore USAs 803 723 707 or London 405 0767.

HOLLAND

"la boutique"

Van Cleef & Arpels

bijoux "nacre"

22 Place Vendôme Paris-tel. 261 58 58

USA COMMERCIAL & INDUSTRIAL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE USA RESIDENTIAL

LA JOLLA, CALIFORNIA LAST OF A KIND

PRENCH PROVINCES

TO RENT FOR CHE WHEK

JANUARY - F483 PM PRINCON

On the bests of 5 people occupying a

2-room operiment. Cleaning every day,

TV, telephone, Sd decount, Sd lessons

2 hours, Children's village for 3-12 years, 6 hours per day. Cros-county

tiding, Souna, swimming pool, chema.

Possibility for Morch clea.

Tels 747 47 50 - 747 10 96.

7007 or London 405 Wey.

COMMON! New lossny furnished flats.
Gorden setting, Heated pool. Convenient cirports, Suit 1-4. E 193-195/week.
Tel London 986 4062 or 202 2010.

COMMON! For the best furnished flats and houses. Consult the Specialists Philips, Key and Lewis. Tels London 839 2245.

COMMON! In the commontes destributed for the Common Service of the Common Service o ONDOM lutury properties, short/long lets - HERRIST (I) 434 3717/8/9.

SERVICES in Amsterdam, Hil-versum & Utrecht cirecs. Tel. 035-12198, Kapittehveg 389, Hilversum. PARIS AREA FURNISHED AT THE CLARIDGE 74 Champs Elysees 8th 1 month or more
A presigious address.
Sion Service, telex, exessag sintencoe service, security.
Private solon.
Tel: 359 67 97
Telex: 290 548F

BD LANNES. Splendid double Fring + backgom, 90 sq.m., garage, 19th cen-tury English furniture, 6th floor, very quart, F3500 net. Tel: 451 10 02 from

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS REAL ESTATE TO RENT/SHARE PARIS AREA FURNISHED

AT HOME IN PARS PARIS PROMO FURNISHED & UNITURNISHED APARTMENTS TO RENT OR SALE 25 Ave. Hoche 75008 Paris 563 25 60.

STAYING IN PARIS? PURNISHED & UNIFURNISHED PRIST-CLASS APAITMENTS. Missimum regroup 2 months. Also fluts & bouses for sole. NYTHE URBIS, 1 Bus Modien, Paris (8s). Tel. 563.17.27.

H. INTERNATIONAL 51 la Bernionak 551 66 99 ETOILE Magaificent 5/6 rooms Vary kaserlaus. F6800. Tels 280 20 42. ETOLE

AVENUE MALACOFF 1 éths channing 3 rooms with period furniture, ail con-forts. References, F3500 net. Tels 900 20 76. 500 23 76.

NOTHE DAME DE LORSTEE 2nd floor, 100 sq.m., 4 rooms + both, tildnen, WC, centrol heat, phone. Detaile. Tuyamon Tel. (21) 85 57 531 Hollands. Tuyamon Tel. (21) 85 57 531 Hollands. COHOCHEME 5 R. Cambon. 260,38,89. Rooms, confert, private shower, phone. Deliy/monthly rate.

16TH. Living, dining room, bedroom, pornorantic view, sun. # 2000. Rent minimum 1 year. Tel. 50 70 77 29 HORT TEEM near Lustenbourg gardens. No openi. Tel. 529 38 83.

PARIS AREA UNFURNISHED 6th QUAI LOUIS BURBOT, large rooms, view on Seine, F4200. Tel: 500 63 51.

iED HOUSE HUNTERS. Let us do footwork, CSU, Poris 574 23 10. LOS ANGELES CALIFORNIA.
For rent, minimum 1 year, os of Jan. 15 82. $ 4500 per sonstin.
BEGANT COLANTRY PERNON
A BENCINO
4 bedroom, beautifully formished, very spoolous, 4 boths, formal during room, freplaces, bor, cir conditioning els.
LOS ANGELES (13) 755 0010
Teleza LOS ANGELES (13) 755 0010
Teleza LOS ANGELES (13) 755 0010
Teleza LOS ANGELES (13) 755 0010
Teleza LOS ANGELES (13) 755 0010

POR SALE OR LEASE, Florido Keys, 1 or 2-bedroom condos, weekly, month-ly, second, yearly, Starling $375 per week rent or for sole starling $81,500. Dolphin Real Estate, Box 342, Islamo-rada, P. 33036. Tel: 305-664-9770

هیکنامن برمول

TEACHING POSITIONS Altis BASED language school see American TEP, teacher, preferabl Texan. Substantial experienc required. Tel: 776 27 62. * Active Business * * Couple * With one 11 year old, well-trop bright young man, receives with LORNE BESON With exportance in driving, honsen and family care who can take one change of a gracious one family in charge of a graciost one corary re-st and the second stocked and second HOUSECEPER AND BUTLESS. Couple needed as a waitness/houseleapper and butter, or 2 men as footnon/valled and butter on a private estate in New Jensey. Should have knowledge of cooling, free to travel in United States and Europe, and must be English-speaking with US work permits. Aust like dags. A-1 reference required. Places respond to Sax 15333, Herald Tribuns, 92521 Newlity Cedex, France.

ROLLS-ROYCE BRITISH MOTORS WRIGHT BROTHERS

TAX PREF CARS

ALL MAKES & MODELS eith Seist Rosco photos.

RAMPY MOTORS INC, 1250 Geravo-Vertoix, 89 rode Sulste Tel: 022/55 44 43, Telex 28279 or 289477

The newspaper that put the class in classified advertising. Herald

Tribune

The international essential.

Transcruct/ Main - W. Germann H. Isrmonn Gebh, Tek 0611-448071 Pick-sp of over Europe * re/ro-ships TRANSCAR 20 ros La Sueur, 75116 Paris, Tal; 500 03 04, Naas 53 95 33, Antwerp 33 99 85, Carenes 39 43 44, HOLIDAYS & TRAVEL PORTUGAL 7 DAYS INCLUSIVE YOURS

AUTO SHIPPING

SHIP YOUR CAR TO & FROM U.S.A. VIA ANTWER AND SAVE Free ho-tal Regular salings, FK/McGuira Air-port delivery. AMESCO, Kribbashase 2, Antwarp, Belgium. Tel. 31 42 39, Teleso 71469.

MINERVE SERS for AMERICAN FRIMS in FARES.
English, Belgian, Dutch or German secretaries, knowledge of French required, English shorthand. Blinguol telestics. Write or phone 136 Avenue Victor-Hugo, 75116 Paris, France, Tel. 727-61-65. FROM LONDON TO: FIALIAN PREVATE DETECTIVE institute - operating in body and obroad, needs tessenting in body and obroad, needs tessenting in body and obroad presenting and traffic particularly, outstanding bods and conduct. Offsering confere including presidents palary, room and board, automobile at disposition. Writte with recent photos ist, of Policia Private, "I Detective", Via Gerbeidd 85, 98100 Messina, Italy. Tel. 070, 774 888. Please Contacts London, Tal: 493 3873. Tis: 244453.

FROM FRANKFURT TO: Mease Contach midws, Tel: 0611 224 064. Tha 41 5776. for other programs and detailed

HOTELS RESTAURANTS NIGHT CLUBS U.S.A

TRAVEL AGENT

TUDGE MCTEL, 204 East 42nd St., New York City. In feshioneble, first Side Marketten, 15 block from UN, Single From $46; doubles from $40. Teles 422951, Tels 800-822-7538

PR/INTERPRETAR & TOURISM CRUCE Pleasant presentation. Explish/Freach Fam 542 03 67. PARIS-YOUNG LADY, PR. Equilier appearance, Inchilogoid 553 62.62. BERNOUAL BUSINESS & traveling assistant. Tel: 500 50 17 Paris.

SERVICES

PR YOUNG LADY, Infisional, excellent opportunes. Pois 527 GP2.
YOUNG SATISPHETER, travel companion. Foris 533 66 09.
TOURIST GUIDE / P.E. billingual, Good opportunes. Tel: 874 76 77 Foris. Opposition. Tel: 874 / P / F Term.
YOUNG WOMAN to occumpany business associative. Paris 341 17 42

LOW COST FLIGHTS AUSTRALIA/NZ from London. Contact the specialists REHO Travel, 15 New Orderd St (01) 405 8956/404 4944

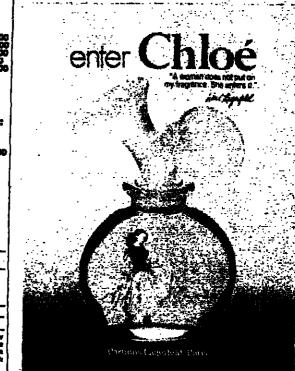

BNOY TOURSET, let ut do the work. Durant, opelage porties, any size, Deli-nous menus topland to your needs. Tour Sincher, 351 74 96 Forts. CHRISTMAS GIFTS

CATERING

FOR MORE CLASSIFIEDS

PAGE 11

Power

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD QUICKLY AND EASILY

SY PHONE Call your local lift representative with your text. You will be informed of the cost immediately, and once prepayment is made your ad will appear within 48 hours. BY MAIL Send your text to your local lift representative and you will be advised of the cost in local currency by return. Payment before publication is necessary.

EY TELEX: If you have an urgent bestiness text, telex us, and it will be published within 48 hours in our INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS MESSAGE CENTER.

for your guidance: the basic rate is $8,20 per line per day + local taxes. There are 25 letters, signs and spaces in the first line and 36 in the following lines. Minimum space is 2 lines. No abbreviations accepted.

VALIDITY

In all the above cases, you can now avoid delay by charging your American Express Card account.

ADDRESS: TEL COUNTRY ad to my American Express Cord account

SIGNATURE:

contact the TRIB's files in your country HEAD OFFICE

Tel.; 26 36 15. tehens: J.C. Remesson Tel.: 361 63 97/360 24 21. remichus: H. Jung or K. Ohli Fel.: 28 36 78.

BIROFE

husaanaa Guy von Thu Tal.: 29 58 94 Jehon: Ritu Ambor Tel.: 67 27 93 & 66 25 44. andon: Michael / Tel.: 242 51 73, Medicida A. Umiculf Surmiento Tel.: 455 28 97 & 455 33 06. Tel.: 679 34 37.

lanna: McKim White Tel.: 52-63-97 & 54-15-00. OTHERS Heng Kongs C. Chenty Tel. 5 - 420 POS Many Yeriki Sandy O'Hora Tel.; 752 36 90. Tel. Avivs Den Ebriich Tel.: 227 873.